The Last Chapter

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

Gentlemen that fix Wall Street's "barometer of prosperity" felt better about their barometer yesterday.

More than 700 corporations had sent out dividend checks. The checks had flowed into out-of-town banks, as brooks flow to rivers and from the "country banks," as high finance condescendingly calls them, the dividends had gone to big New York banks, as rivers flow to the ocean.

"Call money," with which stock gambling is done, dropped to 4½ per cent and men that sometimes know said as though they really believed it: "The slump is over and the boom is coming back."

The trouble is that those optimists know only sometimes and you can never be sure when they mean what they say. Anyhow, high finance chose to seem cheerful, and little people, who feed the ticker Minotaur with their savings, were encouraged and some "increased their commitments."

Then there was the reported purchase of Dodge Brothers Motor company by Dillon, Read & Co., after an alleged desperate struggle with Morgan & Co., as to which should get the prize. This purchase shows that there is some money left, for the Dodge concern must have cost more than $150,000,000. Such a deal shows that somebody has confidence in the future.

The deal is most interesting as proof that there is opportunity for ability and honesty in this country. The Dodge builders, typical American builders, had both qualities and in a few years built up a concern that would be dirt cheap at $200,000,000.

Politicians, like big financiers, are busy, and planning.

With Mr. Coolidge only just settled in his seat, at least 50 Republican candidates for 1928 are solemnly deciding that Coolidge cannot run again "because that would be a third term, and would annoy George Washington."

President Coolidge has been elected only once, and another term would be his second, but the would-be candidates try to forget that.

Democrats are working hard and prematurely, as though they had never heard of the last two pluralities of seven millions each against them.

Judge Olvany, who succeeds Mr. Murphy as head of Tammany Hall, discovers that Governor Smith is the natural presidential candidate for next time, and points out that with only a minority in the legislature he has beaten the Republican majority to a jelly.

Judge Olvany evidently does not agree with the learned Will Rogers, in a recent speech. With the governor, the judge and all the high men of Tammany listening, he said that Governor Smith's chief handicap in his candidacy would be Tammany Hall.

Tammany or no Tammany, the ablest politicians believe that Al Smith will be the next Democratic candidate, and that he has the best chance of getting real votes.

Meanwhile, friends of Lochinvar McAdoo have sent out from the west a call for a McAdoo supporters' conference on April 13, too, at Kansas City.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, chief Al Smith supporter, had just asked for complete party harmony, and McAdoo throws a tomahawk at him.

Calvin Coolidge is said to be sleeping well through all this.

London hears from Moscow that Trotzky is dead, murdered by order of his enemy, Zinovieff. Another report says Trotzky has fled from his villa in the Caucasus, where he took refuge from his enemies.

If the czar looks down or up, as the earth whirls round, and sees Lenin's body lying, embalmed, in state, and Trotzky murdered and thrown in some ditch, he probably concludes that everything comes out all right.

The killing of Trotzky, of which there is no proof, would be in accordance with revolutionary precedent. In the big French upheaval Danton passed under the guillotine blade, first of the great leaders, then Robespierre, who had ordered Danton's execution; then came Marat, killed by a woman, and then Napoleon, who showed the world how to kill on a really big scale.

When will the Russian Napoleon appear and complete the revolutionary turnover?

Young men that perhaps envied and admired young Wood, son of General Wood, when he was gambling and winning in Wall Street, and envied and wondered more, as they read the usual lies about his tremendous gambling profits in Europe, should not miss the last chapter of the story.

It came with young Wood's return to this country, in reply to a reporter's question.

MAIL BANDIT SMILES AS HE AWAITS PEERS' VOTE ON LIFE

Gerald Chapman Case Will go to Jury Before Nightfall.

ARGUMENTS MADE

Notorious Desperado Confident of Acquittal on Murder Count.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 3.—Gerald Chapman's fate is in the hands of a jury.

The case of the notorious super bandit, charged with the murder of James Skelly, a policeman of New Britain, Conn., was given to the jury in superior court at 12:59 this afternoon.

Final Pleas Made.

Attorneys for both sides made final pleas this morning.

Judge Fred Groehl, Chapman's lawyer, urged the jury to send the bandit back to Atlanta—to let him "live and repent." State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn, summing up for the prosecution, pleaded with the jury to find Chapman guilty of murder in the interest of "your country and your state' 'and send him to the gallows.

Early this afternoon Judge Newell Jennings [illegible] his charge to the jury.

Eager Crowds Present.

Chapman entered the court room this morning, visibly elated over memories of his favorable impression made on the witness stand. He smiled confidently while talking with counsel.

Eager crowds outside the court house jostled with a cordon of police for admission to the trial.

The court room was filled hours before Judge Jennings took his place on the bench. Frederick G. Groehl, of the Chapman counsel, faced the jury in a closing 40 minute plea for the life of the mail bandit. He resumed his address shortly after 10 o'clock.

"I do not want this man convicted for a crime, (the murder of Skelly), he did not do," Groehl declared to the

Large Crowd Hears Salvation Army's Divisional Chiefs

Major W. A. Baillie, divisional commander, Cleveland; Major W. H. Heift, Cincinnati, and Major Braunn, Pittsburgh, attended the revival service in the Salvation Army citadel last evening.

Major Heift spoke at the service at which there were ten seekers. The meeting was in charge of Adjutant John G. Dean and Envoy A. B. Carey, divisional revivalist, of Cleveland.

The revival campaign, which opened last Tuesday, will continue tonight and Saturday and all of next week.

TORNADO RELIEF HITS $511 MARK

Additional contributions, which have been received at Red Cross headquarters today, brought the tornado relief fund to the $511 mark.

Mrs. Isaac W. Knowles, formerly of this city, now making her home with relatives at London, Ohio, forwarded a $100 check. The banks turned over to the Red Cross $26 in small contributions left there by depositors. The "Rosebuds of Hadassah," and organization of Jewish girls, contributed $5. Previous contrbutions totaled $385.

The Red Cross will continue to accept contributions for this fund at its Market street headquarters.

Stolen Reo Brougham Carries Pennsylvania License.

Police are attempting to locate the owner of a Reo brougham, carrying a Pennsylvania license, which was abandoned near the corner of Dresden avenue and Ninth street about 9 o'clock this morning. The automobile is believed to have been stolen.

Two boys, who, police say, were about 18 years of age, and who are reported to have driven the car to East Liverpool, escaped across the river into Newell.

Robert Schmidt, proprietor of a Dresden avenue grocery, notified police headuarters that two lads in the machine had aroused his suspicions because of their actions.

Patrolman James Haley, on duty in the Diamond, was instructed to investigate. The lads disappeared when they saw the officer approach. The car was without gasoline, but was

Public Examination Catechumens Sunday In Lutheran Church

Public examination of a class of catechumens, which has been in charge of Dr. J. G. Reinartz, pastor of the St. John's Lutheran church, will take place in the church at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

The holy rites of confirmation will be administered at the 7:30 o'clock service Sunday evening at which time Dr. Reinartz will speak on the subject, "Fight the Height of Faith, Lay Hold on Eternal Life, Where Unto Thou Art Also Called." Special music, appropriate to the occasion, will be given by the choir.

The church will be decorated for this service by a committee of young people. The public is invited to attend.

11-FOOT FENCE ON PATTERSON FIELD PLANNED FOR NEXT FALL

Board of Education Discusses Suggestion of School Officials.

WILL COST $700

Revenue for Half Year $13,000 Short of Estimate.

Patterson Field will be fenced before the 1925 football season starts, if plans discussed by the board of education last night materialize.

The question was brought to the attention of the board in a communication from Miss Florence Updegraff, high school principal, and O. V. Boone, director of athletics, who recommended that the athletic field be enclosed with an 11-foot wire fence, attached to metal posts. It was pointed out that added revenue which would result from encolsing the grounds for athletic games would more than pay for the improvement in one or two seasons.

President J. H. Brookes reported that the fencing would cost about $700. The fence on the north end of the field would not be permanent as this section would be moved as the lot is gradually filled. However, the fence on the remaining three sides would be permanent.

Dumpmaster Place Sought.

The board referred the matter to the buildings and grounds committee, of which George Wilhelm is chairman, with instructions that bids be received and a report made at the next meeting.

Thomas F. Bebout appeared before the board with an application for the position as dumpmaster at the athletic field. He offered to supervise the work of filling the grounds for the salvage which he could obtain from the lot. He promised to be on the job throughout the day and look after the grandstand and other property on the field.

The board instructed Clerk E. J. Gaston to communicate with the city council, recommending the appoint-

ONE DEAD, TWO HURT IN FIRE

Roomer Burns to Death in New York Blaze.

NEW YORK, April 3.—One man was burned to death and two women were injured today in a fire which destroyed the top floor of a boarding house at 210 Lenox avenue.

John Bauman, a roomer, was trapped in his room, where the flames started and perished before help could reach him.

Miss Elizabeth Miller was carried down a scaling ladder to safety by a fireman just as she prepared to leap from the top floor.

Charles Marko, the landlord, and Mrs. Anna McCrea were burned.

Atlas China Co. Will Rebuild Plant Damaged by Fire

The Atlas China company, at Niles, announced today it would rebuild the sections of its plant destroyed by fire last Sunday.

A. O. C. Ahrendts, formerly of Chester, manager of the plant, said that plans for the new department are being prepared and that work will be started as soon as the bebris is cleared away. The loss was estimated at between $250,000 and $300,000 entirely covered by insurance.

Sufficient stock is on hand to fill orders until about May 1. It is not believed that the factory will be ready for operation before August.

Many former East Liverpool potters were thrown out of work by the blaze.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The criminal indictments against the three biggest figures in the great oil "scandal" —ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert D. Fall, Harry F. Sinclair and Edward L. Doheny—were quashed in the supreme court of the District of Columbia today by Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy.

Without expressing any opinion on the guilt or innocence of the accused men, Justice McCoy dismissed the indictment on technical grounds — the principal one being that the presence of a government attorney, Oliver Pagan, in the grand jury room during the taking of testimony vitiated their instruments.

The indictments had charged the trio with criminal conspiracy in the leasing of Teapot Dome oil field to

De Molay Members Will Honor Memory Of Harry Smith

Members of Harding chapter, Order of DeMolay, will meet in the Masonic temple, Broadway, at 7 o'clock tonight, to view the body of the late Harry Smith, high school junior, who died from suffocation last Tuesday afternoon while pinned beneath a farm tractor.

They will march to the Sturgis funeral home, West Fifth street.

Funeral services will be conducted in the Sturgis funeral home at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, with Rev. Peter W. MacCauley, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Lisbon, in charge. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

MERCY RECOMMENDATION BY JURY SAVES SLAYER FROM ELECTRIC CHAIR

Wellsville Man is Found Guilty of Murder of Rocco Benvento, Poolroom Proprietor, Who Was Shot to Death on Street in Neighboring City on Feb. 22 Last.

THIRTEEN BALLOTS TAKEN BY JURORS WHO DEBATE CASE FOR SEVEN HOURS

Judge Calvin H. Wood of Mt. Gilead Passes Sentence After Advised of Motion by Defense for New Trial — Prosecutor Robert M. Brookes Victor in First Murder Case.

A jury's recommendation of mercy, in returning a first degree murder verdict, today saved James Gagliardi, 45, Wellsville mill worker, from the death chair as a penalty for killing Rocco Benvento, 23, poolroom owner.

Judge Calvin H. Wood, of Mt. Gilead, sentenced Gagliardi to life imprisonment in the penitentiary.

"Guilty of first degree murder, with mercy recommended," was the verdict returned by the jurors at 9:37 o'clock last night at Lisbon, following more than seven hours' deliberation of the evidence in the case.

Gagliardi, who was represented by Attorney J. C. Hanley, of East Liverpool, and George T. Farrell, of Lisbon, claimed he shot and killed Benvento in self-defense on the street in Wellsville on Feb. 22, last.

Prosecutor Robert M. Brookes, of East Liverpool, and his assistant, J. E. Bauknecht, of East Palestine, asked the death penalty in their arguments to the jury.

Will Seek New Trial.

The jury, which took 13 ballots before returning its verdict was unanimous for conviction from the first vote, it is said, but the debate ensued over the question of recommending mercy.

When the convicted man was asked by Judge Wood today if he had anything to say before sentence was passed, Gagliardi turned to his counsel and made a statement which prompted their announcement that a motion for a new trial would be filed within the three-day limit permitted by law. This motion probably will be filed this afternoon.

Judge Wood, after passing sentence, ordered Sheriff George Wright to detain the prisoner in the county jail for five days. This means the prisoner will be held in Lisbon until Judge Wood returns from Morrow county to hear arguments on the motion for a new trial.

The verdict was a victory for the state in the first murder trial prosecuted by Prosecutor Brookes since assumption of his office early in January.

Jurors Ask Question.

The jury returned its verdict at 9:22 o'clock last night after considering the evidence from 1:55 o'clock.

At 3:08 o'clock, the jurors, suspending balloting, handed the following written question to the judge:

"Does first degree murder with

FIRE DAMAGES KILNSHED ROOF

Members of the East End and Central fire department were called to the No. 1 plant of the Homer Laughlin China company, East End, at 7 o'clock last evening by fire which started in the roof around a decorating kiln.

The blaze was kept under control by automatic sprinklers, pending the arrival of the firemen, who extinguished it with chemicals. The loss was small.

SKEGGS NAMED ROTARY GOVERNOR

CANTON, April 3.—Leonard Skeggs of Youngstown was today elected governor of 21sth Ohio Rotary district.

Inter-city Raider Bureau Quits; Two Under Indictment

The Harris - Webster Detective agency of Steubenville, whose operatives took part in the East Liverpool - Wellsville liquor raiders' war last January, following enactment of the fine-splitting sleuth measure by the city council here, has passed out of existence.

Caleb S. Harris, senior member of the agency, left Steubenville Tuesday, asserting that he was going to Columbus to engage in prohibition work. Charles Webster, his partner, quit Steubenville about a month ago.

Both Harris and Webster are under indictment in the Jefferson county courts on charges of assault growing out of a liquor raid near Knoxville last December. They were connected with the courts of three Jefferson county village mayors, who have been called before Governor Donahey on complaints that they were abusing the privileges of their offices in liquor enforcement operations.

J. N. KIRKENDALL DIES OF FEVER

Funeral Services Will be Held Here Tomorrow.

J. Neil Kirkendall, 35, a former resident of this city, died at the Warren city hospital, at 10 o'clock, Thursday morning, following a four week's illness of typhoid fever and pneumonia.

He is a son of Mrs. Milo Kirkendall, and graduated from the East Liverpool high school with the class of 1909. He studied chemistry at Carnegie Tech following his graduation and for several years worked as a mail carrier at the local postoffice. Later he went to Warren where he has been employed as a chemist for the Trumbull Steel corporation.

Mr. Kirkendall is survived by his mother, his wife, formerly Miss Ethel Williams, and two children, Betty Jane and Robert Neil, twins. One sister, Miss May Kirkendall, of this city, also survives.

He was a member of Riddle Lodge No. 315, F. & A. M., of this city and the First Church of Christ.

The body will be brought to the First Church of Christ at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon where funeral services will be conducted. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

Building Collapses; Six Pupils Killed.

ALMERIA, Spain, April 3.—Six pupils were killed, six seriously injured and many slightly injured when the roof of a school building fell in here today. Dampness was blamed for the accident.

MENTAL STATUS OF ELLINGSON GIRL MAY BE DETERMINED THIS WEEK

Speeding Matricide's Insanity Trial, Counsel Plan to Finish Case by Adjournment Tonight.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—The mental status of Dorothy Ellingson probably will be determined this week.

Speeding her sanity trial today, her counsel planned to finish their case by adjournment of court tonight.

Testimony of Dr. Jau Don Ball and possibly one or two other alienists was expected to conclude the defense case. The basis of their case in the form of hypothetical questions has been built in lay evidence now before the jury of nine men and three women who will determine the issue.

Summaries of this evidence indicated:

1. Pre natal influences of a mentally disturbed mother and an alcoholic father predisposed the 17-year-old girl to insanity and waywardness in extreme youth.

3—Abnormal physical development for her age, an unstable vaso-motor system, an under-functioning thyoid gland and an absnomarry high blood pressure.

4—Unnatural conduct immediately after the slaying of her mother in attending a party and the abnormal slaying itself.

The case was practically in reverse

JUSTICE RULES AGAINST JURY'S VERDICT IN COL. DENNISTOUN CASE

Pretty Divorced Wife of British Army Officer Loses $25,000 Damages Awarded Her.

LONDON, April 3.—In the face of the jury's verdict that Colonel Ian Dennistoun had entered into an agreement to support his divorced wife, Justice McCardie today handed down his decision that the agreement was void and unenforceable.

By the decision pretty Mrs. Dorothy Dennistoun loses the $25,000 damages against her former husband which the jury awarded her. Technical rulings added by Justice McCardie practically divided the costs of the case between Col and Mrs. Dennistoun.

A stay of execution was granted by the justice in order to permit either Dennistoun or his wife to enter an appeal.

McCardie held that Col. Dennistoun had not acted oppressively and therefore should not be held for the costs upon the claim for breach of contract which his divorced wife brought against him.

Defends English Social Life.

The jury had awarded Mrs. Dennistoun, who divorced Dennistoun prior to his marriage to Lady Carnarvon, $25,000 damages and $6,000 debt claims after a trial which electrified London with its testimony of intrigue in the upper strata of social London

ONE-YEAR FIGHT

Government Expected to Appeal in Oil Investigation.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The criminal indictments against the three biggest figures in the great oil "scandal"—ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert D. Fall, Harry F. Sinclair and Edward L. Doheny—were quashed in the supreme court of the District of Columbia today by Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy.

Without expressing any opinion on the guilt or innocence of the accused men, Justice McCoy dismissed the indictment on technical grounds — the principal one being that the presence of a government attorney, Oliver Pagan, in the grand jury room during the taking of testimony vitiated their instruments.

The indictments had charged the trio with criminal conspiracy in the leasing of Teapot Dome oil field to

De Molay Members Will Honor Memory Of Harry Smith

Members of Harding chapter, Order of DeMolay, will meet in the Masonic temple, Broadway, at 7 o'clock tonight, to view the body of the late Harry Smith, high school junior, who died from suffocation last Tuesday afternoon while pinned beneath a farm tractor.

They will march to the Sturgis funeral home, West Fifth street.

Funeral services will be conducted in the Sturgis funeral home at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, with Rev. Peter W. MacCauley, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Lisbon, in charge. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

MERCY RECOMMENDATION BY JURY SAVES SLAYER FROM ELECTRIC CHAIR

Wellsville Man is Found Guilty of Murder of Rocco Benvento, Poolroom Proprietor, Who Was Shot to Death on Street in Neighboring City on Feb. 22 Last.

THIRTEEN BALLOTS TAKEN BY JURORS WHO DEBATE CASE FOR SEVEN HOURS

Judge Calvin H. Wood of Mt. Gilead Passes Sentence After Advised of Motion by Defense for New Trial — Prosecutor Robert M. Brookes Victor in First Murder Case.

A jury's recommendation of mercy, in returning a first degree murder verdict, today saved James Gagliardi, 45, Wellsville mill worker, from the death chair as a penalty for killing Rocco Benvento, 23, poolroom owner.

Judge Calvin H. Wood, of Mt. Gilead, sentenced Gagliardi to life imprisonment in the penitentiary.

"Guilty of first degree murder, with mercy recommended," was the verdict returned by the jurors at 9:37 o'clock last night at Lisbon, following more than seven hours' deliberation of the evidence in the case.

Gagliardi, who was represented by Attorney J. C. Hanley, of East Liverpool, and George T. Farrell, of Lisbon, claimed he shot and killed Benvento in self-defense on the street in Wellsville on Feb. 22, last.

Prosecutor Robert M. Brookes, of East Liverpool, and his assistant, J. E. Bauknecht, of East Palestine, asked the death penalty in their arguments to the jury.

Will Seek New Trial.

The jury, which took 13 ballots before returning its verdict was unanimous for conviction from the first vote, it is said, but the debate ensued over the question of recommending mercy.

When the convicted man was asked by Judge Wood today if he had anything to say before sentence was passed, Gagliardi turned to his counsel and made a statement which prompted their announcement that a motion for a new trial would be filed withiu the three-day limit permitted by law. This motion probably will be filed this afternoon.

Judge Wood, after passing sentence, ordered Sheriff George Wright to detain the prisoner in the county jail for five days. This means the prisoner will be held in Lisbon until Judge Wood returns from Morrow county to hear arguments on the motion for a new trial.

The verdict was a victory for the state in the first murder trial prosecuted by Prosecutor Brookes since assumption of his office early in January.

Jurors Ask Question.

The jury returned its verdict at 9:22 o'clock last night after considering the evidence from 1:55 o'clock.

At 3:08 o'clock, the jurors, suspending balloting, handed the following written question to the judge:

"Does first degree murder with

Inter-city Raider Bureau Quits; Two Under Indictment

The Harris - Webster Detective agency of Steubenville, whose operatives took part in the East Liverpool - Wellsville liquor raiders' war last January, following enactment of the fine-splitting sleuth measure by the city council here, has passed out of existence.

Caleb S. Harris, senior member of the agency, left Steubenville Tuesday, asserting that he was going to Columbus to engage in prohibition work. Charles Webster, his partner, quit Steubenville about a month ago.

Both Harris and Webster are under indictment in the Jefferson county courts on charges of assault growing out of a liquor raid near Knoxville last December. They were connected with the courts of three Jefferson county village mayors, who have been called before Governor Donahey on complaints that they were abusing the privileges of their offices in liquor enforcement operations.

FIRE DAMAGES KILNSHED ROOF

Members of the East End and Central fire department were called to the No. 1 plant of the Homer Laughlin China company, East End, at 7 o'clock last evening by fire which started in the roof around a decorating kiln.

The blaze was kept under control by automatic sprinklers, pending the arrival of the firemen, who extinguished it with chemicals. The loss was small.

SKEGGS NAMED ROTARY GOVERNOR

CANTON, April 3.—Leonard Skeggs of Youngstown was today elected governor of 218th Ohio Rotary district.

J. N. KIRKENDALL DIES OF FEVER

Funeral Services Will be Held Here Tomorrow.

J. Neil Kirkendall, 35, a former resident of this city, died at the Warren city hospital, at 10 o'clock, Thursday morning, following a four week's illness of typhoid fever and pneumonia.

He is a son of Mrs. Milo Kirkendall, and graduated from the East Liverpool high school with the class of 1909. He studied chemistry at Carnegie Tech following his graduation and for several years worked as a mail carrier at the local postoffice. Later he went to Warren where he has been employed as a chemist for the Trumbull Steel corporation.

Mr. Kirkendall is survived by his mother, his wife, formerly Miss Ethel Williams, and two children, Betty Jane and Robert Neil, twins. One sister, Miss May Kirkendall, of this city, also survives.

He was a member of Riddle Lodge No. 315, F. & A. M., of this city and the First Church of Christ.

The body will be brought to the First Church of Christ at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon where funeral services will be conducted. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

Building Collapses; Six Pupils Killed.

ALMERIA, Spain, April 3.—Six pupils were killed, six seriously injured and many slightly injured when the roof of a school building fell in here today. Dampness was blamed for the accident.

MENTAL STATUS OF ELLINGSON GIRL MAY BE DETERMINED THIS WEEK

Speeding Matricide's Insanity Trial, Counsel Plan to Finish Case by Adjournment Tonight.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—The mental status of Dorothy Ellingson probably will be determined this week.

Speeding her sanity trial today, her counsel planned to finish their case by adjournment of court tonight.

Testimony of Dr. Jau Don Ball and possibly one or two other alienists was expected to conclude the defense case. The basis of their case in the form of hypothetical questions has been built in lay evidence now before the jury of nine men and three women who will determine the issue.

Summaries of this evidence indicated:

1. Pre-natal influences of a mentally disturbed mother and an alcoholic father pre-disposed the 17-year-old girl to insanity and waywardness in extreme youth.

3—Abnormal physical development for her age, an unstable vaso-motor system, an under-functioning thyoid giand and an absnomarry high blood pressure.

4—Unnatural conduct immediately after the slaying of her mother in attending a party and the abnormal slaying itself.

JUSTICE RULES AGAINST JURY'S VERDICT IN COL. DENNISTOUN CASE

Pretty Divorced Wife of British Army Officer Loses $25,000 Damages Awarded Her.

LONDON, April 3.—In the face of the jury's verdict that Colonel Ian Dennistoun had entered into an agreement to support his divorced wife, Justice McCardie today handed down his decision that the agreement was void and unenforceable.

By the decision pretty Mrs. Dorothy Dennistoun loses the $25,000 damages against her former husband which the jury awarded her. Technical rulings added by Justice McCardie practically divided the costs of the case between Col and Mrs. Dennistoun.

A stay of execution was granted by the justice in order to permit either Dennistoun or his wife to enter an appeal.

McCardie held that Col. Dennistoun had not acted oppressively and therefore should not be held for the costs upon the claim for breach of contract which his divorced wife brought against him.

Defends English Social Life.

The jury had awarded Mrs. Dennistoun, who divorced Dennistoun prior to his marriage to Lady Carnarvon, $25,000 damages and $6,000 debt claims after a trial which electrified London with its testimony of intrigue in the upper strata of social London

Home.

The gods had been planning and scheming one day
For a new kind of joy and a new kind of play,
So they left the blue sky and they came down below
And they looked all around 'till a place that I know
Caught their hearts and their eyes, and they shouted 'Now, we're
Just going to build us a paradise here."
So they brought down a bit of the sun from the sky
And a particle sweet of a song floating by;
They mixed them with something, 'twas just half and half
Of sorrow and gladness—a tear and a laugh;
And, here and then there, from the realms high above
They brough them and sprinkled them—ashes of love.

They walled them all inw ith a trust strong and true,
And windows they made where the light could shine through;
And they roofed it all over with shingles of joy
That seasons nor weather nor hate could destroy.
And then—I could never tell why it should be—
They sealed it and blessed it and gave it to me.

Spends His Fortune Chasing Phantom Fortune in U. S.

PRAGUE, April — Adolf Kluger, a tailor of Olmeuetz, has spent his entire fortune chasing a phantom fortune in the United States.

A Moravian named Sigel died in the United States and advertisements appeared in the Czech Slovakian newspapers for information as to his heirs. Kluger devoted his entire time and money to proving that he was the rightful heir, and promised his fellow townsmen that he would build them a gymnasium and equip a new fire department when he came into his fortune.

Sigel's will has arrived from the United States and shows that he left no estate whatever.

Pupil Suspected as Explosion Wrecks Schoolhouse, Killing One

Did a pupil cause the explosion that wrecked the Wilkins public school in Pittsburgh? Authorities are investigating the blast, for which no reason can be assigned, from this angle. The only person in the building at the time, an aged janitor, was buried in the ruins. The loss exceeds $100,000.

Announcing the New Clasp-Front Madame X Reducing Girdle

New model opens in front; back lacing makes it easily adjustable as you become more slender. Has all the superior features of the original reducing girdle. Based on the same principle of rubber massage, that quickly takes off many inches from waist, hips and thighs.

AND now an entirely new model of the famous Madame X Girdle that you can get on or off in a jiffy! The new clasp-front Madame X has all the superior features of the original step-in model and is like it in every way, except that it is hooked down the front and can be quickly opened and adjusted.

Is worn as a corset, over the undergarment and will take inches from waist, hips and thighs in an amazingly short time. The cut out front insures perfect comfort and freedom, and the back lacing makes it easy to adjust as you become more slender. Gives marvelous support to the muscles of back and sides. The attractive brocaded rubber, soft and flexible as a fine kid glove, makes a garment as dainty as it is comfortable and effective in reducing. So strong and durable it will not crack or split. Hand-turned hem prevents tearing.

Is worn as a corset, over the undergarment and will take inches from waist, hips and thighs in an amazingly short time. The cut out front insures perfect comfort and freedom, and the back lacing makes it easy to adjust as you become more slender. Gives marvelous support to the muscles of back and sides. The attractive brocaded rubber, soft and flexible as a fine kid glove, makes a garment as dainty as it is comfortable and effective in reducing. So strong and durable it will not crack or split. Hand-turned hem prevents tearing.

Smartness Achieved by Simple, Individual Lines

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Review-Tribune Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau can not give advice on legal, medical and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. How long is a visitor's permit good for in this country?—E. F.

A. It is good for six months.

Q. Was the name "Buffalo Bill" applied first to William Mathewson or to Bill Cody?—C. S. W.

A. This has been a controversial question. A friend of both men says that there is no doubt that Mathewson was known by that name first but only to the Indians and pioneers, while Bill Cody was so known to the world at large. Mathewson was never a claimant for the title and was intimate friends of Cody's. It might well be said that "Bill Mathewson had the name first but it remained for Cody to make it famous."

Q. Is there a Federal law requiring that a dog be shot if it has bitten a person?—D. S.

A. There is no Federal law of this character. Many States require such action.

Q. Why do some electric light bulbs turn white when they go bad?—G. H.

A. The Bureau of Standards says if a lamp bulb cracks or if the bulb has been improperly exhausted and air comes into contact with the heated tungsten filament, it actually burns, producing the oxide of tungsten, which is a yellowish power. If a bulb becomes white, it indicates that the bulb leaks where the lead-in-wire enters the bulb, or a small crack in the glass somewhere allows air to enter the bulb and the filament burns up.

Q. I have a Swiss watch number 60. What year was it made?—M. W.

A. Authorities on old clocks and watches state that numbers in watches are not always a sufficient guide to the maker or the date of the time piece. Until recent years it was a practice among certain manufacturers to begin with a high number; the date or two or three figures of the date aer often selected to being the series. The series sometimes represents a cryptogram wheerby the initiated can obtain the date of manufacture.

Q. Have photographs of Kilauea ever been made from the air?—D. G.

A. The 11th Phio. Section of the United States Air Service and Captain Ariel L. Varges of the International News Reel Corporation have recently made photographs, "still" and motion-picture. These are the first aerial photographs of the volcano which have been made.

Q. How was the Sears-Roebuck firm started?—W. J. H.

A. Mr. Roebuck was originally employed by Mr. Richard W. Sears, about 35 years ago as a watch repair man, when Mr. Sears was a very young man and in his early business career when he was doing business in the name of the R. W. Sears Watch Company, which business he sold out and agreed not to go into the mail order watch business again, in his own name for three years. In the meantime he used the name of A. C. Roebuck and had advertised under that name considerably until the three years expired. He then changed the name of Sears, Roebuck and company at Minneapolis. Mr. Roebuck was really never financially interested in the business to any extent, but was in its employment. He has had no connection of any kind with the company during the past 25 years.

Q. By what name is the widow of Lafcadio Hearn known in Japan?—C. J.

A. Mrs. Heorn is known as Mrs. Koizumi.

City Men Require Eight Suits, Says This Authority

CHICAGO, March.—"Seven suits, besides evening dress, is the city man's minimum wardrobe."

This was the declaration of Secretary H. S. Leavitt, of the Illinois Retail Clothers and Furnishers' association, speaking before members at their fifteenth annual convention.

The small town man, on the other hand, has four suits and an extra one for evening wear.

"If he is a smart dresser," added Leavitt, "he will put a red 'hankie' in his breast pocket and wear a tie to match.

"Colored hosiery will continue to be popular this Spring, and so will the new broad, slightly turned up hats. Gray will be the most prevailing.

"Stiff collars to match shirts became popular in the cities, but not in the college towns. College men did not find them comfortable.

"Only practical styles became popular among the male sex. The soft collar attached to the shirt is a practical device, which accounts for its widespread wear," concluded Leavitt.

Town to Impose Tax on Weight to Balance Budget

ROME, April.—To balance the municipal budget, the authorities of Villafranca D'Asti have decided to impose a tax on the bodies of its population.

The population, who in the past have been notorious as very lax taxpayers, have agreed to the new taxation, which will be levied according to the weight of the body, with a minimum for children of two lire.

The maximum tax is seven lire for people weighing above a hundred kilogrammes.

Silk cocoon production of Spain has been as much as 2,000,000 pounds in a year.

Shortage of wool in China has greatly curtailed the production of the famous rugs of that country.

New Arms Conference

Everything now points to another arms conference at Washington, possibly during the summer or fall. It would be a logical step in continuance of the policy established by the last conference, which set a limit to naval strength. The administration wants it, and in sounding out foreign powers finds them generally favorable. An official invitation may be issued now at almost any time, with reasonable certainty of acceptance.

It is air armament that is involved now.

Some further efforts may be made to curtail navies. With battleship strength limited, and the modern value of battleships doubted anyway, there might be a further cut in dreadnought tonnage. Submarines might be limited more strictly than was attempted before. The submarine is regarded as an essential instrument of defense; but it might be so controlled in size and cruising power that it would be confined automatically to that purpose, being incapable of attacking an enemy at a distance. Armored cruisers might be censored, too, and airplane carriers as well.

There is no hope of doing anything to limit land armies until Europe has worked out some kind of peace pact satisfactory to the powers there, especially to France.

So in every such discussion we come back inevitably to air armament. The powers, big and little, look more and more to the air for both attack and defense. But the airplane is becoming essentially a weapon of attack. It would be used in any future war, more than any other fighting arm, for attack at a distance. So non-aggressive nations want to curtail the building of powerful fighting and bombing planes, to insure peace and to avoid unnecessary expense in competitive building. The next conference, therefore, will be primarily an air conference.

German Politics

It is questioned whether the German national election that elected nobody was a victory for the conservatives or the liberals.

A conservative won the highest vote, in the person of Dr. Jarres; but he represented the combined strength of two parties, the Nationalist and Conservative Bourgeois. The largest single party vote was the Socialist vote cast for Otto Braun, and the three liberal parties together are credited with 20 per cent more than the combined vote of the four conservative parties.

There is no telling which party or candidate will win in the second election, in which a mere plurality will suffice. If the Socialists win, however, there will be no such alarm as a Socialist victory would bring in this country. Germany has had a Socialist government for several years, without doing anything very revolutionary. German Socialism is apparently only a moderate link, having nothing in common with Bolshevism.

One of the most satisfactory results of this election, to most Americans as well as most Germans, was the emphatic repudiation of Gen. Ludendorff, reputed "brains" of the late German war, a militarist parading as a Fascist. He polled only a couple of hundred thousand votes.

Crime News

Perhaps the reason why some critics complain that crime is too much emphasized in the newspapers is that they emphasize crime in their reading. In answer to such a published criticism recently, the New York World promptly analyzed the front pages of the four leading New York newspapers and found that the stories of crime actually occupied a small space in the day's news.

The Toronto Globe points out that crime is news, like anything else, and that it would be absorbing human interest even if there were no daily newspapers at all. People would gather in their homes or on the street to discuss any given crime, undoubtedly exaggerating the details and misstating the facts as a good newspaper would not do. Crime has always held a large place in literature.

It is likely that if an honest critic set about seriously to check up on the daily newspapers, as printed, he would find to his own surprise that his paper is full of wholesome, cheerful matters, and that when spectacular news is lacking, interest is found in well-written stories about quiet and seemingly uneventful lives.

Any reader might check up for a week on his own favorite newspaper by way of relief from the cross-word puzzle. He would undoubtedly be surprised and pleased, and he would learn something about a more intelligent use and enjoyment of his paper.

A Dog Monument

A fine statue of Balto, the lead dog of the team that carried the diphtheria serum to Nome, is to erected in Central Park, New York. There will be a heroic bronze figure of Balto, and on the stone base below, carved in relief, will be a representation of the entire dog team tugging at the sledge, with the driver urging them on. The monument will cost $7,000.

Balto is expected to be present "in person" at the dedication. He is one of the few beings, canine or human, distinguished by having monuments raised to them during their lifetime.

Balto himself may not care much. But as it usual with monuments, it will be a good thing for the donors and the beholders. The memorial is intended as "a striking figure pointing to humanity's gratitude to brutes that have helped mankind in great emergencies."

We could stand more of such monuments. And while celebrating dogs, why overlook the equally faithful and heroic horse? Many a horse in American history has earned such distinction in war and peace, from colonial times down to the present day. It would be easy to find worthy examples in any section or state.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

PARIS, April 3.—I spent my last night in Paris at the top of Montmartre hill among the dreamers, poets and philosophers watching the lights twinkle up from below. The great white cathedral of the Sacre Coeur was silhouetted in the distance.

I dined at Nini's in a little, narrow alley-like street. It is a step from the Place du Tertre and many a famous artist has drawn out a frugal meal there. Along the curbs were models and painters in corduroys singing to guitars.

Nini's place is typically Parisian. The past is still the past there. You enter through the kitchen to be greeted by Nini herself. She has a a snowy, crackling apron. She has a robust and matronly figure and wears ruddy face and sharp tongue.

She hurls orders at the shivering man of all work—a patient creature perpetually cowed. Nini does all the cooking and her eccentricities of speech blend with her culinary skill. Only twice has she been down to Paris. Her world is Montmartre.

Off the kitchen is the tiny dining room, seating about 12. It is shining. A small piano has bracketed coal oil lamps. Through the windows the moon was whitening the stones in the court. A long haired poet stopped there to sing for sous flung in his velvet cap.

Nini greeted us with "You know Alex Woolcott. He is my good friend." Then she told a story that cannot be repeated here and lifted her glass of cognac, a rite that always precedes her cooking of the meal. As the pans rattled she berated the slinking servant.

Nini knows what wine is needed. There is poetry to her poulet roti avec pommes frites. Montmartre says Nini has grown rich. On gala occasions she will wear her diamonds—clusters of them.

In the afternoon I strolled through a little street known as rue Visconti. Voltaire lived there, as did Delacroix, the great painter. Also Balsac in the days when he dreamed of being a great publisher. But it interested me most because it was the street in which Oscar Wilde came to his tragic end. It is a garret room of a shabby lodging house at the upper end of the street. On the top floor Wilde, whose works have made the whole world laugh and cry, died, deserted, friendless and alone. In this grimy little section the brilliant, sparkling mind refused to function. During his final illness he was cared for only by the patron of the little hotel and a kindly chambermaid. Two days before he died he sat all day looking out the window—dreaming no doubt of the days when he was the toast of the highest society in London and Paris. His funeral was held from the church of the Saint-Germain des Pres and only a handful of fellow lodgers were present. Of such stuff is fame.

The favorite rendezvous of Oscar Wilde, by the way, continues to be the most interesting spot in Paris to me. That is a sidewalk table in front of the Cafe de la Paix. Many exiled Americans continue this "yokel stuff." They have the same attitude of the New Yorker toward those who ride in the sightseeing buses. It is easy to get a boy out of the country, but difficult to get the "country" out of the boy. I shall continue to enjoy sitting in front of the Cafe de la Paix and riding in yap wagons to the end.

The sommelier—or wine waiter—in cafes is a type. He serves only the wine and is distinguished from his fellow waiters by a black apron. He is always red faced and pudgy and usually tipsy from consuming the left-overs in the bottles he serves. He moves about turtle fashion to keep from staggering on his feet. There is a legend in France that the sommelier invariably lives to a ripe old age.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By LUTHER A. HUSTON.

TOKIO, April 3.—"Bootleg dancing" is the vogue just now in Tokio.

That does not mean that those who dance are bootleggers, for that species of the genus homo is unknown in the Japanese capital. Neither does it mean that those who attend the dances come loaded with liquor, internally or externally, nor anything like that.

It simply means that those who wish to dance in Tokio nowadays have to do so surreptitiously, much after the alleged furtive and illicit manner by which booch is acquired, if any, within the jurisdiction of the eighteenth amendment.

For some unexplained reason the mass psychology of Japan apparently regards dancing as a manifestation of decadent self-indulgence. To dance, the idea seems to be, is to be unfaithful to the high ideals of conduct which all patriotic Japanese should observe.

It would be improper, of course, to say that all Japanese object to dancing. Lots of them like it. Even many who do not like it themselves have no objection to others dancing. But there is an active element, apparently quite well organized, that frowns upon dancing, and this element has virtually succeeded in preventing all public dancing in Japan for many months.

The first manifestation against dancing, it will be recalled, was made last June, when members of an organization called Taikosha, which means literally "Great Forward Society," created an uproar that reverberated across the Pacific by breaking up a dance at the Imperial hotel. Many Americans, including members of the staff of the United States embassy, and other foreigners were thrown into a panic when the valiant Taikosha band entered the ballroom and broke up the party.

Since that time there has been no regular public dancing at the Imperial hotel or anywhere else in Tokio.

Officially there is a police ban against dancing in Japanese restaurants. The ban has never been interpreted as applying to foreigners, but the fact remains that when foreigners dance at the hotel or elsewhere in public, some Japanese dance also. Therefore the police will give no protection to these dances and such organizations as the Taikosha meet with little opposition if they decide to take action.

Recently the Imperial hotel attempted to hold regular Saturday night dinner dances. After two weeks there were discontinued. No reason was given, but it was rumored that the management of the hotel had received warnings that continuation of the dancing would mean repetition of incidents similar to that of last June.

So now, if Americans or Europeans in Tokio want to dance they have to assemble, more or less secretly, in some private and secluded room, muffle the saxophone, the slide trombone and the trap drums, and tread exceedingly soft the measure of the festive fox trot. The result is that dances are few and far between and only those who are most ardent in pursuit of the pastime indulge in it.

Of course, it is only the dances of the Occident that meet with the disapproval of the patriotic anti-dancing Japanese. Nightly the gaities of the geisha houses, where the dances of the Orient flouish, proceed unmolested. It is the joyful jazz and not the seductive strains of the samisen that arouses Japanese resentmane.

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

They're Chewing Gum in Europe.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 3.—It has not been so long ago that the memory of man runs not to the contrary when Americans were freely criticised in England and on the continent for two things—their vulgar display of wealth and their habit of chewing gum.

Now Europeans nestle right up to us and encourage us in every possible way not only to display our wealth and spend it, but to lend it and forget all about the I. O. U.'s. Also they are chewing our chewing gum and liking it!

American gum has been so generally accepted by the English, according to a report of the Department of Commerce, that sales are very little affected in competition with the island-made variety which sells at approximately one-half the price. France, Denmark and Scotland are also large consumers of American gum, with Germany fast acquiring a taste that should result in larger sales by the United States.

In England gum chewing is a seasonal occupation, or pastime. Beginning with January, sales of the commodity reach the peak during the summer months, and they fall off perceptibly with the approach of the Christmas season.

Discussing confectionery generally, the report says that with the possible exception of continental Europe, where easy access to raw materials has developed the market to the point where American exporters find it difficult to meet the price competition of foreign manufacturers, most of the countries offer fields for the further development of the export trade of this country.

The idiosyncrasies of the trade must be understood and catered to in order to sell in competition with the foreign products now on the market, it is stated. The French and the Belgians do not like their candy boxed, but prefer to select the size, type and contents, their inclinations tending toward the ornamental box. The Latvian trade prefers plain cardboard containers. Two distinct types of confections are imported by Morocco, a better grade for the wealthy and for foreigners, and a cheaper grade for the natives. Chocolate and caramels are most popular in Sweden, while in Portuguese East Africa hard candies are favored.

In some of the markets which seem to offer large possibilities to American exporters, especially at points of transit, American confections are not displayed for sale. The department stresses the value of advertising in order to popularize confectionery lines, and gives the preferred methods of procedure for entring those markets.

Foodstuffs Exports Increase.

American farmers may not be greatly interested in the foreign market for chewing gum and candy, but they will be in the growing demand abroad for foodstuffs produced in the United States, which is shown in another report of the Department of Commerce. Foodstuffs exports increased last year $127,028,000 over 1924, and the rapid growth in these

New Arms Conference

Everything now points to another arms conference at Washington, possibly during the summer or fall. It would be a logical step in continuance of the policy established by the last conference, which set a limit to naval strength. The administration wants it, and in sounding out foreign powers finds them generally favorable. An official invitation may be issued now at almost any time, with reasonable certainty of acceptance.

It is air armament that is involved now.

Some further efforts may be made to curtail navies. With battleship strength limited, and the modern value of battleships doubted anyway, there might be a further cut in dreadnought tonnage. Submarines might be limited more strictly than was attempted before. The submarine is regarded as an essential instrument of defense; but it might be so controlled in size and cruising power that it would be confined automatically to that purpose, being incapable of attacking an enemy at a distance. Armored cruisers might be censored, too, and airplane carriers as well.

There is no hope of doing anything to limit land armies until Europe has worked out some kind of peace pact satisfactory to the powers there, especially to France.

So in every such discussion we come back inevitably to air armament. The powers, big and little, look more and more to the air for both attack and defense. But the airplane is becoming essentially a weapon of attack. It would be used in any future war, more than any other fighting arm, for attack at a distance. So non-aggressive nations want to curtail the building of powerful fighting and bombing planes, to insure peace and to avoid unnecessary expense in competitive building. The next conference, therefore, will be primarily an air conference.

German Politics

It is questioned whether the German national election that elected nobody was a victory for the conservatives or the liberals.

A conservative won the highest vote, in the person of Dr. Jarres; but he represented the combined strength of two parties, the Nationalist and Conservative Bourgeois. The largest single party vote was the Socialist vote cast for Otto Braun, and the three liberal parties together are credited with 20 per cent more than the combined vote of the four conservative parties.

There is no telling which party or candidate will win in the second election, in which a mere plurality will suffice. If the Socialists win, however, there will be no such alarm as a Socialist victory would bring in this country. Germany has had a Socialist government for several years, without doing anything very revolutionary. German Socialism is apparently only a moderate link, having nothing in common with Bolshevism.

One of the most satisfactory results of this election, to most Americans as well as most Germans, was the emphatic repudiation of Gen. Ludendorff, reputed "brains" of the late German war, a militarist parading as a Fascist. He polled only a couple of hundred thousand votes.

Crime News

Perhaps the reason why some critics complain that crime is too much emphasized in the newspapers is that they emphasize crime in their reading. In answer to such a published criticism recently, the New York World promptly analyzed the front pages of the four leading New York newspapers and found that the stories of crime actually occupied a small space in the day's news.

The Toronto Globe points out that crime is news, like anything else, and that it would be absorbing human interest even if there were no daily newspapers at all. People would gather in their homes or on the street to discuss any given crime, undoubtedly exaggerating the details and misstating the facts as a good newspaper would not do. Crime has always held a large place in literature.

It is likely that if an honest critic set about seriously to check up on the daily newspapers, as printed, he would find to his own surprise that his paper is full of wholesome, cheerful matters, and that when spectacular news is lacking, interest is found in well-written stories about quiet and seemingly uneventful lives.

Any reader might check up for a week on his own favorite newspaper by way of relief from the cross-word puzzle. He would undoubtedly be surprised and pleased, and he would learn something about a more intelligent use and enjoyment of his paper.

A Dog Monument

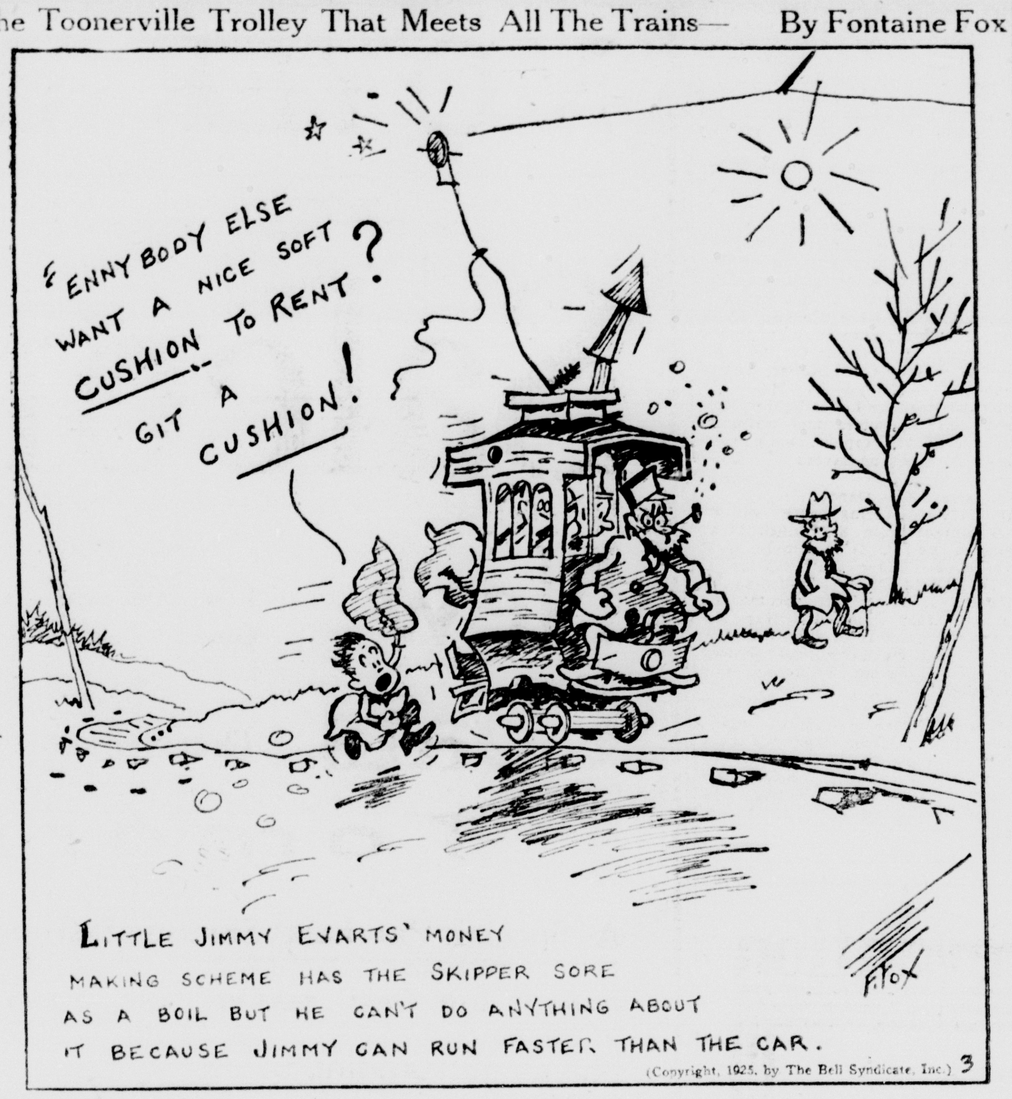

A fine statue of Balto, the lead dog of the team that carried the diphtheria serum to Nome, is to erected in Central Park, New York. There will be a heroic bronze figure of Balto, and on the stone base below, carved in relief, will be a representation of the entire dog team tugging at the sledge, with the driver urging them on. The monument will cost $7,000.

Balto is expected to be present "in person" at the dedication. He is one of the few beings, canine or human, distinguished by having monuments raised to them during their lifetime.

Balto himself may not care much. But as it usual with monuments, it will be a good thing for the donors and the beholders. The memorial is intended as "a striking figure pointing to humanity's gratitude to brutes that have helped mankind in great emergencies."

We could stand more of such monuments. And while celebrating dogs, why overlook the equally faithful and heroic horse? Hyacinth Club Entertained.

Members of the Hyacinth club were entertained yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Robert Stevenson in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Forrest Bennett, West Ninth street. Needlework and music were the principal diversions of the informal social hours. At 6 o'clock Mrs. Stevenson, assisted by Mrs. Bennett and Mrs. Willard Stevenson, served a three-course dinner. The table was attractively arranged with Easter suggestions, while a color scheme of yellow and white predominated. Covers were arranged for 14 guests.

Special guests included Mrs. Ralph Bess, Mrs. Lee Kaufman and Mrs. Willard Stevenson.

Miss McAndrews Hostess.

Miss Gertrude McAndrews delightfully entertained the members of the Mizpah club last evening in her home in East Sixth street. Three tables of five hundred were in play during the social hours, trophies being awarded Mrs. Walter Williams and Mrs. James Scully.

At the close of the playing a four-course luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. C. H. Andrews. Covers were arranged for 12 guests. Sweetpeas were used in decorating the home. Easter favors were given each guest.

Miss Mary McNicol was a special guest.

IT is such an easy thing to do—just put MULKEY'S IODINE SALT in all your salt shakers and don't ever use any other kind of salt for cooking, baking or on the table. Although MULKEY'S SALT has a slight iodine content—enough to prevent goiter if used regularly—it has the same taste and color as ordinary free-running salt. Recommended by health authorities in practically every locality where simple goiter is endemic.

CLEMENTEL OUT; PARIS CABINET AVERTS CRISIS

Anatole De Monzie Becomes Minister of Finance.

HERRIOT ON JOB

Appointment Will Mean Change in Policy Toward Vatican.

PARIS, April 3.—The chamber of deputies today gave Premier Herriot and his government a vote of confidence, with a vote of 530 to 0, following close on the appointment of Anatole De Monsie as minister of Finance to succeed Etienne Clementel, who resigned last night. Clementel's resignation, was the culmination of his premature announcement to the chamber that the government faced a financial stringency which made it necessary to issue additional paper francs.

Although the opposition voted confidence in Herriot, the opposition members kept up a continual uproar, crying "resign," "resign."

Chairman Painleve adjourned the chamber until Thursday.

De Monsie is reported to have accepted the post of financial minister with the understanding that the government's policy against maintaining an embassy at the vatican would be changed.

"I obtained satisfaction on the vatican question before accepting the ministry," De Monsie told International News Service.

The government is convinced of the necessity of thorough financial reform and finds the present moment opportune for such reform, was the cabinet's attitude.

An all-night meeting of the cabinet followed Clementel's resignation after his unauthorized declaration before the senate that the government intended to increase bank note circulation a limited amount for commercial needs. Paris was rife with reports that Premier Herriot's position had been made untenable by Clementel's stand for inflation.

Premier Forces Resignation.

Herriot hurried to the chamber when he heard what Clementel had said, and after demanding an immediate correction from the finance minister, followed him to the tribune with a speech which left Clementel no course but to resign.

De Monzie was named in his place. His name will be presented to the chamber of deputies this afternoon.

Before the cabinet meeting at Elysee palace today, at which President Doumergue himself presided, the new finance minister's views were presented by Minister of the Interior Camille Chautemps in the exclusive interview with International News Service.

"De Monzie is in complete agreement with Premier Herriot and the remaining ministers upon the question of financial policy," Minister Chautemps said. "The keynote of this policy is not inflation for government needs, but the emission of increased currency for commercial requirements.

"The government will supply the necessary funds by a new appeal to the country and by increasing taxation, but there will be no inflation."

Herriot's Reforms Ready.

Morning newspapers revealed sharp differences of opinion between Premier Herriot and Clementel. Louchers' Petit Journal and Echo D'Paris explained that Clementel demanded increases in income taxes of from 50 to 100 per cent and increasing the amount of bank notes, whereas the premier plans a tax on capital. Capital levy was the solution favored by Quotidien, which said:

"Premier Herriot's reforms are ready and they provide the equitable participation of all classes in the national charges. If the alternative is necessary some day between insidious bankruptcy by inflation on the one hand and capital levy on the other, all Democrats will choose the honorable and just solution of a capital levy."

jury, referring to Chapman. Grochl admitted Chapman was a crook.

Bitterly Denounces "Piker."

Grochl bitterly denounced Walter Shean, self-confessed accomplice of Chapman. "When Chapman held up the mail truck in New York he picked no weakling," Grochl asserted. "Do you think it reasonable that Chapman would pick a 'piker' like Shean to work with. The accused used Shean as a 'lobbygal,' if at all, merely a hanger on."

Grochl then took up the identification of Shean "as the man who shot me" by the dying Skelly brought out in the testimony.

"A dying man wouldn't be mistaken as to the man who shot him," declared Grochl.

Grochl made a stirring address, driving home his points by smashing his fist down on the counsel table. He finished with this dramatic exhortation:

"Chapman is going back to the dungeon in Atlanta prison, where he'll never escape. Let him live to repent. That is the best punishment you can give him. I am satisfied he will die in Atlanta jail.

"If you are satisfied as to a reasonable doubt. I say, gentlemen, let him live to repent."

The defense closed its summation at 10:32 o'clock.

Prosecutor's Summation.

Prosecutor Hugh M. Alcorn began the closing summation for the state. Alcorn referred to the defense's closing statements as "honeyed words" designated to "save a savage criminal," from the penalty of "an atrocious, cold-blooded murder."

He argued that if Chapman was returned to Atlanta he would escape again and continue his "depredations against society." He insisted the testimony of pistol experts concerning the linking of the "murder bullet" with the gun found on Chapman when captured in Indiana was correct.

Alcorn fisnished his summation at 11:44.

LEGION PLANS DISTRICT MEET

Three Hundred Will Attend Conference at Alliance.

A special meeting of East Liverpool post No. 4, American Legion, will be held in the post rooms, 633 Dresden avenue, at 8 o'clock tonight, to arrange for the district conference which will be held Sunday at Alliance.

Between 200 and 300 legionnaires from 27 counties in the northeastern part of the state will attend the conclave. Sessions, morning and afternoon, will be held in the Eagles' temple.

State Commander Milo J. Warner, Toledo; State Adjutant J. J. Savjeskie, Columbus, and other department and district officers will attend.

Local Legion members will endeavor to bring the next district meeting to East Liverpool. Canton, Youngstown, Warren, Alliance, Cleveland, Akron, Ashtabula and other towns have entertained the Legion members at district sessions.

The local party will leave the Legion rooms in automobiles at 9 o'clock Sunday morning.

"Yes," said Wood, "I made it in speculation, but what a jackass I was to go and lose it all." That's the kind of jackass that gambling usually produces. Take warning against stocks, horse races, cards or get-rich-quick schemes.

The birth control conference declares, after a week's discussion that "persons whose progeny gives promise of being of decided value should be encouraged to have large families."

That's sound enough, but how are you going to select the "persons" whose children will be worth while? How would you have picked out the unmarried peasant girl that was Leonardo da Vinci's mother, or the tanner's daughter that became mother of William the Conqueror, before she was married?

The only reliable sign of desirable "progeny" is the desire of a woman to have children, and her willingness to take care of them.

"If women don't want children, the wisest thing is not to have them, and the same with men, only more so."

There is a new little war cloud in Europe. Poland and Russia agreed to exchange political prisoners. Russians for Poles. On their way to the Polish frontier, two of the Russian prisoners, prominent Bolshevists, were murdered by Polish police and Russia objects.

There is talk of Russia killing her Polish hostages, but that probably won't happen. War could happen, however, and France would be in it immediately, by agreement with Poland.

What, in that case, would this country do?

It's a question important to our profiteering patriotis of the late war.

It's several years since they had a real chance to show their patriotism, on a "cost plus" basis.

Rent Field for Carnival.

The board granted the local lodge, Modern Woodmen of America, permission to use Patterson field for a carnival during the week of June 15-21. The rental fee was fixed at $100 for the week, to be paid at the first meeting following the close of the carnival.

That the school's revenue for the first half of the year will be about $13,000 short of estimates, was reported by Clerk Gaston. Gaston said that County Auditor Hamilton's final settlement of taxes, collected in January, showed $144,670.54 as the school board's share, as compared with approximately $157,000, the estimate.

The shrinkage, it is said, was due to the fact that many property owners were delinquent in tax settlements following the announcement of the reappraisal figures. It is thought, however, that tax payments in June will surpass the January collections.

Bishop Schrembs To Leave Cleveland For Rome April 16

CLEVELAND, April 3.—Bishop Joseph Schrembs, head of the Catholic diocese of Cleveland, will leave Cleveland April 16, for his Holy Year Pilgrimage to Rome.

Formal announcement of the departure of the prelate will be read in all churches of the diocese Sunday.

According to reports in circulation here, Bishop Schrembs may be appointed as the successor of Archbishop Henry Moeller of the Cincinnati archdiocese and should such be the case it was expected that announcement of the appointment will be made during his visit to Rome either late this month or early in May.

Contributions for "Peter's Pence," from the Cleveland diocese, will be taken Easter Sunday, and will be presented to Pope Pius in person by Bishop Schrembs, according to the official letter.

SIX SAVED AS MANSION BURNS

Firemen Rescue Trapped Inmates of Newton, Mass., Show Place.

NEWTON, Mass., April 3.—Trapped by fire in the Felton mansion, Herbert L. Felton, his wife, daughter and three maids were rescued by firemen today. Herbert Felton Jr., a son, risked death by running down a blazing stairway and summoning help.

Before the days of prohibition Felton was proprietor of a rum distillery and the fame of his product was country-wide.

The mansion, one of the show places of West Newton, was destroyed by the flames.

Felton, his wife and 13-year-old daughter, Anna, were crouching on a balcony extending over the front entrance to the mansion when firemen arrived. Ladders were put up and the family was carried to safety.

The three maids were rescued from a second story window at the rear of the house.

TWO MEN HELD ON RUM CHARGE

Charged with the unlawful transportation of intoxicating liquors, Gilbert Wright, 1012 Pennsylvania avenue, and Stonewall Gowen, also of this city, are being held today by the Beaver County authorities in default of $2,000 bail each.

They were arrested by County Detectives Dan M. Baker and William Davidson and State Trooper Brownwell, Wednesday, while they were alleged to be transporting 25 gallons of moonshine liquor between West Bridgewater and East Liverpool. They were traveling in a coupe, belonging to Wright.

Wright and Gowen were arraigned before Justice Addison Courtney of Bridgewater. The car is being held by Beaver county authorities.

mercy carry any hope for pardon? If not, can we recommend without pardon."

Judge Wood then said that in his charge the jury had received all instructions necessary. The jurors then returned to their room and at 5:30 o'clock, in custody of Sheriff George Wright, and Bailiff Bernard Sultner, were taken to dinner at the Hasbrouck hotel. At 6:30, the jury was again locked up. At 9:17, with Miss Belle McHenry of East Liverpool, leading, they returned to the court room.

Mercy Recommendation Debated.

After the verdict had been read by Clerk of Court John T. Burns, Attorney J. C. Hanley, of counsel for the defense, asked for a poll of the jury.

"Is this your verdict?" Thomas Cannon, one of the jurors, was asked by Clerk Burns.

"It is," he replied.

The same answer was returned by each of the other eleven jurors.

On the first ballot the jury voted unanimously for murder in the first degree, but one of the jurors brought up the question of recommending mercy. Upon this point, the jurors fought for 12 more ballots.

After submitting their verdict, the jurors were discharged.

Fall, Doheny Win

Quashed on Technicalities.

Justice McCoy decided that when congress authorized the special counsel to prosecute the oil case, Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, thereby took the case out of the hands of the ordinary legal department of the government. Consequently, the court decided, when Pagan, who is the indictment expert of the department of justice, remained in the jury room during the taking of testimony, it made the whole proceedings unlawful and inviated the indictments.

Whether the government will appeal from the court's decision and seek the re-indictment of the trio, was not immediately made known, but it was said to be likely in view of the fact that the indictments were quashed purely on legal technicalities and without the court's passing upon the government's basic contentions of fraud and conspiracy.

If no appeal is taken, then the government's criminal case against Fall, Sinclair and Doheny, collapses.

The indictment which linked Doehny's son, Edward L. Doehny, Jr., and alleged bearer of the "little black satchel," was also quashed on the same grounds as the others.

Two Courses Open.

In the absence of Roberts and Pomerene, the special oil counsel, other government attorneys would make no statement concerning the government's future course. It was said, however, that two courses are open—the government can appeal from Justice McCoy's ruling on the present indictments, or it can accept the ruling and obtain new indictments on the same evidence, taking care to eliminate the irregularties which led to the overturning of the present instruments.

Pomerene is in Cleveland and Roberts is in Philadelphia, it was said at their offices.

Justice McCoy's decision was handed down in the two cases of Doheny and Fall, but in his opinion he alluded to the separate indictment of Sinclair on similar charges and the quashing of Sinclair's indictment along with the rest was included in the court's order. The court upheld two contentions of the government and two of counsel for Fall, Sinclair and Doheny.

Escape Into West Virginia

Police were rushed to the state line to head the pair off should they attempt to return to Pennsylvania. Constable T. C. Smith, who joined in the search for the boys received a tip, they were headed down Fifth street in the direction of the Newell bridge. Near the parochial school he halted two boys whom he suspected.

While he was talking to the lads, two others, who were farther down the street, broke into a run, heading for the Newell bridge. Constable Smith followed them but when he reached the bridge they had escaped into West Virginia.

The machine is believed to have been stolen from Midland, Beaver Falls, or Pittsburgh. Its value, according to the local dealer, is about $2,300.

It carried Pennsylvania license No. 109-819, engine number 57,049, and serial number 67,169.

Before handing down his decision today, the justice offered a defense of England's social life.

"I agree with Justice Shearman that cases like this do not represent the general life of the well-to-do of England," he said, referring to the judge's comment when Mrs. Muriel Waterhouse secured a $50,000 judgment against Captain Sir David Wilson-Barker and Lady Wilson-Barker.

"These cases give a wholly false impression of English family and social life," he added.

John McMechen, 77, Prominent Ohioan, Dies After Fall

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, April 3.—John B. McMechen, 77, one of the most prominent and widely known citizens of eastern Ohio is dead at his home here today. His death was the direct result of injuries sustained Saturday, when, in walking up stairs at his home, he slipped and fell, his head striking a post.

McMechen was active in the affairs of the United Presbyterian church, having served as treasurer of the Ohio synod for years. He was also at one time a trustee of the Pittsburgh Theological seminary.

At the time of his death he was general agent of the National Life Insurance company, and was at one time president of the Valley Savings bank here.

He is survived by his widow and one son, William F. McMechen, of Tulsa, O.

$25,000 Fire Hits Ohio Village; No Water to Fight it

BRIDGEPORT, April 3. — Fire of undetermined origin early today destroyed the store, pool room and dance hall of Abramogn Ginjiacomo and his residence adjoining at Uniontown, 10 miles from here, with a loss estimated at $25,000. There was about $12,000 insurance.

The fire broke out about 2 o'clock. Firemen summoned from St. Clairsville were unable to cope with the blaze as the town is without a water supply.

A dance in the hall had broken up an hour previously.

NEW LEGAL MOVE IN "GERM MURDER"

CHICAGO, April 3.—More legal bickering loomed on the horizon of the McClintock murder case here today as attorneys for William D. Shepherd, defendant, went into Judge William V. Brothers' court to make a new plea for bail for their client, twice refused by Chief Justice Jacob H. Hopkins.

$75,000 BLAZE AT WHEELING

WHEELING, W. Va., April 3.—Fire, originating in a basement of a drug store in the McClure House block this morning, inflicted loss estimated at $75,000. It is believed the result of crossed wires. Guests were hurriedly ordered from the hotel and three women were carried out.

YOUR HEALTH

First Five Years Most Vital to Any Child's Health

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR COPELAND

NOT long ago Professor Gesell, of Yale University, made some interesting observations regarding child health. What he had to say relates largely to children under the age of six.

In America a vast army of youngsters march into the public schools. Do you realize there are three millions in this yearly group?

If we could take charge of these children and give them a foundation of good health, we would change the medical map of America. One-third of all the deaths in the United States occur under the age of six. Professor Gesell points out that there are ten times as many deaths during the five years before school age as during the full ten years of school life.

There can be no doubt that the first five years of life are the most important from the health standpoint. As Gesell says:

"The susceptibility to infection is generally greater, the younger the child. Over 80 per cent of all cases of diphtheria and all deaths from diphtheria occur before the age of five. Malnutrition likewise, is more prevalent among pre-school than among school children. Rickets a disorder of utrition, is common and is essentially a pre-school disease. Approximately 15 per cent of the 8,000 pre-school children clinically examined in Gary, Ind. showed bony defects of rachitic origin. With few exceptions the typical physical defects of school children, such as malnutrition and nose and throat troubles, are more prevalent among pre-school children.'

I am not surprised that this authority expresses his indignation over our neglect of the young children. "Fundamentally this situation grows out of the fact that we have been slow in appreciating the medical and developmental significance of the early years of childhood. We have intrusted these years too completely to the unaided home and to Providence."

Every mother must watch with the greatest vigilance the early years. From babyhood to school age is the period when many ailments watch their chance to attack the precious life.

I shall be glad when every school board makes it a point to determine the state of health of all children applying for admission to the public schools. This is the time when parents should be advised of the necessity of correcting existing physical defects. It is to be hoped that everybody will learn the importance of this period and of restoring to normal condition the little ones who will enter school next Fall. Begin now!

Answers to Health Questions

MRS. J. A. V. Q.—What can I do to restore my sight, which is very poor?

A.—I would advise you to consult an oculist and have him ascertain the underlying cause of your condition.

A DAIL READER. Q.—Will you kindly advise me what to do for bad case of heartburn?

A.—This condition is probably due to hyperacidity. For further particulars, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and restate your question.

A CONSTANT READER. Q. I was advised by my doctor to have my tonsils shriveled by X-ray. Will you kindly advise me if this new method is as satisfactory?

A.—An operation is usually best, but it would be wise for you to be guided by your doctor's advice.

A WORRIED MOTHER. Q.—My husband died from a tumor in his head. He had the tumor for nine years. Do you think my son, who is eight years of age, will inherit this trouble?

A.—It is not likely that such a condition would be hereditary.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medicinal, hygiene and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it cannot be published in this column, Dr Copeland will when the question is a proper one write you personally if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Address ALL INQUIRIES to Dr. Royal S Copeland in care of this office.

CLEMENTEL OUT; PARIS CABINET AVERTS CRISIS

Anatole De Monzie Becomes Minister of Finance.

HERRIOT ON JOB

Appointment Will Mean Change in Policy Toward Vatican.

PARIS, April 3.—The chamber of deputies today gave Premier Herriot and his government a vote of confidence, with a vote of 530 to 0, following close on the appointment of Anatole De Monsie as minister of Finance to succeed Etienne Clementel, who resigned last night. Clementel's resignation, was the culmination of his premature announcement to the chamber that the government faced a financial stringency which made it necessary to issue additional paper francs.

Although the opposition voted confidence in Herriot, the opposition members kept up a continual uproar, crying "resign," "resign."

Chairman Painleve adjourned the chamber until Thursday.

De Monsie is reported to have accepted the post of financial minister with the understanding that the government's policy against maintaining an embassy at the vatican would be changed.

"I obtained satisfaction on the vatican question before accepting the ministry." De Monsie told International News Service.

The government is convinced of the necessity of thorough financial reform and finds the present moment opportune for such reform, was the cabinet's attitude.

An all-night meeting of the cabinet followed Clementel's resignation after his unauthorized declaration before the senate that the government intended to increase bank note circulation a limited amount for commercial needs. Paris was rife with reports that Premier Herriot's position had been made untenable by Clementel's stand for inflation.

Premier Forces Resignation.

Herriot hurried to the chamber when he heard what Clementel had said, and after demanding an immediate correction from the finance minister, followed him to the tribune with a speech which left Clementel no course but to resign.

De Monzie was named in his place. His name will be presented to the chamber of deputies this afternoon.

Before the cabinet meeting at Elysee palace today, at which President Doumergue himself presided, the new finance minister's views were presented by Minister of the Interior Camille Chautemps in the exclusive interview with International News Service.

"De Monzie is in complete agreement with Premier Herriot and the remaining ministers upon the question of financial policy," Minister Chautemps said. "The keynote of this policy is not inflation for government needs, but the emission of increased currency for commercial requirements.

"The government will supply the necessary funds by a new appeal to the country and by increasing taxation, but there will be no inflation."

Herriot's Reforms Ready.

Morning newspapers revealed sharp differences of opinion between Premier Herriot and Clementel. Louchers' Petit Journal and Echo D'Paris explained that Clementel demanded increases in income taxes of from 50 to 100 per cent and increasing the amount of bank notes, whereas the premier plans a tax on capital. Capital levy was the solution favored by Quotidien, which said:

"Premier Herriot's reforms are ready and they provide the equitable participation of all classes in the national charges. If the alternative is necessary some day between insidious bankruptcy by inflation on the one hand and capital levy on the other, all Democrats will choose the honorable and just solution of a capital levy."

jury, referring to Chapman. Groehl admitted Chapman was a crook.

Bitterly Denounces "Piker."

Groehl bitterly denounced Walter Shean, self-confessed accomplice of Chapman. "When Chapman held up the mail truck in New York he picked no weakling," Groehl asserted. "Do you think it reasonable that Chapman would pick a 'piker' like Shean to work with. The accused used Shean as a 'lobbygal,' if at all, merely a hanger-on."

Groehl then took up the identification of Shean "as the man who shot me" by the dying Skelly brought out in the testimony.

"A dying man wouldn't be mistaken as to the man who shot him," declared Groehl.

Groehl made a stirring address, driving home his points by smashing his fist down on the counsel table. He finished with this dramatic exhortation:

"Chapman is going back to the dungeon in Atlanta prison, where he'll never escape. Let him live to repent. That is the best punishment you can give him. I am satisfied he will die in Atlanta jail.

"If you are satisfied as to a reasonable doubt. I say, gentlemen, let him live to repent."

The defense closed its summation at 10:32 o'clock.

Prosecutor's Summation.

Prosecutor Hugh M. Alcorn began the closing summation for the state. Alcorn referred to the defense's closing statements as "honeyed words" designated to "save a savage criminal," from the penalty of "an atrocious, cold-blooded murder."

He argued that if Chapman was returned to Atlanta he would escape again and continue his "depredations against society." He insisted the testimony of pistol experts concerning the linking of the "murder bullet" with the gun found on Chapman when captured in Indiana was correct.

Alcorn fisnished his summation at 11:44.

LEGION PLANS DISTRICT MEET

Three Hundred Will Attend Conference at Alliance.

A special meeting of East Liverpool post No. 4, American Legion, will be held in the post rooms, 633 Dresden avenue, at 8 o'clock tonight, to arrange for the district conference which will be held Sunday at Alliance.

Between 200 and 300 legionnaires from 27 counties in the northeastern part of the state will attend the conclave. Sessions, morning and afternoon, will be held in the Eagles' temple.

State Commander Milo J. Warner, Toledo; State Adjutant J. J. Savleskie, Columbus, and other department and district officers will attend.

Local Legion members will endeavor to bring the next district meeting to East Liverpool. Canton, Youngstown, Warren, Alliance, Cleveland, Akron, Ashtabula and other towns have entertained the Legion members at district sessions.

The local party will leave the Legion rooms in automobiles at 9 o'clock Sunday morning.

"Yes," said Wood, "I made it in speculation, but what a jackass I was to go and lose it all." That's the kind of jackass that gambling usually produces. Take warning against stocks, horse races, cards or get-rich-quick schemes.

The birth control conference declares, after a week's discussion that "persons whose progeny gives promise of being of decided value should be encouraged to have large families."

That's sound enough, but how are you going to select the "persons" whose children will be worth while? How would you have picked out the unmarried peasant girl that was Leonardo da Vinci's mother, or the tanner's daughter that became mother of William the Conqueror, before she was married?

The only reliable sign of desirable "progeny" is the desire of a woman to have children, and her willingness to take care of them.

"If women don't want children, the wisest thing is not to have them, and the same with men, only more so."

There is a new little war cloud in Europe. Poland and Russia agreed to exchange political prisoners. Russians for Poles. On their way to the Polish frontier, two of the Russian prisoners, prominent Bolshevists, were murdered by Polish police and Russia objects.

There is talk of Russia killing her Polish hostages, but that probably won't happen. War could happen, however, and France would be in it immediately, by agreement with Poland.

What, in that case, would this country do?

It's a question important to our profiteering patriotis of the late war.

It's several years since they had a real chance to show their patriotism, on a "cost plus" basis.

Rent Field for Carnival.

The board granted the local lodge, Modern Woodmen of America, permission to use Patterson field for a carnival during the week of June 15-21. The rental fee was fixed at $100 for the week, to be paid at the first meeting following the close of the carnival.

That the school's revenue for the first half of the year will be about $13,000 short of estimates, was reported by Clerk Gaston. Gaston said that County Auditor Hamilton's final settlement of taxes, collected in January, showed $144,670.54 as the school board's share, as compared with approximately $157,000, the estimate.

The shrinkage, it is said, was due to the fact that many property owners were delinquent in tax settlements following the announcement of the reappraisal figures. it is thought, however, that tax payments in June will surpass the January collections.

I. A. Hoffman submitted his application to teach summer school at the Central school building. Miss Helen Perry also applied for a position as primary instructor in the summer school. Both applications were filed.

Bishop Schrembs To Leave Cleveland For Rome April 16

CLEVELAND, April 3.—Bishop Joseph Schrembs, head of the Catholic diocese of Cleveland, will leave Cleveland April 16, for his Holy Year Pilgrimage to Rome.

Formal announcement of the departure of the prelate will be read in all churches of the diocese Sunday.

According to reports in circulation here, Bishop Schrembs may be appointed as the successor of Archbishop Henry Moeller of the Cincinnati archdiocese and should such be the case it was expected that announcement of the appointment will be made during his visit to Rome either late this month or early in May.

Contributions for "Peter's Pence," from the Cleveland diocese, will be taken Easter Sunday, and will be presented to Pope Pius in person by Bishop Schrembs, according to the official letter.

SIX SAVED AS MANSION BURNS

Firemen Rescue Trapped Inmates of Newton, Mass., Show Place.

NEWTON, Mass., April 3.—Trapped by fire in the Felton mansion, Herbert L. Felton, his wife, daughter and three maids were rescued by firemen today. Herbert Felton Jr., a son, risked death by running down a blazing stairway and summoning help.

Before the days of prohibition Felton was proprietor of a rum distillery and the fame of his product was country-wide.

The mansion, one of the show places of West Newton, was destroyed by the flames.

Felton, his wife and 13-year-old daughter, Anna, were crouching on a balcony extending over the front entrance to the mansion when firemen arrived. Ladders were put up and the family was carried to safety.

The three maids were rescued from a second story window at the rear of the house.

TWO MEN HELD ON RUM CHARGE

Charged with the unlawful transportation of intoxicating liquors, Gilbert Wright, 1012 Pennsylvania avenue, and Stonewall Gowen, also of this city, are being held today by the Beaver County authorities in default of $2,000 bail each.

They were arrested by County Detectives Dan M. Baker and William Davidson and State Trooper Brownwell, Wednesday, while they were alleged to be transporting 25 gallons of moonshine liquor between West Bridgewater and East Liverpool. They were traveling in a coupe, belonging to Wright.

Wright and Gowen were arraigned before Justice Addison Courtney of Bridgewater. The car is being held by Beaver county authorities.

mercy carry any hope for pardon? If not, can we recommend without pardon."

Judge Wood then said that in his charge the jury had received all instructions necessary. The jurors then returned to their room and at 5:30 o'clock, in custody of Sheriff George Wright, and Bailiff Bernard Sultner, were taken to dinner at the Hasbrouck hotel. At 6:30, the jury was again locked up. At 9:17, with Miss Belle McHenry of East Liverpool, leading, they returned to the court room.

Mercy Recommendation Debated.

After the verdict had been read by Clerk of Court John T. Burns, Attorney J. C. Hanley, of counsel for the defense, asked for a poll of the jury.

"Is this your verdict?" Thomas Cannon, one of the jurors, was asked by Clerk Burns.

"It is," he replied.

The same answer was returned by each of the other eleven jurors.

On the first ballot the jury voted unanimously for murder in the first degree, but one of the jurors brought up the question of recommending mercy. Upon this point, the jurors fought for 12 more ballots.

After submitting their verdict, the jurors were discharged.

Fall, Doheny Win

Quashed on Technicalities.

Justice McCoy decided that when congress authorized the special counsel to prosecute the oil case, Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, thereby took the case out of the hands of the ordinary legal department of the government. Consequently, the court decided, when Pagan, who is the indictment expert of the department of justice, remained in the jury room during the taking of testimony, it made the whole proceedings unlawful and inviated the indictments.

Whether the government will appeal from the court's decision and seek the re-indictment of the trio, was not immediately made known, but it was said to be likely in view of the fact that the indictments were quashed purely on legal technicalities and without the court's passing upon the government's basic contentions of fraud and conspiracy.

If no appeal is taken, then the government's criminal case against Fall, Sinclair and Doheny, collapses.

The indictment which linked Doehny's son, Edward L. Doehny, Jr., and alleged bearer of the "little black satchel," was also quashed on the same grounds as the others.

Two Courses Open.

In the absence of Roberts and Pomerene, the special oil counsel, other government attorneys would make no statement concerning the government's future course. It was said, however, that two courses are open—the government can appeal from Justice McCoy's ruling on the present indictments, or it can accept the ruling and obtain new indictments on the same evidence, taking care to eliminate the irregularties which led to the overturning of the present instruments.

Pomerene is in Cleveland and Roberts is in Philadelphia, it was said at their offices.

Justice McCoy's decision was handed down in the two cases of Doheny and Fall, but in his opinion he alluded to the separate indictment of Sinclair on similar charges and the quashing of Sinclair's indictment along with the rest was included in the court's order. The court upheld two contentions of the government and two of counsel for Fall, Sinclair and Doheny.

Escape Into West Virginia

Police were rushed to the state line to head the pair off should they attempt to return to Pennsylvania. Constable T. C. Smith, who joined in the search for the boys received a tip, they were headed down Fifth street in the direction of the Newell bridge. Near the parochial school he halted two boys whom he suspected.

While he was talking to the lads, two others, who were farther down the street, broke into a run, heading for the Newell bridge. Constable Smith followed them but when he reached the bridge they had escaped into West Virginia.

The machine is believed to have been stolen from Midland, Beaver Falls, or Pittsburgh. Its value, according to the local dealer, is about $2,300.

It carried Pennsylvania license No. 109-819, engine number 57,049, and serial number 67,169.

Before handing down his decision today, the justice offered a defense of England's social life.

"I agree with Justice Shearman that cases like this do not represent the general life of the well-to-do of England," he said, referring to the judge's comment when Mrs. Muriel Waterhouse secured a $50,000 judgment against Captain Sir David Wilson Barker and Lady Wilson-Barker.

"These cases give a wholly false impression of English family and social life," he added.

John McMechen, 77, Prominent Ohioan, Dies After Fall

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, April 3.—John B. McMechen, 77, one of the most prominent and widely known citizens of eastern Ohio is dead at his home here today. His death was the direct result of injuries sustained Saturday, when, in walking up stairs at his home, he slipped and fell, his head striking a post.

McMechen was active in the affairs of the United Presbyterian church, having served as treasurer of the Ohio synod for years. He was also at one time a trustee of the Pittsburgh Theological seminary.

At the time of his death he was general agent of the National Life Insurance company, and was at one time president of the Valley Savings bank here.

He is survived by his widow and one son, William F. McMechen, of Tulsa, O.

$25,000 Fire Hits Ohio Village; No Water to Fight it

BRIDGEPORT, April 3. — Fire of undetermined origin early today destroyed the store, pool room and dance hall of Abramogn Ginjiacomo and his residence adjoining at Uniontown, 15 miles from here, with a loss estimated at $25,000. There was about $12,000 insurance.

The fire broke out about 2 o'clock. Firemen summoned from St. Clairsville were unable to cope with the blaze as the town is without a water supply.

A dance in the hall had broken up an hour previously.

NEW LEGAL MOVE IN "GERM MURDER"

CHICAGO, April 3.—More legal bickering loomed on the horizon of the McClintock murder case here today as attorneys for William D. Shepherd, defendant, went into Judge William V. Brothers' court to make a new plea for bail for their client, twice refused by Chief Justice Jacob H. Hopkins.

$75,000 BLAZE AT WHEELING

WHEELING, W. Va., April 3.—Fire, originating in a basement of a drug store in the McClure House block this morning, inflicted loss estimated at $75,000. It is believed the result of crossed wires. Guests were hurriedly ordered from the hotel and three women were carried out.

RUSSIAN VESSEL SINKS; 12 DEAD

MOSCOW, April 3.—Twelve of the crew were drowned when the Russian steamer Pioneer capsized at Batum today, according to advices received here. Batum is one of the principal Georgian Black sea ports.

DEATH ROLL

Deville Infant.

Richard Deville, nine months old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Deville, died yesterday in the family residence, 314 West Fourth street. He had been ill three days with pneumonia.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the home, in charge of Rev. J. F. Dimit, pastor of the First Methodist Protestant church. Burial will be made in Locust Hill cemetery, Chester.

YOUR HEALTH

First Five Years Most Vital to Any Child's Health

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR COPELAND

NOT long ago Professor Gesell, of Yale University, made some interesting observations regarding child health. What he had to say relates largely to children under the age of six.

In America a vast army of youngsters march into the public schools. Do you realize there are three millions in this yearly group?

If we could take charge of these children and give them a foundation of good health, we would change the medical map of America. One-third of all the deaths in the United States occur under the age of six. Professor Gesell points out that there are ten times as many deaths during the five years before school age as during the full ten years of school life.

There can be no doubt that the first five years of life are the most important from the health standpoint. As Gesell says.

"The susceptibility to infection is generally greater, the younger the child. Over 80 per cent of all cases of diphtheria and all deaths from diphtheria occur before the age of five. Malnutrition likewise is more prevalent among pre-school than among school children. Rickets a disorder of utrition, is common and is essentially a pre-school disease. Approximately 15 per cent of the 8,000 pre-school children clinically examined in Gary Ind. showed bony defects of rachitic origin. With few exceptions the typical physical defects of school children, such as malnutrition and nose and throat troubles, are more prevalent among pre-school children.'

I am not surprised that this authority expresses his indignation over our neglect of the young children. "Fundamentally this situation grows out of the fact that we have been slow in appreciating the medical and developmental significance of the early years of childhood. We have intrusted these years too completely to the unaided home and to Providence."

Every mother must watch with the greatest vigilance the early years. From babyhood to school age is the period when many ailments watch their chance to attack the precious life.

I shall be glad when every school board makes it a point to determine the state of health of all children applying for admission to the public schools. This is the time when parents should be advised of the necessity of correcting existing physical defects. It is to be hoped that everybody will learn the importance of this period and of restoring to normal condition the little ones who will enter school next Fall. Begin now!

Answers to Health Questions

MRS. J. A. V. Q.—What can I do to restore my sight, which is very poor?

A.—I would advise you to consult an oculist and have him ascertain the underlying cause of your condition.

A DAIL READER. Q.—Will you kindly advise me what to do for a bad case of heartburn?

A.—This condition is probably due to hyperacidity. For further particulars, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and restate your question.

A CONSTANT READER. Q.—I was advised by my doctor to have my tonsils shriveled by X-ray. Will you kindly advise me if this new method is as satisfactory?

A.—An operation is usually best, but it would be wise for you to be guided by your doctor's advice.

A WORRIED MOTHER. Q.—My husband died from a tumor in his head. He had the tumor for nine years. Do you think my son, who is eight years of age, will inherit this trouble?

A.—It is not likely that such a condition would be hereditary.

foreign shipments is seen when the 1924 total is compared with pre-war exports of 1913. In the latter year they amounted to but a little over half a billion dollars, while in 1924 they were almost a billion, the exact increase being $462,212,000.

During the past two years a generally smaller percentage of our foodstuffs exports have been going to European markets and a larger percentage to North American markets and China. Italy is the only European country bringing a larger market basket to us in 1923 and 1924 than in 1913. The decreased proportions in the cases of England and the Netherlands are particularly noteworthy. In 1913 the foodstuffs exported to the United Kingdom comprised 30.9 per cent of the total United States exports of those products, as compared with 28.7 per cent in 1923 and 26.7 per cent in 1924. The Netherlands show an even greater proportionate falling off from 11.7 per cent in 1913 to 7.7 and 8.9 per cent in 1923 and 1924, respectively.

Canada is taking a much larger part of the United States foodstuffs exports than before the war. In 1913 our northern neighbor took 7.7 per cent of our exports in that line and ranked fourth as a market for those products. In 1923 Canada took 11 per cent and in 1924, 15.6 per cent. In the latter year Canada was second only to the United Kingdom as a market for our foodstuffs.

Of the principal items of export to the United Kingdom, hams and shoulders, bacon, sugar, corn and canned milk showed a decrease, whereas the exports of wheat grain and flour, lard, barley, apples and canned and dried fruits registered important gains.

Where the Rye Goes.

Canada increased her purchases of our foodstuffs 73 per cent last year and this striking gain was due almost entirely to her increased demand for rye and wheat. Prohibition enforcement officials may take note of this. Time was when our rye was largely used at home, a certain line of manufacture transforming it into a popular beverage. It is possible, of course, that scofflaws of the United States are still the principal consumers of that rye, getting it back in bottled form after it has been transformed by Canadian distillers.

Practically all of the other leading items of our exports to Canada, such as meats, lard, eggs, citrus fruits, canned fruit and cottonseed oil, showed a decided decrease in 1924.

Germany is coming back as one of our valued customers, exports of foodstuffs to that country showing an increase of 15 per cent in 1924 as compared with the preceding year. Exports of wheat flour and grain and canned milk and dried fruits made large gains, while the shipments of lard, bacon, rye and corn to Germany showed decreases. Lard made up almost 49 per cent of the total value of foodstuffs exported to Germany from the United States in 1923, but fell off to 37 per cent in 1924.

Exports of foodstuffs to the Netherlands increased over 34 per cent in 1924, as compared with the previous year. Increases were shown in wheat grain and flour, lard, linseed cake, oleo oil, dried fruit and barley, whereas there were smaller shipments of bacon, corn and rye.

The value of the foodstuffs exported to Cuba was over 7.5 per cent larger in 1924 than in the year before that. Practically all of the principal items such as lard, wheat, flour, eggs, hams and shoulders, bacon, dried beans, cheese, butter, cottonseed oil and green coffee declined. Most of the coffee shown in the United States exports to Cuba is shipped from Porto Rico.

Wheat, lard and bacon constitute 90 per cent of the foodstuffs we send to Italy and her 18 per cent increase in purchase in our markets was almost entirely in those items. Belgium bought 26 per cent more of us in 1924 than in 1923, taking more of our wheat and linseed cake and less of our lard, bacon, hams and shoulders.

Of the remaining leading markets, Mexico, the Philippine Islands, and Sweden took larger quantities of foodstuffs from the United States in 1924 than in 1923, while exports to France, Japan, Denmark and Norway were smaller. Mexico took more corn, canned fish, canned milk and butter, but less lard, wheat grain and flour, and cottonseed oil. The Philippines took larger amounts of all of the leading items, namely, wheat flour, canned milk, sardines and salmon.

France bought more of our wheat, but less of practically all of the other commodities which she has hitherto taken from this country.

Victoria Invested Wisely.

Through the good advice of Disraeli, her chief adviser, Queen Victoria of England, invested in Suez canal stock and was thus enabled eventually to leave additional millions to her children. She also was one of the orginal owners of a share in the New River Water company, which provided the water supply for London. The water shares, originally worth a pound, enhanced in value to where they were worth millions, and even the richest of others like the Rothschilds were forced to be content later with a sixteenth or a thirty-second of a share.

Spirit Rappings Of Blackbird Cause Household Turmoil

MALDEN, Mass., April.—Strange scratching noises coming from under the floors of a dwelling house here threatened to upset the peace of the household.

At first Mr. and Mrs. Ralph B. Wilton and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kling, occupants of the apartment house, were mildly curious when they heard the strange noises. When the scratching continued for several days, however, nerves began to fray.

King decided to brave the unknown "spook" and ripped up several floor boards.

Fight Gives Town Its Name.

In 1803 the community now known as Barre, Vt., was undecided as to the new name for the town, the original name of which was Wildesburgh. A change was decided on in 1793. Eventually the prospective names narrowed down to two, Holden, sponsored by Captain Joseph Thompson, and Barre, offered by Jonathan Sherman, both names being after Massachusetts towns. The controversy developed into a fist fight, Sherman winning. The city fathers and the legislature honored the victor by naming the town Barre.

It is expected that 2,000 farmers of Scotland will move to South Africa soon.

Cleveland Man Says "I Have Never Used Anything So Good As World's Tonic

Suffered from Catarrh of the Head and Stomach for Many Years

Was Badly Run Down and Extremely Nervous—Now Feels Fine.

"I was all run down and badly in need of something to relieve my condition, so I came to East Liverpool to spend the winter with the hopes that my general health would improve. I had Catarrh of the head and stomach, accompanied by nervous indigestion, and I have found World's Tonic to be just the thing I need. I tried so many medicines that I was a 'doubting Thomas', but this World's Tonic is decidedly the best thing I have ever used, and the only one that seemed to go to the spot and remove the cause.

"The Catarrh in my head gave me a great deal of annoyance and at my advanced age I did not expect to find permanent relief. I would get up in the mornings with a heavy, dull feeling in the front part of my head. My nose would stop up at night. The sense of smell was not as good as a few years ago and my hearing was badly affected.

"I would hawk and spit up a great deal of mucus and yellowish matter and sometimes it was tinged with blood. During damp, cloudy or changeable weather I would contract cold easily. Shortly after I noticed the Catarrh in my head began to annoy me so much, my stomach gave me trouble also. As a matter of fact, I did not enjoy anything I ate. When I would finish my meals I began to fill up with gas that caused the most disagreeable sensation, and especially about my heart that gas would press upward and would cause my heart to beat fast, and I would at times become uneasy about myself.

"I was extremely nervous most of the time and slept very little, and was continually constipated. While in Columbus I read about World's Tonic and decided to try it. Well, it is the best money I ever spent. Three bottles have done wonders for me, and I am here today to get more," said Mr. Charles Miles, of Cleveland, in a talk with the World's Tonic man.

"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vitagraph picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

"He said that!" she cried. "He did that! Oh!" she turned away, and through the slender, clustering trunks of the bordering orange-trees she looked out across the glittering waters of the great harbor to the distant hills. Thus for a little while, my lord standing stiffly, fearfully, waiting for fuller revelation of her mind. At last it came, slowly, deliberately, in a voice that at moments was half suffocated.

"What weighs—oh, so heavily and bitterly—is the thought that but for the words in which yesterday I repelled him, he might have been saved. And now he is lost—back at his outlawry and piracy, in which ultimately he will be taken and destroyed. And the fault is mine—mine!"

"You have no cause for shame," said he. "As for your sorrow—why, if it will afford you solace—you may still count on me to do what man can to rescue him from this position."

"You will do that!" she cried with sudden eager hopefulness. "You promise?"

"I promise," he answered her. And then, retaining still the hand she had surrendered to him—"Arabella," he said very gently, "there is still this other matter upon which you have not answered me. This matter that concerns myself, and all my future, oh, so very closely. This thing that Blood believed, that prompted him . . . that . . . that you are not indifferent to me." He saw the fair face change color and grow troubled once more.

"Then with Blood dead, perhaps she will come to her senses."

"Indifferent to you?" said she. "Why, no. We have been good friends; we shall continue so, I hope, my lord."

"Friends! Good friends?" He was between dismay and bitterness. "It is not your friendship only that I ask, Arabella. You heard what I said, what I reported. You will not say that Peter Blood was wrong?"

Gently she sought to disengage her hand, the trouble in her face increasing. A moment he resisted; then, realizing what he did, he set her free.

"Arabella!" he cried on a note of sudden pain.

"I have friendship for you, my lord. But only friendship."

"Is it Peter Blood?"

"Peter Blood?" she echoed. "I do not know," she said, faltering a little.

When the Jamaica fleet put to sea some few days later, Lord Julian sailed with Colonel Bishop in Vice-Admiral Craufurd's flagship. They cruised awhile off Hispaniola, watching the Windward Passage, but they cruised in vain, and, after a month of it, returned empty-handed to Port Royal, there to find awaiting them the most disquieting news from the Old World.

The megalomania of Louis XIV had set Europe in a blaze of war. The French legionaries were ravaging the Rhine provinces, and Spain had joined the nations leagued to defend themselves from the wild ambitions of the King of France. And there was worse than this: there were rumors of civil war in England, where the people had grown weary of the bigoted tyranny of King James. It was reported that William of Orange had been invited to come over.

Weeks passed, and every ship from home brought additional news. William had crossed to England, and in March of that year 1689 they learnt in Jamaica that he had accepted the crown and James had thrown himself into the arms of France for rehabilitation.

To a kinsman of Sunderland's this was disquieting news, indeed. It was followed by letters from King William's Secretary of State informing Colonel Bishop that there was war with France, and that in view of its effect upon the Colonies a Governor-General was coming out to the West Indies in the person of Lord Willoughby, and that with him came a squadron under the command of Admiral van der Kuylen to re-enforce the Jamaica fleet against eventualities.

Bishop realized that this meant the end of his supreme authority, even though he should continue in Port Royal as Deputy-Governor. Lord Julian, in the lack of direct news to himself, did not know what it might mean to him. But he had been very close and confidential with Colonel Bishop regarding his hopes of Arabella, and Colonel Bishop more than ever, now that political events put him in danger of being retired, was anxious to enjoy the advantages of having a man of Lord Julian's eminence for his relative.

"There is one obstacle in our path," said his lordship. "Captain Blood. The girl is in love with him."

"The brazen baggage! By God! I'll bring her to her senses."

"Don't be a fool, Bishop. Listen, man. She has a constant mind. As long as Blood lives she will wait for him."

"Then with Blood dead, perhaps she will come to her silly senses."

"Now you begin to show intelligence," Lord Julian commended him. "That is the first essential step."

"And here is our chance to take it." Bishop warmed to a sort of enthusiasm. "This war with France removes all restrictions in the matter of Tortuga. We are free to invest it in the service of the Crown. A victory there and we establish ourselves in the favour of this new government."

"Ah!" said Lord Julian, and he pulled thoughtfully at his lip. Bishop laughed coarsely.

"We'll hunt this rascal in his lair, right under the beard of the King of France, and we'll take him this time, if we reduce Tortuga to a heap of ashes."

On that expedition they sailed two days later—which would be some three months after Blood's departure—taking every ship of the fleet, and several lesser vessels as auxiliaries. To Arabella and the world in general it was given out that they were going to raid French Hispaniola.

CHAPTER XXII

THE SERVICE OF KING LOUIS

Meanwhile, some three months before Colonel Bishop set out to reduce Tortuga, Captain Blood, bearing hell in his soul, had blown into its rockbound harbour ahead of the winter gales, and two days ahead of the frigate in which Wolverstone had sailed from Port Royal a day before him.

In that snug anchorage he found his fleet awaiting him— the four ships which had been separated in that gale off the Lesser Antilles, and some seven hundred men composing their crews.

His captains, Hagthorpe, Christian, and Yberville, were on the jetty to receive him, and with them were some hundreds of his bucaneers. When they plagued him with questions, he bade them await the coming of Wolvestone, who would satisfy their curiosity, and took his way alone to the fine house of M. d'Ogeron, there to pay his respects to his friends, the Governor and the Governor's family.

When the Old Wolf cast anchor in the bay two days later, it was to him all turned for the explanation they were about to demand of Blood. Now Wolverstone had only one eye, but he saw a deal more with that one eye than do most men with two; and he had the sound heart of a boy, and in that heart much love for Peter Blood.

Anon when ashore he was beset by questioning buccaneers, it was from their very questions that he gathered exactly how matters stood, and perceived that either from lack of courage or other motive Blood, himself, had refused to render any account of his doings since the Arabella had separated from her sister ships.

"The Captain was ever a modest man," he explained to Hagthorpe and those others who came crowding round him. "It's not his way to be sounding his own praises. Why, it was like this. We fell in with old Don Miguel, and when we'd scuttled him we took aboard a London pimp sent out by the Secretary of State to offer the Captain the King's commission if so be him'd quit piracy and be o' good behaviour. The Captain damned his soul to hell for answer. And then we fell in wi' the Jamaica fleet and that grey old devil Bishop in command, and there was a sure end to Captain Blood and to every mother's son of us all. So I goes to him, and 'accept this poxy commission,' says I; 'turn King's man and save your neck and ours.' He took me at my word, and the London pimp gave him the King's commission on the spot, and Bishop all but choked hisself with rage when he was told of it. But happened it had, and he was forced to swallow it. We were King's men all, so into Port Royal we sailed along o' Bishop. But Bishop didn't trust us. He knew too much. But for his lordship, the fellow from London, he'd ha' hanged the Captain, King's commission and all.

Gold Rush in Russia.

In southeastern Siberia gold deposits have been found that look promising, with the result there has been a great rush. Excitement became general throughout Russia as a result of the discovery and the Soviet authorities closed the camp and forbade any other prospectors to enter for the present. None are allowed to stay longer than four months and then may take out only about nine thousand rubles.

Fight Gives Town Its Name.

In 1803 the community now known as Barre, Vt., was undecided as to the new name for the town, the original name of which was Wildesburgh. A change was decided on in 1793. Eventually the prospective names narrowed down to two, Holden, sponsored by Captain Joseph Thompson, and Barre, offered by Jonathan Sherman, both names being after Massachusetts towns. The controversy developed into a fist fight, Sherman winning. The city fathers and the legislature honored the victor by naming the town Barre.

It is expected that 2,000 farmers of Scotland will move to South Africa soon.

Cleveland Man Says "I Have Never Used Anything So Good As World's Tonic

Was Badly Run Down and Extremely Nervous—Now Feels Fine.

"I was all run down and badly in need of something to relieve my condition, so I came to East Liverpool to spend the winter with the hopes that my general health would improve. I had Catarrh of the head and stomach, accompanied by nervous indigestion, and I have found World's Tonic to be just the thing I need. I tried so many medicines that I was a 'doubting Thomas', but this World's Tonic is decidedly the best thing I have ever used, and the only one that seemed to go to the spot and remove the cause.

"The Catarrh in my head gave me a great deal of annoyance and at my advanced age I did not expect to find permanent relief. I would get up in the mornings with a heavy, dull feeling in the front part of my head. My nose would stop up at night. The sense of smell was not as good as a few years ago and my hearing was badly affected.

"I would hawk and spit up a great deal of mucus and yellowish matter and sometimes it was tinged with blood. During damp, cloudy or changeable weather I would contract cold easily. Shortly after I noticed the Catarrh in my head began to annoy me so much, my stomach gave me trouble also. As a matter of fact, I did not enjoy anything I ate. When I would finish my meals I began to fill up with gas that caused the most disagreeable sensation, and especially about my heart that gas would press upward and would cause my heart to beat fast, and I would at times become uneasy about myself.

"I was extremely nervous most of the time and slept very little, and was continually constipated. While in Columbus I read about World's Tonic and decided to try it. Well, it is the best money I ever spent. Three bottles have done wonders for me, and I am here today to get more," said Mr. Charles Miles, of Cleveland, in a talk with the World's Tonic man.

CAPTAIN BLOOD

A Romance of the Spanish Main

by RAFAEL SABATINI

Copyrighted, 1922, by Rafael Sabatini.

"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vitagraph picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

"He said that!" she cried. "He did that! Oh!" she turned away, and through the slender, clustering trunks of the bordering orange-trees she looked out across the glittering waters of the great harbor to the distant hills. Thus for a little while, my lord standing stiffly, fearfully, waiting for fuller revelation of her mind. At last it came, slowly, deliberately, in a voice that at moments was half suffocated.

"What weighs—oh, so heavily and bitterly—is the thought that but for the words in which yesterday I repelled him, he might have been saved. And now he is lost—back at his outlawry and piracy, in which ultimately he will be taken and destroyed. And the fault is mine—mine!"

"You have no cause for shame," said he. "As for your sorrow—why, if it will afford you solace—you may still count on me to do what man can to rescue him from this position."

"You will do that!" she cried with sudden eager hopefulness. "You promise?"

"I promise," he answered her. And then, retaining still the hand she had surrendered to him—"Arabella," he said very gently, "there is still this other matter upon which you have not answered me. This matter that concerns myself, and all my future, oh, so very closely. This thing that Blood believed, that prompted him . . . that . . . that you are not indifferent to me." He saw the fair face change color and grow troubled once more.

"Indifferent to you?" said she. "Why, no. We have been good friends; we shall continue so, I hope, my lord."

"Friends! Good friends?" He was between dismay and bitterness. "It is not your friendship only that I ask, Arabella. You heard what I said, what I reported. You will not say that Peter Blood was wrong?"

Gently she sought to disengage her hand, the trouble in her face increasing. A moment he resisted; then, realizing what he did, he set her free.

"Arabella!" he cried on a note of sudden pain.

"I have friendship for you, my lord. But only friendship."

"Is it Peter Blood?"

"Peter Blood?" she echoed. "I do not know," she said, faltering a little.

When the Jamaica fleet put to sea some few days later, Lord Julian sailed with Colonel Bishop in Vice-Admiral Craufurd's flagship. They cruised awhile off Hispaniola, watching the Windward Passage, but they cruised in vain, and, after a month of it, returned empty-handed to Port Royal, there to find awaiting them the most disquieting news from the Old World.

The megalomania of Louis XIV had set Europe in a blaze of war. The French legionaries were ravaging the Rhine provinces, and Spain had joined the nations leagued to defend themselves from the wild ambitions of the King of France. And there was worse than this: there were rumors of civil war in England, where the people had grown weary of the bigoted tyranny of King James. It was reported that William of Orange had been invited to come over.

Weeks passed, and every ship from home brought additional news. William had crossed to England, and in March of that year 1689 they learnt in Jamaica that he had accepted the crown and James had thrown himself into the arms of France for rehabilitation.

To a kinsman of Sunderland's this was disquieting news, indeed. It was followed by letters from King William's Secretary of State informing Colonel Bishop that there was war with France, and that in view of its effect upon the Colonies a Governor-General was coming out to the West Indies in the person of Lord Willoughby, and that with him came a squadron under the command of Admiral van der Kuylen to re-enforce the Jamaica fleet against eventualities.

Bishop realized that this meant the end of his supreme authority, even though he should continue in Port Royal as Deputy-Governor. Lord Julian, in the lack of direct news to himself, did not know what it might mean to him. But he had been very close and confidential with Colonel Bishop regarding his hopes of Arabella, and Colonel Bishop more than ever, now that political events put him in danger of being retired, was anxious to enjoy the advantages of having a man of Lord Julian's eminence for his relative.

"There is one obstacle in our path," said his lordship. "Captain Blood. The girl is in love with him."

"The brazen baggage! By God! I'll bring her to her senses."

"Don't be a fool, Bishop. Listen, man. She has a constant mind. As long as Blood lives she will wait for him."

"Then with Blood dead, perhaps she will come to her silly senses."

"Now you begin to show intelligence," Lord Julian commended him. "That is the first essential step."

"And here is our chance to take it." Bishop warmed to a sort of enthusiasm. "This war with France removes all restrictions in the matter of Tortuga. We are free to invest it in the service of the Crown. A victory there and we establish ourselves in the favour of this new government."

"Ah!" said Lord Julian, and he pulled thoughtfully at his lip. Bishop laughed coarsely.

"We'll hunt this rascal in his lair, right under the beard of the King of France, and we'll take him this time, if we reduce Tortuga to a heap of ashes."

On that expedition they sailed two days later—which would be some three months after Blood's departure—taking every ship of the fleet, and several lesser vessels as auxiliaries. To Arabella and the world in general it was given out that they were going to raid French Hispaniola.

CHAPTER XXII

THE SERVICE OF KING LOUIS

Meanwhile, some three months before Colonel Bishop set out to reduce Tortuga, Captain Blood, bearing hell in his soul, had blown into its rockbound harbour ahead of the winter gales, and two days ahead of the frigate in which Wolverstone had sailed from Port Royal a day before him.

In that snug anchorage he found his fleet awaiting him— the four ships which had been separated in that gale off the Lesser Antilles, and some seven hundred men composing their crews.

His captains, Hagthorpe, Christian, and Yberville, were on the jetty to receive him, and with them were some hundreds of his buccaneers. When they plagued him with questions, he bade them await the coming of Wolvestone, who would satisfy their curiosity, and took his way alone to the fine house of M. d'Ogeron, there to pay his respects to his friends, the Governor and the Governor's family.

When the Old Wolf cast anchor in the bay two days later, it was to him all turned for the explanation they were about to demand of Blood. Now Wolverstone had only one eye; but he saw a deal more with that one eye than do most men with two; and he had the sound heart of a boy, and in that heart much love for Peter Blood.

Anon when ashore he was beset by questioning buccaneers, it was from their very questions that he gathered exactly how matters stood, and perceived that either from lack of courage or other motive Blood, himself, had refused to render any account of his doings since the Arabella had separated from her sister ships.

"The Captain was ever a modest man," he explained to Hagthorpe and those others who came crowding round him. "It's not his way to be sounding his own praises. Why, it was like this. We fell in with old Don Miguel, and when we'd scuttled him we took aboard a London pimp sent out by the Secretary of State to offer the Captain the King's commission if so be him'd quit piracy and be o' good behaviour. The Captain damned his soul to hell for answer. And then we fell in wi' the Jamaica fleet and that grey old devil Bishop in command, and there was a sure end to Captain Blood and to every mother's son of us all. So I goes to him, and 'accept this poxy commission,' says I; 'turn King's man and save your neck and ours.' He took me at my word, and the London pimp gave him the King's commission on the spot, and Bishop all but choked hisself with rage when he was told of it. But happened it had, and he was forced to swallow it. We were King's men all, so into Port Royal we sailed along o' Bishop. But Bishop didn't trust us. He knew too much. But for his lordship, the fellow from London, he'd ha' hanged the Captain, King's commission and all.

Dr. MacLeod To Ordain Elders.

Rev. Dr. Donald W. MacLeod, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will conduct services Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Presbyterian church at Irondale, when elders of the church will be ordained.

Chero Club Entertained.

Mrs. Harry Purton was hostess last evening to the members of the Chero club in her home in Oak street. Flinch and five hundred were the pastimes of the social hours, trophies being awarded Mrs. William Riddle for flinch, and Mrs. Joseph McKenna, for five hundred. Mrs. Clyde Hall gave vocal numbers, while Mrs. Purton presided at the piano.

A luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Clyde Hall, covers being arranged for 11 guests. Easter novelties were used in the appointments.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Walter Gillis of West Eighth street.

Hostess to Club Members.

Mrs. Robert Wasson entertained last evening, in her home in West Ninth street, the ladies of the Golden Eagle club being special guests. The social hours were devoted to games. A guessing contest was won by Mrs. Lillian Aiken.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Miss Dorothy, and Mrs. Shenkle, who was a special guest. Covers were arranged for 14 guests.

The next meeting will be held Thursday, April 9, in the home of Mrs. Carrie Smith, of Morton street.

Camp Rest Novelty Dance.

A novelty snake dance will be featured tonight at the new Camp Rest pavilion. Dorsie Mann and his Suwanee Serenaders will furnish the following program:

Fox trot—Nancy Lee.
Fox trot—Oh! Mabel.
Fox trot—Mammy.
Fox trot—Kissing Cat.
Fox trot—No Wonder.
Fox trot—I'll See You in My Dreams.
Waltz—Wonderful Pal.
Fox trot—Sobbing Blues.
Fox trot—Show Me the Way.
Fox trot—April Showers.
Fox trot—All Alone.
Fox trot—Because They All Love You.
Fox trot—Charleston Charlie.
Fox trot—No One Knows What a Red headed Mamma Can Do.

W. W. G. Food Sale.

Members of the W. W. G. of the First Baptist church will conduct a food and bake sale, as well as a novelty sale of other articles, in the Liverpool Motor Car show room, West Fifth street, Saturday afternoon between 1 and 5 o'clock.

Baker, a fox farmer of Wilkie, Sask., Canada, must be married before January 1, 1930, and visit the spot in South Africa where his father was killed in the Boer War. Also he must visit his mother's birthplace in Scotland. The uncle, who left him the estate, consisting of lands in England and Scotland, stipulated also that he must "encourage the Sussex fox hunt to the best of his ability and be a member of same."

Pearls from Herring Scales.

Artificial pearls that sell as high as $300 each are bing made from herring scales at several places on Cape Cop on the Massachusetts coast. The artificial gems are said to defy detection from real pearls except by experts, and that some possess rare beauty. Another large manufacturer of artificial pearls has worked up an enormous business in gems made from "fish scale essence."

MRS. PLUNKETT, 76, DIES IN WHEELING

Mrs. Jane Plunkett, 76 years old, of Hammondsville, died yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of a daughter, Mrs. H. L. Shreck, in Wheeling, W. Va., following a stroke. Mrs Plunkett had been visiting during the week with her daughter, and her death was unexpected.

She was born on August 30, 1849, in Hampshire, England, but has spent the greater portion of her life in this country. Her husband died 11 years ago.

She is survived by the following sons and daughters: David, George, Robert, Joseph, Earl and James; Mrs. Frank Baldridge and Mrs. Jane Curl, of Cleveland; Mrs. H. L. Shreck, of Wheeling; Mrs. Bert Agnew, of McKeesport, Pa.; Mrs. Alice Tolson and Mrs. Grace Lawrence, of Hammondsville.

The body will be removed today to the late residence in Hammondsville. Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Methodist Episcopal church there. Burial will be made in the Hammondsville cemetery.

KIRBY TO FACE OTHER CHARGES

"Super-Salesman" Freed Yesterday on One Count.

Josiah Kirby, founder and former president of the Cleveland Discount company, whose acquittal in Cleveland late yesterday on charges of issuing a false financial statement, brought to an end a trial lasting nearly three weeks, after the jury had been out for thirty hours, will have to face two charges of embezzlement and one of issuing a false prospectus within the next two weeks, special prosecutors for the state indicated today. A conference was scheduled during the day by opposing counsel with Judge Dan B. Cull, presiding in criminal court, at which time an effort will be made to agree upon the date for the other hearings.

In addition, Kirby is under indictment in the federal courts on a charge of using the mails to defraud. This case has been tentatively set for hearing May 9, and United States District Attorney A. E. Bernstein declared today that although he will rely upon the same facts as in the case closed yesterday, he will go ahead with his plans to present the financier before a jury in federal court.

The verdict was returned at 5:30 o'clock yesterday. Kirby smiled as the clerk read the verdict, then quickly walked over and grasped each juror by the hand, thanking the men and women composing the jury individually.

Judge Cull, in discharging the jurors, thanked them for their close consideration of the involved issues in the case.

"I'm glad that covers the situation," was Kirby's terse comment to newspaper men. He then rushed to a telephone to send a telegram to Mrs. Kirby in Chicago, telling of his victory. His wife had sat by his side throughout the long days of the trial, but worn out by the long wait for the verdict had started for their California home to see the Kirby babies.

The Cleveland Discount company, the collapse of which in February, 1923, was the cause of Kirby's indictment, was organized in 1917, and grew rapidly, until it was rated as the second largest concern of its kind in the United States, maintaining offices in many cities.

The indictment upon which Kirby was tried alleged that he falsely claimed profits totalling $2,200,000 on bonds not issued at the time the statement was made, and bolstered up the cash balance by addition of $220,000 in checks, signed by himself, which he had directed the treasurer to hold.

MRS. PLUNKETT, 76, DIES IN WHEELING

Mrs. Jane Plunkett, 76 years old, of Hammondsville, died yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of a daughter, Mrs. H. L. Shreck, in Wheeling, W. Va., following a stroke. Mrs Plunkett had been visiting during the week with her daughter, and her death was unexpected.

She was born on August 30, 1849, in Hampshire, England, but has spent the greater portion of her life in this country. Her husband died 11 years ago.

She is survived by the following sons and daughters: David, George, Robert, Joseph, Earl and James; Mrs. Frank Baldridge and Mrs. Jane Curl, of Cleveland; Mrs. H. L. Shreck, of Wheeling; Mrs. Bert Agnew, of McKeesport, Pa.; Mrs. Alice Tolson and Mrs. Grace Lawrence, of Hammondsville.

The body will be removed today to the late residence in Hammondsville. Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Methodist Episcopal church there. Burial will be made in the Hammondsville cemetery.

KIRBY TO FACE OTHER CHARGES

"Super-Salesman" Freed Yesterday on One Count.

Josiah Kirby, founder and former president of the Cleveland Discount company, whose acquittal in Cleveland late yesterday on charges of issuing a false financial statement, brought to an end a trial lasting nearly three weeks, after the jury had been out for thirty hours, will have to face two charges of embezzlement and one of issuing a false prospectus within the next two weeks, special prosecutors for the state indicated today. A conference was scheduled during the day by opposing counsel with Judge Dan B. Cull, presiding in criminal court, at which time an effort will be made to agree upon the date for the other hearings.

In addition, Kirby is under indictment in the federal courts on a charge of using the mails to defraud. This case has been tentatively set for hearing May 9, and United States District Attorney A. E. Bernstein declared today that although he will rely upon the same facts as in the case closed yesterday, he will go ahead with his plans to present the financier before a jury in federal court.

The verdict was returned at 5:30 o'clock yesterday. Kirby smiled as the clerk read the verdict, then quickly walked over and grasped each juror by the hand, thanking the men and women composing the jury individually.

Judge Cull, in discharging the jurors, thanked them for their close consideration of the involved issues in the case.

"I'm glad, that covers the situation," was Kirby's terse comment to newspaper men. He then rushed to a telephone to send a telegram to Mrs. Kirby in Chicago, telling of his victory. His wife had sat by his side throughout the long days of the trial, but worn out by the long wait for the verdict had started for their California home to see the Kirby babies.

The Cleveland Discount company, the collapse of which in February, 1923, was the cause of Kirby's indictment, was organized in 1917, and grew rapidly, until it was rated as the second largest concern of its kind in the United States, maintaining offices in many cities.

The indictment upon which Kirby was tried alleged that he falsely claimed profits totalling $2,200,000 on bonds not issued at the time the statement was made, and bolstered up the cash balance by addition of $220,000 in checks, signed by himself, which he had directed the treasurer to hold.

GORE OPPOSED TO AMENDMENT

Governor Urges Defeat of Child Labor Proposal by Solons.

The federal child labor amendment drew the attention of Gov. Gore, who just before the senate was to convene, called the Republican senators to his office and gave them his views on the measure.

Mr. Gore is understood to have told the senators that he favored the legislature going on record against the amendment in its present form, as he thinks the age limit of 18 years as provided in the proposed amendment too high. He is said to have referred the senators to the West Virginia labor law, which has an age limit of 16 years. This law, the Governor is quoted as saying, should be the guide to the legislature in expressing its attitude toward the amendment, so that other states might know what to expect from this state on a future child labor amendment.

The senate passed by a vote of 18 to 9 a bill providing for the licensing of chiropractors by a special board under special requirements differing from those applied to practicing physicians.

An amendment to Senator Hugus' resolution to submit a constitutional amendment providing a limitation of 50 cents tax on the $100 valuation on money, notes, stocks and bonds, to also include horses, cattle and other domestic animals was adopted by the senate this afternoon, when the resolution came up on second reading. The senate adopted the senate joint resolution, establishing agricultural experiment stations.

"CHEER UP" SHOW IS BIG SUCCESS

A crowd that taxed the capacity of the Chester theatre last night witnessed the initial performance of "Cheer Up," a musical revue staged by the Bock Producing company under the auspices of Chescent chapter No. 49, Order of Eastern Star. More than 100 local people, including 50 children, took part in the performance which was one of the best home talent shows ever seen in the city.

The piece abounds in good comedy, catchy music, while the singing is one of the principal features. The costumes and stage setting added much to the success of the smooth production which will be repeated this evening.

HIGH BALL TEAM TO OPEN SEASON

Chester High baseball team will open the season tomorrow afternoon with Newell High at Rock Springs park. The game will be called at 3 o'clock. Candidates for the team have been holding practice sessions for the past week and the coaches are confident of rounding out a strong aggregation. Games will be booked with other scholastic teams of the county.

MANY ATTEND REVIVAL MEETS

Rev. A. E. Sims, who is conducting evangelistic services in the First Christian church, will have as his subject this evening "Sanctification." His topics for Sunday will be "Personality" and "How May I Know That I Am Safe." Rev. Sims announced today that 875 Bible chapters had been read since the meetings opened, of which 225 were read yesterday. Six additions have been recorded.

M. E. AID SOCIETY MEMBERS MEET

Members of the Ladies' Aid society of the First Methodist Episcopal church met last evening in the tabernacle. Following the business session a program was rendered at which lunch was served. Mrs. J. E. Allen had charge of the devotionals.

Hostesses were: Mrs. George Geren, Mrs. W. Helper, Mrs. A. Haney, Mrs. Eleanor Huff, Mrs. R. G. Grandstaff, Mrs. Floyd Hissam and Miss Twyla Hissam.

Final Shop Meeting.

Rev. F. C. Roberts, rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal church, was the speaker at the final shop meeting of the season held at noon today in the Edwin M. Knowles pottery. Rev. A. E. Sims, pastor of the First Christian church, was the leader.

Lodge Members Meet.

328 Kansas City Cops Own Cars on $140 Monthly Pay

KANSAS CITY—Three hundred and twenty-eight Kansas City policemen out of 652 members of the force own automobiles on a salary of $140 a month.

This was the result of a survey ad questionnaire, as told recently by International News Service, made by the board of police commissioners following graft and hijacking disclosures among law guardians here.

Of the 328 car owners, 155 drive Fords. Ninety-six are owners of cars in the $3,800 to $2,000 class. The rest own cars in the $1,200 or lower classification.

Four detectives have been detailed to check the returns to learn if any members are driving high-class cars owned in their wives' names.

A police shake-up of extensive proportions is forecast following the booze graft revelations.

Radio Doll Now On Market.

One of the unique radio novelties just offered by manufacturers is a radio doll, beautifully gowned. It will not only sing, but give forth the latest jazz strains when "hooked up." It needs no aerial or ground wire. In its body is concealed a three-tube radio receiving set with battery and loud speaker. It is about 30 inches high and it sells at $1,800 a dozen wholesale.

A rainy week-end causes a loss of $65,000 to Brighton, the resort near London.

Champion Movie Fan Found.

William Hall, a bachelor about 58 years old, who lives at Bathe, Me., is cited as the champion movie patron in the country. For 18 years, or ever since moving picture theaters invaded his community, Hall has attended a picture show every week-night with but five or six exceptions. He is a sign painter by trade and prefers western thrillers to the problemplays. He does not accept free tickets despite his fame as the champion movie goer.

M. E. AID SOCIETY MEMBERS MEET

Members of the Ladies' Aid society of the First Methodist Episcopal church met last evening in the tabernacle. Following the business session a program was rendered at which lunch was served. Mrs. J. E. Allen had charge of the devotionals.

Hostesses were: Mrs. George Geren, Mrs. W. Helper, Mrs. A. Haney, Mrs. Eleanor Huff, Mrs. R. G. Grandstaff, Mrs. Floyd Hissam and Miss Twyla Hissam.

Final Shop Meeting.

Rev. F. C. Roberts, rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal church, was the speaker at the final shop meeting of the season held at noon today in the Edwin M. Knowles pottery. Rev. A. E. Sims, pastor of the First Christian church, was the leader.

Lodge Members Meet.

328 Kansas City Cops Own Cars on $140 Monthly Pay

KANSAS CITY—Three hundred and twenty-eight Kansas City policemen out of 652 members of the force own automobiles on a salary of $140 a month.

This was the result of a survey ad questionnaire, as told recently by International News Service, made by the board of police commissioners following graft and hijacking disclosures among law guardians here.

Of the 328 car owners, 155 drive Fords. Ninety-six are owners of cars in the $3,800 to $2,000 class. The rest own cars in the $1,200 or lower classification.

Four detectives have been detailed to check the returns to learn if any members are driving high-class cars owned in their wives' names.

A police shake-up of extensive proportions is forecast following the booze graft revelations.

Radio Doll Now On Market.

One of the unique radio novelties just offered by manufacturers is a radio doll, beautifully gowned. It will not only sing, but give forth the latest jazz strains when "hooked up." It needs no aerial or ground wire. In its body is concealed a three-tube radio receiving set with battery and loud speaker. It is about 30 inches high and it sells at $1,800 a dozen wholesale.

A rainy week-end causes a loss of $65,000 to Brighton, the resort near London.

Champion Movie Fan Found.

William Hall, a bachelor about 58 years old, who lives at Bathe, Me., is cited as the champion movie patron in the country. For 18 years, or ever since moving picture theaters invaded his community, Hall has attended a picture show every week-night with but five or six exceptions. He is a sign painter by trade and prefers western thrillers to the problemplays. He does not accept free tickets despite his fame as the champion movie goer.

Do "Daily Dozen" And Stop Shaving, Doctor's Advice

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April.—If you can not find time for exercise any other way, grow whiskers and use your shaving time for the daily dozen.

This was the advice of Dr. James M. McCurdy, professor of physical education at the International Y. M. C. A. College, given as a warning to men against lack of exercise.

"Divide your day into six parts," advocated Dr. McCurdy. "That will give you eight hours for sleep, seven or eight hours for work, two hours for eating, one hour for your hobby, 10 minutes for exercise, and five hours for recreation,55 he continued.

Easter Sunday Programs.

Easter Sunday services in the churches of this section will be featured by special musical programs by the various choirs. Rehearsals are now in progress. Appropriate sermons will be delivered by the pastors.

Shop Meetings Close.

Shop meetings under the auspices of the industrial department of the Y. M. C. A. came to a close yesterday when Rev. L. J. Davison, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church, spoke in the Smith-Phillips pottery. They were largely attended during the winter months.

To Restore River Banks.

DEFIANCE, April.—The Maumee and Auglaize river banks at Fort Defiance, Northwestern Ohio's most notable historic spot, will be restored to nearly their original lines and protected from the water that has been steadily cutting them down, as the result of an apropriation of $28,000 included in the revenue bill that passed both branches of the Ohio legislature.

Taxes and Toes

MR Micawber, that unsuccessful optimist in Charles Dicken's novel, always was sure that something would turn up.

While all the world's experience has proved that the only things sure to turn up are taxes and toes, we still have Micawbers with us—loveable, generous characters, usually, but not fair to themselves or to their families.

RED MACK WINS PLAUDITS HERE

"Freckles and His Pal" Score Hit at Strand.

Repeating the success of the first half of the week at the Strand theater, "Red" Mack and his company scored another triumph yesterday in the comedy drama, "Freckles and His Pal." Mack has a role in this vehicle that allows him to display his ability to good advantage, and he kept the large audiences in constant uproar of laughter by his witty sayings during the four acts. He was given splendid support.

The sprightly chorus, which is a big feature of the show, put over some new singing and dancing numbers, while the quartet was forced to respond to several well deserved encores.

The bill for the first three days of next week will be "Broadway Flip."

Drilling to Begin.

ATHENS, April.—Now that legislative approval has been secured, drilling for oil and gas, probably, will start on the grounds of the state hospital for the insane here. There are several big gassers and a large producing oil well within a few feet of the state property here.

"Raquel" Name of New Dance.

The "Raquel" is the name of the new dance that has appeared in Paris sponsored by Professor Robert, who introduced the tango 12 years ago with Mistinguett. The dance is named after Raquel Meller to go with his song, "Ay Ay Ay." The dance is composed of seven figures and is derived from the Boston, the fox trot, the two step and the schottische. Professor Robert says it is easy and pretty.

Modern Women Turn to Wigs.

Once again wigs of various colored hair are being worn by women of fashion in Paris to cover their bobbed heads when they put on evening attire. The color of the hair matches the gown, and after five years of stagnated business the hairpin manufacturers are starting up with a flourish.

OPEN HEARTH STEEL RECORD

New Figures in Production Reported at Weirton.

A new record for open hearth steel production was established during March by the Weirton Steel company, according to an announcement made today by the executive department.

It is also announced that, for the first quarter of this year, profits have been greatly in excess of the 1924 basis, notwithstanding low prices on steel products. Outlook, during the second quarter, is bright, it is said, especially in tin plate, but no statement on the third quarter of the year was advanced.

BAILEY SIGNS NEWARK CONTRACT

1,458 Persons Used Y. M. C. A. Gym During March, Report Shows

During March, 1,458 persons, including men, women, boys and girls, used the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, Physical Director T. F. Shaffer announced today.

Of this number, 952 attended sessions of classes while 560 others took part in special activities, including basketball and baseball. The swimming pool attracted 1,582 bathers. These figures do not include visitors who attended the indoor picnics of the Edwin M. Knowles China and the Laughlin East End pottery, which were held during the month.

Members of the boys' classes have formed baseball leagues. Gymnasium classes will be held on schedule during April, with emphasis on recreational games.

Mistake Made Tower Famous.

The leaning tower of Pisa is an instance of a mistake made famous. Competent judges admit that the builders of the tower never intended it to lean. They merely made a mistake in their calculations and did the unpardonable thing of giving the structure a weight that its foundation could not support properly. There is constant fear that it will collapse some time although its deviation from the perpendicular is increasing very slowly. Between 1829 and 1910 this deviation increased from 15½ feet to 16½ feet, but even at this slow rate its center of gravity will pass beyond its base in time.

Grows Hair or Money Back

ONLY one man in 9 need ever be bald. An amazing statement. Yet it is a fact. Now it is known that each hair grows from a bulb—not from a root. Hairs may get weak, sick and fall out. But the hair bulb itself rarely dies in the early stages. It merely lies dormant—like a plant bulb in winter.

Baldness results from inactive hair bulbs. So does falling hair and most other hair troubles. Now inactive hair bulbs can be revived. Falling hair stopped. New hair grown. A remarkable treatment guarantees it—or money refunded.

This treatment is not a mere "tonic." The principle is new. Scientifically correct. Leading dermatologists agree on this point. This new method treats simultaneously each one of the four causes to which 90% of all hair bulb inactivity is due. Hence its remarkable success.

Results Guaranteed

No matter what your condition—or how many "tonics" you have used unsuccessfully—we urge you to test this new method. It stops falling hair. It destroys dandruff. It grows hair. We guarantee results or we refund your money. Our written guarantee in every package protects you fully. No after odor—no oil—no grease. Sanitas Co., Sta. "Y", B'klyn, N.Y

OPEN HEARTH STEEL RECORD

New Figures in Production Reported at Weirton.

A new record for open hearth steel production was established during March by the Weirton Steel company, according to an announcement made today by the executive department.

It is also announced that, for the first quarter of this year, profits have been greatly in excess of the 1924 basis, notwithstanding low prices on steel products. Outlook, during the second quarter, is bright, it is said, especially in tin plate, but no statement on the third quarter of the year was advanced.

Iowa Beauty Is Secret Bride of Former Legion Commander

The secret marriage, some months ago, of Hanford MacNider (inset), former national commander of the American Legion, and Miss Margaret McAuley, has finally become known. The couple, now at home in Mason City, Iowa, withheld the announcement until Mr. MacNider's parents, now traveling in Europe, could be given the news first.

Tennis Cabinet Scattered.

The famous "tennis cabinet" of President Roosevelt's administration has now completely deserted Washington officially, with the return of Jules Jusserand to France after serving as ambassador for years. In addition to Roosevelt, Archie Butt, his military aide, and Robert Bacon, assistant secretary of state, are dead and of those living the following also have officially left Washington: Truman H. Newberry, assistant secretary of the Navy under Roosevelt; Gifford Pinchot, then Chief Forester; Lawrence O. Murray, comptroller of currency; James R. Garfield, commissioner of corporations, and Herbert Knox Smith, assistant commissioner of corporations. Ex-Comptroller Murray has become a world traveler.

Pinch of Charity Felt.

Because the feet of American women are apparently much smaller than those of the women in the Near Eastern countries, American women contributing to the Near East relief were asked not to send their old shoes, or in fact any new ones. H. C. Jacquith, director of the American refuge work in Greece, paid the delicate compliment to American women in explaining why women's shoes were not acceptable, because they were generally too small.

Frozen Eggs Now Much Used.

More than 50,000,000 pounds of frozen, canned eggs are used annually by hotels, restaurants and housewives in the United States. They cost from three to five cents a pound less than unshelled eggs. In canning frozen eggs, the egg is first candled to detect bad ones, then chilled so that the whites and yolks can be easily separated, and when they are broken the parts are put into waxed cans and sent to a freezing room where the temperature is about zero or a little below. They are left 72 hours in that condition and then shipped in refrigerator cars. Canning is done between March and September.

Maintaining a speed of 300 miles an hour by airplane in a straight course may not be difficult, say aviators, but rounding curves at that speed is dangerous because the centrifugal force drives the blood from the pilot's head to his feet.

More than 50,000,000 pounds of frozen, canned eggs are used annually by hotels, restaurants and housewives in the United States. They cost from three to five cents a pound less than unshelled eggs. In canning frozen eggs, the egg is first candled to detect bad ones, then chilled so that the whites and youlks can be easily separated, and when they are broken the parts ore put into waxed cans and sent to a freezing room where the temperature is about zero or a little below. They are left 72 hours in that condition and then shipped in refrigerator cars. Canning is done between March and September.

Maintaining a speed of 300 miles an hour by airplane in a straight course may not be difficult, say aviators, but rounding curves at that speed is dangerous because the centrifugal force drives the blood from the pilot's head to his feet.

Tennis Cabinet Scattered.

The famous "tennis cabinet" of President Roosevelt's administration has now completely deserted Washington officially, with the return of Jules Jusserand to France after serving as ambassador for years. In addition to Roosevelt, Archie Butt, his military aide, and Robert Bacon, assistant secretary of state, are dead and of those living the following also have officially left Washington: Truman H. Newberry, assistant secretary of the Navy under Roosevelt; Gifford Pinchot, then Chief Forester; Lawrence O. Murray, comptroller of currency; James R. Garfield, commissioner of corporations, and Herbert Knox Smith, assistant commissioner of corporations. Ex-Comptroller Murray has become a world traveler.

Pinch of Charity Felt.

Because the feet of American women are apparently much smaller than those of the women in the Near Eastern countries, American women contributing to the Near East relief were asked not to send their old shoes, or in fact any new ones. H. C. Jacquith, director of the American refuge work in Greece, paid the delicate compliment to American women in explaining why women's shoes were not acceptable, because they were generally too small.

How to Solve It

Every number indicates the beginning of a word—if horizontal, crosswise, until the first shaded stop to the rignt; if vertical, downwards until the first shaded stop below. Compare the synonyms in the appended lists to the spaces in the diagrams and fill in the words you know. These will give you clues to the more difficult words. When completed the words should interlock perfectly.

Water Bill in Dispute.

NELSONVILLE, April.—The city waterworks board has demanded that the city school board pay a $600 water bill at once or have the city water turned from the schol buildings. The school board is protesting, declaring that water should be furnished free to city-owned plants.

A radio club of Pernambuch, Brazil, has opened a course of instruction in the construction and operation of radio sets.

Sheet Covers Two Acres.

Near Fitzgerald, Ga., there is a large tobacco field or bed covering two unbroken acres, with the result that a sheet containing two acres of cloth had to be designed to cover it. The bed is on the farm owned by H. K. Sligh, which is on the Dixie highway.

HE'S BLIND, BUT DRIVES CAR ON 2,000-MILE TRIP

Wife Steers Auto While Man Makes Gear Shifts.

JOURNEY CHEAP

Drive From Yorkville, Mich., to Missouri and Back.

YORKVILLE, Mich., April.—He could drive, but could not see.

She could see, but could not drive.

So they packed their three youngsters in the car and drove to Missouri and back.

And the trip cost them only $12.50.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Curtis and children, Frederick, Dorothy and Maude, have returned to their home in Yorkville.

Up hill and down dale they started last Fall for Rollo, Mo., to sell the farm home of Curtis' mother and pack the household goods.

His sight failing, Curtis dared not attempt driveing entirely alone. But Mrs. Curtis could see, and that settled it. Into their flivver touring car—a 1918 model—they climbed.

She did the steering. He did the "gearing." And together they made it O. K.

"Yes, $12.50 was all it cost us for actual expenses of the trip," Curtis said. "Of course, that did not include food and lodging. But we took food with us and camped out on the way. We started last Fall, so we could do that. The biggest item of our expense all the way was for a broken radiator. A new one cost us $3.75.

"Going direct to Rollo, the trip was about 700 miles, and we made it in five days. But we came back by an around about route—through Arkansas, Tennessee and Kentucky—so our trip amounted to something like 1,000 miles.

"We have made the roughest of roads—those in the Ozark Mountains—without a break.

"We met some pretty tough places, but managed to get through all right.

Says Love Making Is a Lost Art Since World War

LONDON, March.—Love making has become a lost art with the modern girl since the World War, says Gaston Rageot, famous French novelist and critic.

"Girls since the World War have eliminated passion from love making.. They prefer simple friendship of the sports field and the office," M. Rageot told a London lecture audience.

"The new generation of girls claims to share sport and business, and is consequently prone to scoff at the sentiment which was formerly the dominating idea of their lives," he added.

He maintained that love could not be wiped off the same as a bad debt, and that it must be always life's greatest driving force.

Word 11. A heavy rod of wood or iron.

Running Down.

Word 1. A day of the week.
Word 2. A character in "Uncle Tom's Cabin."
Word 3. A short sleep.
Word 5. One who leads.
Word 8. A kind of sled. Also a boy's name.
Word 9. An epoch.

Yesterday's Puzzle Answered.

AT THREE-SCORE-TEN THIS DAYTON WOMAN WANTS A FOOT RACE

Aunt Mary Heck Issues Challenge to Younger Generation—Read Her Remarkable Story of Ka-di-ok..

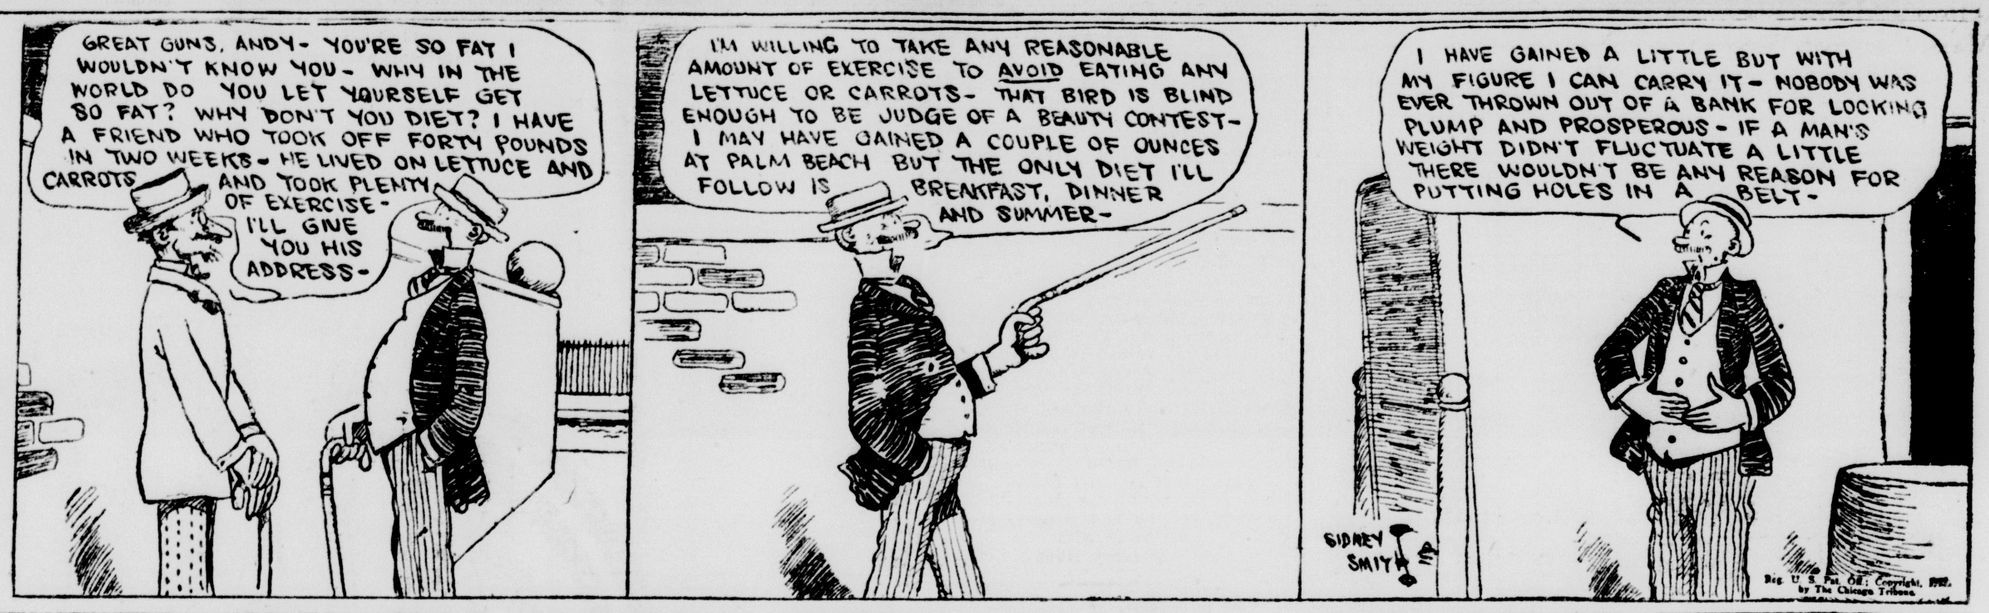

MRS. MARY ELLEN HECK, Dayton, Ohio.

At the age of 75 years, Mrs. Mary Ellen Heck, 426 Sixth street, Dayton, O., better known to her friends and the children of the vicinity as "Aunt Mary", has issued a challenge to the folks to "run her a foot race". The cause of this challenge exists in the fact that for ten or more years past "Aunt Mary's" condition of health was such that she did not think she would ever be able to get along beyond a slow gait. She had a very stubborn case of articular rheumatism, with both hands badly crippled. The pain she suffered was beyond description. A friend brought her attention to Ka-di-ok, the wonderful herbal system builder and stomach tonic, and after taking five bottles of that remedy, "Aunt Mary" declares herself today to be in better condition than for a decade past. "My hands will always be crippled from rheumatism," she said to the Ka-di-ok representative, "but the pain is gone. I am free from that terrible pain, which at times, caused my joints to lock so that I could not move them. I feel so thankful that I will furnish any one with Ka-di-ok just for joy, and let them enjoy life free from pain as I am doing. I am over 75 years young; send suffering humanity to me. I'll tell them and show them how good I feel, and tell them of this remarkable remedy. I feel so good I'll even run them a foot race if they like, despite my age. I feel so good and so happy."

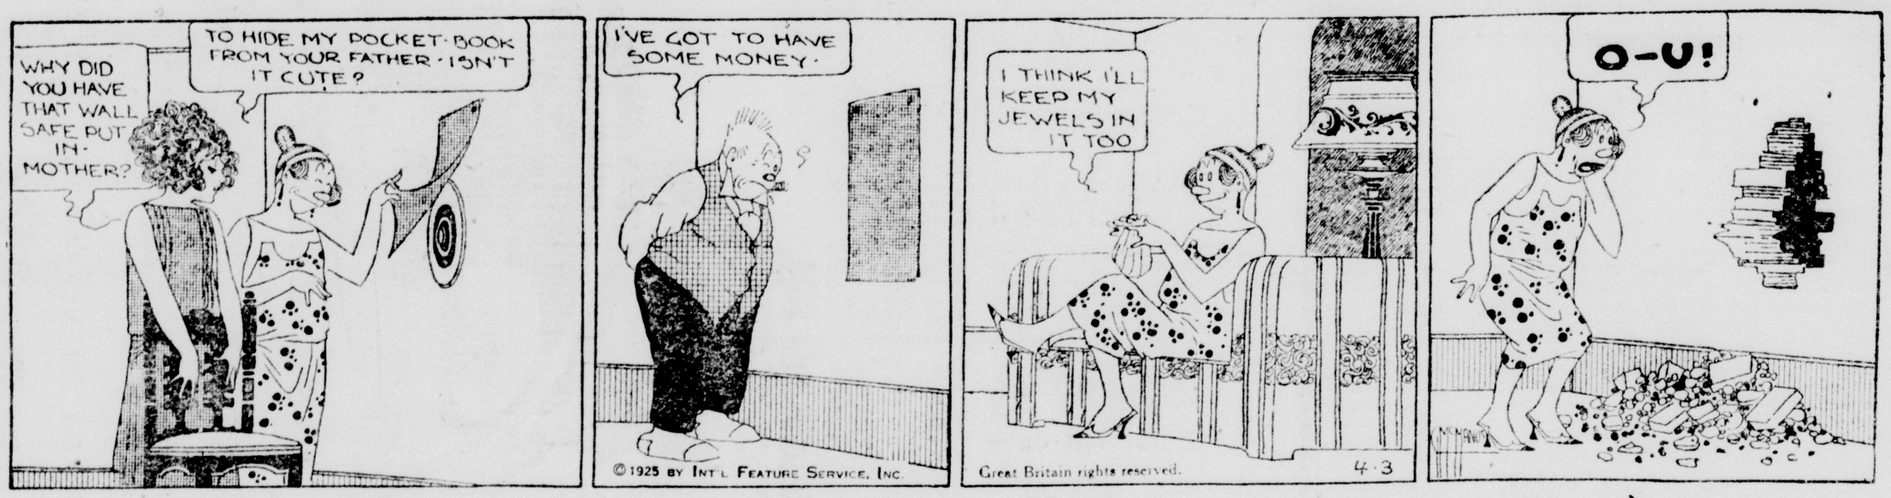

This is but one of thousands of cases where Ka-di-ok has brought happiness into the lives of suffering people. Ka-di-ok does what is claimed for it, and does it in a lasting manner; no harmful habit forming drugs, but a herbal laxative tonic that has made myriads of friends throughout the country where it has been introduced.

Ka-di-ok is sold and recommended in East Liverpool by Mathews Cut Rate Medicine Store, 129 W. 6th street.

CHILDRENS CROSS WORD PUZZLE

Children's Pictorial Cross Word Puzzle.

How to Solve Puzzle.

The words start in the numbered squares and run either across or down. Only one letter is placed in each white square. If the proper words are found each combination of letters in the white squares will form words. The key to the puzzle—the first word—is given in the drawing. Below are keys to the other words.

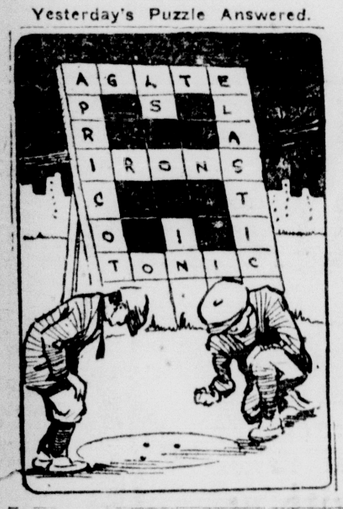

Running Across.

Word 4. Shape of a football.
Word 6. Back of the neck.
Word 7. In bed.
Word 10. Synonym for the word in capitals in this sentences: "Knights were brave in days of OLD."
Word 11. A heavy rod of wood or iron.

Running Down.

Word 1. A day of the week.
Word 2. A character in "Uncle Tom's Cabin."
Word 3. A short sleep.
Word 5. One who leads.
Word 8. A kind of sled. Also a boy's name.
Word 9. An epoch.

AT THREE-SCORE-TEN THIS DAYTON WOMAN WANTS A FOOT RACE

MRS. MARY ELLEN HECK, Dayton, Ohio.

At the age of 75 years, Mrs. Mary Ellen Heck, 426 Sixth street, Dayton, O., better known to her friends and the children of the vicinity as "Aunt Mary", has issued a challenge to the folks to "run her a foot race". The cause of this challenge exists in the fact that for ten or more years past "Aunt Mary's" condition of health was such that she did not think she would ever be able to get along beyond a slow gait. She had a very stubborn case of articular rheumatism, with both hands badly crippled. The pain she suffered was beyond description. A friend brought her attention to Ka-di-ok, the wonderful herbal system builder and stomach tonic, and after taking five bottles of that remedy, "Aunt Mary" declares herself today to be in better condition than for a decade past. "My hands will always be crippled from rheumatism," she said to the Ka-di-ok representative, "but the pain is gone. I am free from that terrible pain, which at times, caused my joints to lock so that I could not move them. I feel so thankful that I will furnish any one with Ka-di-ok just for joy, and let them enjoy life free from pain as I am doing. I am over 75 years young; send suffering humanity to me, I'll tell them and show them how good I feel, and tell them of this remarkable remedy. I feel so good I'll even run them a foot race if they like, despite my age. I feel so good and s o so happy."

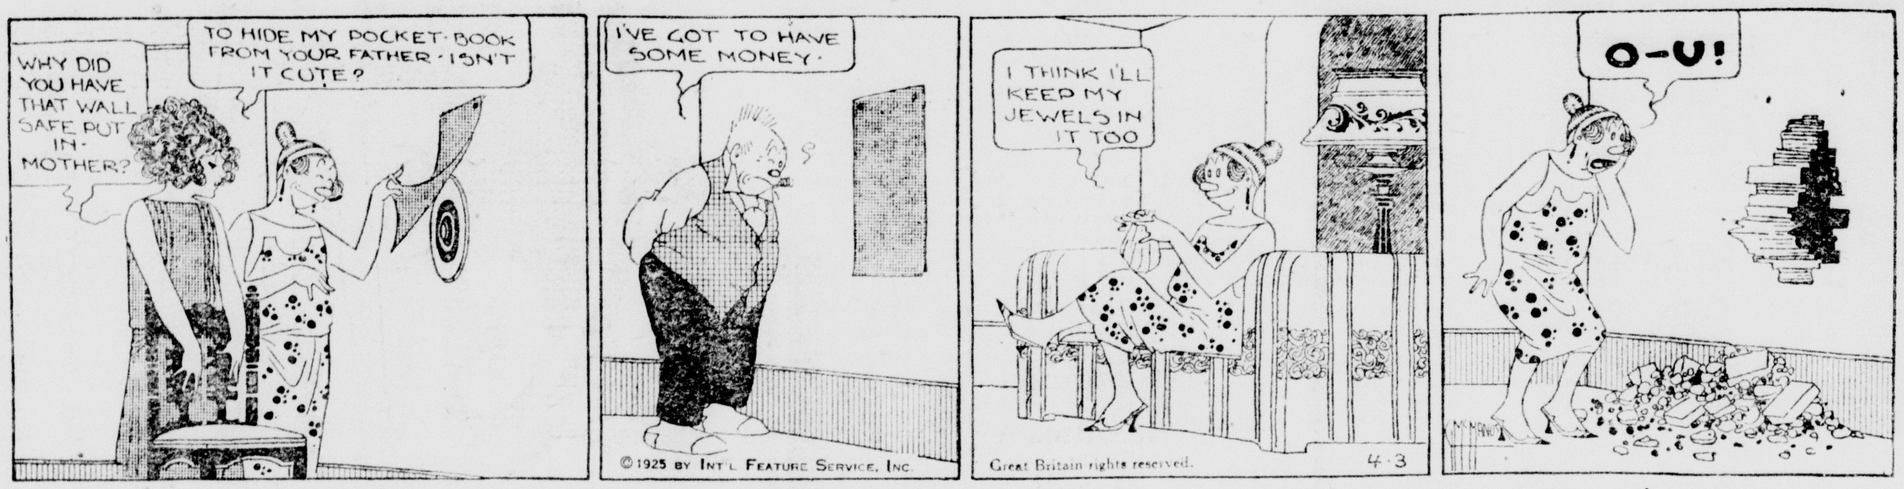

This is but one of thousands of cases where Ka-di-ok has brought happiness into the lives of suffering people. Ka-di-ok does what is claimed for it, and does it in a lasting manner; no harmful habit forming drugs, but a herbal laxative tonic that has made myriads of friends throughout the country where it has been introduced.

Ka-di-ok is sold and recommended in East Liverpool by Mathews Cut Rate Medicine Store, 129 W. 6th street.

Action and Romance Mark "Top of World," Picture at Ceramic

Film fans who prefer drama of the red-blooded, roast-beef variety, seasoned with plenty of action and flavored with the sauce of romance will find "The Top of the World," the new Paramount picture which opened yesterday at the Ceramic theater, a very appetizing screen dish.

It was prepared by that able photoplay chef, George Melford, and is exquisitely served up by a superb cast featuring Anna Q. Nilsson, James Kirkwood, Raymond Hatton and Sheldon Lewis. The basis of this cinematic concoction is the Ethel M. Dell story of the same name, but the director, with the assistance of his scenario writer, has managed to include several original melodramatic ingredients which add considerably to the peppery value and taste of the picture play.

In absorbing detail, the plot unfolds the manner in which a high-spirited English finds love and happiness after a series of hectic adventures. Unable to get along with her domineering stepmother and fearful of being forced into a loveless marriage, Sylvia Ingleton runs away to South Africa, determined to marry her childhood sweetheart, Guy Ranger. Unfortunately for Sylvia's plans, Guy has become a worthless man, and she is forced to turn for protection to Guy's cousin, Burke Ranger.

Serious complications ensue when Sylvia marries Burke and Guy tries to claim her. Matters reach a crashing climax during a blinding rainstorm. While Burke is away trying to stem the flood that comes sweeping down from the mountain, Guy secretly returns and tries to induce Sylvia to go away with him. From that point, the story takes a remarkable turn. Out of the fury of the night comes an unusual sequence of events that lead to a startling solution of the love tangle.

Next to the amazingly realistic storm effects, the acting of the leading players deserves honorable mention. Miss Nilsson makes her part stand out by reason of her sincerity and naturalness, while Kirkwood makes the most of a very difficult dual role — he impersonates both cousins—and gives such a fine performance as to overshadow anything he has ever done before. Raymond Hatton and Sheldon Lewis, as usual, are very effective.

There's a solid hour of worthwhile entertainment wrapped up in "The Top of the World." By all means see it!

Must Report Wages.

COLUMBUS, April.—Operators of golf clubs and courses have been notified by Auditor Coffinberry of the state department of industrial relations that they must report wages paid caddies performing services on their grounds, in accordance with a resolution adopted by the state industrial commission. The commission ruled caddies are entitled to the benefits of the workmen's compensation law the same as other employes, and, in its resolution, the commission ordered that individuals, firms, corporations, clubs and municipalities maintaining and operating grounds for the playing of golf are required to report their payroll expenditures, fees and other compensation paid persons performing services as caddies.

"HICK TOWN" GIRL WARNS AGAINST PERILS OF STAGES; SHE GOES HOME

Miss Billie Millscott Returns to Jersey Village After Her Career of Disillusionment.

CLEVELAND, April.—Once more pretty Miss Billie Millscott will dip her hands into a pan of warm, soapy dishwater and again she will experience the pleasure of exercising her excess energy through the wielding of a rug-beater upon a dusty carpet.

She is going home. Enough of this footlight business is too much, she tells the world.

It is not a tale of winning fame and a millionaire from behind the footlights' glare; nor is it a tale of failure and misery. It's just an ordinary story of being fired—and being glad of it.

Tells Experience.

"Pretty legs may win millionaires into wedlock for a few girls," she says talking from five years' experience of the stage; "but most of us knew that the best use for our legs is walking back from a 'hick town' after the show has flopped and the cashier has left with what little money was taken in.

"You, girls, whether you're from the 'hick towns' or the big cities and hate the thoughts of washing dishes, don't think you can get away with an idle time before the footlights unless you are one in a million—at least a million.

"Most every girl from the small town is like I was. I thought I would win fame, perhaps fortune, and a fine husband and a life of ease. Well, I'm far off.

What She Thought.

"The folk and my friends thought I was a great actress. I did, too—then.

"After five years of working twenty hours a day, packing trunks, washing hose in dishpans and blankets, walking back from shows that flopped, and starving to get a contract—I'm through.

"I'm going back to my little old home town, if I have to walk. And I'm not coming back. No, sir!"

Such statements must have a reason, and Billie has hers. She rejected the attentions of one of the dancers in the troupe and, she says, was choked and beaten by him. She filed charges and was fired.

Now, somewhere in New Jersey, the proverbial fatted calf will be slain, and Billie will be welcomed back.

Regains Sight, Loses Dexterity.

After being blind for 22 years, Amos Cady of Bolivar, Mo., has regained his sight, but in so doing he has lost his musical dexterity so that he can only play one musical instrument at a time, although when he was blind he could play six instruments simultaneously. He explains it by saying he does not have the same keen concentration that he had when he was blind.

Power in the Blood!

You will be compelled to admit that the results of S. S. S. are really amazing!

MAN'S GLORY is his strength—yet how few there are who are really as strong as they should be. The blood thins, gets weaker, blood cells wear out—general weakness and a gradual break-down of the system results.

We know there is one thing that puts power in the blood, and that is more red-blood-cells! S.S.S. builds them by the million! We know that as blood cells increase in number, blood impurities vanish! But have you ever actually taken advantage of this wonderful fact? Thousands just like you have never thought of it. So-called skin eruptions—pimples, boils, blackheads, eczema all pack up and go when the tide of blood cells begins to roll in. Blood cells are the fighting giants of Nature. S.S.S. is one of the greatest blood cell builders, blood cleansers and body builders known to us mortals. Here is your opportunity! S.S.S. contains only vegetable medicinal ingredients. Because S.S.S. does build red-blood-cells, it routs rheumatism, builds firm flesh, fills out hollow cheeks, beautifies the complexion, builds you up when you are run-down.

Start taking S.S.S. today and get back that power in your blood!

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Tells Experience.

"Pretty legs may win millionaires into wedlock for a few girls," she says talking from five years' experience of the stage; "but most of us knew that the best use for our legs is walking back from a 'hick town' after the show has flopped and the cashier has left with what little money was taken in.

"You, girls, whether you're from the 'hick towns' or the big cities and hate the thoughts of washing dishes, don't think you can get away with an idle time before the footlights unless you are one in a million—at least a million.

"Most every girl from the small town is like I was. I thought I would win fame, perhaps fortune, and a fine husband and a life of ease. Well, I'm far off.

What She Thought.

"The folk and my friends thought I was a great actress, I did, too—then.

"After five years of working twenty hours a day, packing trunks, washing hose in dishpans and blankets, walking back from shows that flopped, and starving to get a contract—I'm through.

"I'm going back to my little old home town, if I have to walk. And I'm not coming back. No, sir!"

Such statements must have a reason, and Billie has hers. She rejected the attentions of one of the dancers in the troupe and, she says, was choked and beaten by him. She filed charges and was fired.

Now, somewhere in New Jersey, the proverbial fatted calf will be slain, and Billie will be welcomed back.

Motto of modern books of autobiography: Be the recording angle of your own iniquities.—Cincinnati Times Star.

Regains Sight, Loses Dexterity.

After being blind for 22 years, Amos Cady of Bolivar, Mo., has regained his sight, but in so doing he has lost his musical dexterity so that he can only play one musical instrument at a time, although when he was blind he could play six instruments simultaneously. He explains it by saying he does not have the same keen concentration that he had when he was blind.

Power in the Blood!

You will be compelled to admit that the results of S. S. S. are really amazing!

MAN'S GLORY is his strength—yet how few there are who are really as strong as they should be. The blood thins, gets weaker, blood cells wear out—general weakness and a gradual break-down of the system results.

We know there is one thing that puts power in the blood, and that is more red-blood-cells! S.S.S. builds them by the million! We know that as blood cells increase in number, blood impurities vanish! But have you ever actually taken advantage of this wonderful fact? Thousands just like you have never thought of it. So-called skin eruptions—pimples, boils, blackheads, eczema all pack up and go when the tide of blood cells begins to roll in. Blood cells are the fighting giants of Nature. S.S.S. is one of the greatest blood cell builders, blood cleansers and body builders known to us mortals. Here is your opportunity! S.S.S. contains only vegetable medicinal ingredients. Because S.S.S. does build red-blood-cells, it routs rheumatism, builds firm flesh, fills out hollow cheeks, beautifies the complexion, builds you up when you are run-down.

Start taking S.S.S. today and get back that power in your blood!

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Friend Saved Mrs. Wilhelmy

"Overwork, worry, no appetite, no sleep, I looked like a corpse," says Mrs. Mary Wilhelmy, of St. Paul, Minn., "and to add to my troubles my physician advised an operation. A friend, however, asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so, and you should see the improvement. I eat well, sleep well, have gained in weight and strength and feel fine." That is what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Wilhelmy, and it will do as much for any suffering woman.

Hiding a rash wont heal it

Attempts to conceal complexion blemishes usually fail, and only serve to draw attention to the defects.

Underneath most unattractive skins is a clear pleasing complexion—all that is needed is the proper treatment! It is surprising how often a brief use of Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap will clear away blotches, redness and roughness and give the skin its natural freshness and charm.

Many Now Jobless.

DEFIANCE, April.—Migration of jobless wanderers is heavier this spring through Defiance than for many years, records of "sleepers," kept by Police Chief Wearner, show. Since January 1, last, 220 migrants were given overnight lodging in the city prison; 74 having been taken care of in January, 69 in February and 77 this month.

Cost of living of a family of four in Berlin was recently estimated to be 31.22 gold marks a week, while the average wage of a metal worker there was 27.84 gold marks a week, less than the family's living cost in 1923.

Cold Snap Routs Pest.

Western Texas, which has been in the grip of a grasshopper pest for five years, was suddenly rid of it by the cold snap which swept over that section early this year. The eggs of the grasshoppers have been killed by the cold snap and freezing weather that lasted 30 days, so that the farmers and others there look forward to a relief from their worries and fears this coming spring and summer.

Bookkeeper Falls Heir to Fortune

"Upon the death of an uncle I inherited $50,000. I gave up my position and intended enjoying myself when I was stricken with a severe case of stomach trouble and colic attacks. Two of these attacks made me lose consciousness. After treating with our best doctors with little benefit, I decided to try Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, and it helped me at once. I have been entirely well for past year." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

English Women's Dancing and Golf Cause Big Ankles

LONDON, March.—English women seem to suffer the curse of thick ankles.

Golf and dancing are now being blamed, and smart women are either giving up golf and dancing or resigning themselves to thick ankles.

ERNEST W. SIMPSON CO. VODREY BUILDING

Landslide Forms Peninsula.

Near Sebastapool on the Black Sea a landslide recently removed about 120,000 tons of earth, thrusting it into the sea in such a way that when it settled it had formed a peninsula and several new small islands that may be made habitable.

After 12 years' suffering with constipation, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brought lasting relief

Florida woman feels ten years younger. No more headaches or medicine.

Think what it means to be everlastingly free from the dull, throbbing headaches, sallow skin and perpetual tiredness which are constipation's toll. But let Mrs. Bevis tell you her inspiring story:

Words can't express my gratitude for Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. For 12 years I suffered with constipation, always taking medicine, had dull headaches and never felt well. For the past 12 months I've eaten ALL-BRAN and haven't taken one drop of medicine. I've gained in weight, my health is so improved I feel 10 years younger.

(Signed) Mrs. F. S. Bevis, Jacksonville, Florida.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will bring sure relief to you just as it has to Mrs. Bevis and thousands of others. It is a bulk food that doctors recommend. It is guaranteed to be permanently effective, if eaten regularly, or the purchase price will be returned by your grocer. Only ALL-BRAN brings sure relief.

Eat at least two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Try the recipes given on the package. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is nature's own way of cleaning the intestine. Made in Battle Creek, Mich. Served at leading hotels and restaurants. Sold by all grocers.

Your Silk Dress Is Here!

Spring Styles at an Economy Price

The very Silk Dress you want for early Spring is in this Store! Among the many smart styles, there is one Dress that looks as if it belonged to you! And this Dress is priced to please you, too.

New Spring Colors

Variety of Styles

There are styles to become every type of figure. The long, graceful lines of the waistless dress are popular. Attractive dresses are shown with waistlines also.

These Dresses are priced at, only

The Last Word In Style

Is Spoken In These Coats

The welcome Spring brings these charming coats with her! They do full justice too, to this happiest and most beautiful of seasons—for these Coats are the essence of Style!

They are expertly tailored with silk linings—and all the features which distinguish smart Spring Coats.

New Materials

Ask to see "Poiret Twill," "Poiret Sheen," or "Tarsheen"—the latest whims of Fashion. They are finely woven, rich looking fabrics which will also give splendid service.

Contrast Trimming

Contrasts in colors are modish. Several coats are trimmed with fine silk braid. Some have fur trimmings. The tuxedo effect is carried out in some by shawl collars.

Chic Colors

Unusual shades predominate. Silver grey, titian sand, tiger's eye, goblin blue, or golf green are some of the newer names of newer colors.

The price range is one of worthy values!

THE HUB

Fear Curdles the Blood.

Dr. H. G. Barbour of the University of Louisville, Ky., says fear actually curdles the blood and furthermore thickens the blood of both animals and humans. A mechanism for measuring the thickness of the blood has enabled him to determine that excitement or fear has caused the blood to become ten per cent more concentrated. Dr. Chauncey D. Leake, of the University of Wisconsin, has devised a substance from bone marrow and spleen that increases the number of red corpuscles. He has applied his theory to cases of secondary anemia with some success.

OPEN EVENINGS

Cold Snap Routs Pest.

Western Texas, which has been in the grip of a grasshopper pest for five years, was suddenly rid of it by the cold snap which swept over that section early this year. The eggs of the grasshoppers have been killed by the cold snap and freezing weather that lasted 30 days, so that the farmers and others there look forward to a relief from their worries and fears this coming spring and summer.

Bookkeeper Falls Heir to Fortune

"Upon the death of an uncle I inherited $50,000. I gave up my position and intended enjoying myself when I was stricken with a severe case of stomach trouble and colic attacks. Two of these attacks made me lose consciousness. After treating with our best doctors with little benefit, I decided to try Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, and it helped me at once. I have been entirely well for past year." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

English Women's Dancing and Golf Cause Big Ankles

LONDON, March.—English women seem to suffer the curse of thick ankles.

Golf and dancing are now being blamed, and smart women are either giving up golf and dancing or resigning themselves to thick ankles.

Craks in the dome of the cathedral of St. Peter's, at Rome, are to be repaired this year.

After 12 years' suffering with constipation, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brought lasting relief

Florida woman feels ten years younger. No more headaches or medicine.

Think what it means to be everlastingly free from the dull, throbbing headaches, sallow skin and perpetual tiredness which are constipation's toll. But let Mrs. Bevis tell you her inspiring story:

Words can't express my gratitude for Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. For 12 years I suffered with constipation, always taking medicine, had dull headaches and never felt well. For the past 12 months I've eaten ALL-BRAN and haven't taken one drop of medicine. I've gained in weight, my health is so improved I feel 10 years younger.

(Signed) Mrs. F. S. Bevis, Jacksonville, Florida.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will bring sure relief to you just as it has to Mrs. Bevis and thousands of others. It is a bulk food that doctors recommend. It is guaranteed to be permanently effective, if eaten regularly, or the purchase price will be returned by your grocer. Only ALL-BRAN brings sure relief.

Eat at least two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Try the recipes given on the package. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is nature's own way of cleaning the intestine. Made in Battle Creek, Mich. Served at leading hotels and restaurants. Sold by all grocers.

The Last Word In Style

Is Spoken In These Coats

The welcome Spring brings these charming coats with her! They do full justice too, to this happiest and most beautiful of seasons—for these Coats are the essence of Style!

They are expertly tailored with silk linings—and all the features which distinguish smart Spring Coats.

New Materials

Ask to see "Poiret Twill," "Poiret Sheen," or "Tarsheen"—the latest whims of Fashion. They are finely woven, rich looking fabrics which will also give splendid service.

Contrast Trimming

Contrasts in colors are modish. Several coats are trimmed with fine silk braid. Some have fur trimmings. The tuxedo effect is carried out in some by shawl collars.

Chic Colors

Unusual shades predominate. Silver grey, titian sand, tiger's eye, goblin blue, or golf green are some of the newer names of newer colors.

The price range is one of worthy values!

Fear Curdles the Blood.

Dr. H. G. Barbour of the University of Louisville, Ky., says fear actually curdles the blood and furthermore thickens the blood of both animals and humans. A mechanism for measuring the thickness of the blood has enabled him to determine that excitement or ten per cent more concentrated. Dr. fear has caused the blood to become Chauncey D. Negotiations For Dempsey-Wills Battle Reported Under Way

Champion Will Get $750,000, Is Rumor; Promoters Silent

Wealthy Sportsmen Said to be Backing Venture; Scrap Date Set for September; Site Still is Secret.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Negotiations that would bring together Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills in a long awaited meeting some time in September are being quietly carried to an effective conclusion, according to reports along Broadway today. The site of the bout not more than twenty minutes from Times Square, has been selected, the seating capacity decided, the champion's guarantee mutually agreed upon and all the other little details are thoroughly washed up and ready for the company, the report declares.

It is also reported that Dempsey's cut will be $750,000, no less, and that Jack Kearns has indicated that the figures mentioned are very interesting, indeed. Paddy Mullins, manager for Wills, has also been a party to the conferences with the promoters, who are referred to as wealthy sportsmen previously identified with boxing only in the role of ring side spectators. Rickard, Henderson, Deforrest and others interested in fistic promotion are to be in the outer darkness, according to the report.

The site of the arena is being kept a profound secret in fact, all those concerned, if any, seem to have gone into the silence. Jack Curley, who promoted the Willard-Johnson fight at Havana, is said to have admitted that he has been retained by the syndicate as its matchmaker but the next moment his mouth formed a straight line and became the shortest distance between two given points. Kearns turned up missing at his usual haunts and Mullins also seemed to have become lost in the great open narrows somewhere between his home and his office.

It was declared, however, that from other sources, equally reliable, information had been obtained that contracts for the arena would be closed within a matter of days and that an application for a license for the new club would be made to the state athletic commission some time within the next several weeks. It was also declared that the entire proposition would be settled shortly after his arrival.

Boxing men in general were disposed to place some credence in the story, if only because it accounted for Mullins' failure to answer the bid of Tom Gibbons, for a heavyweight elimination bout at the annual milk fund show. Mullins allowed that angle of the situation to go to default and Gibbons lost no time in singing to meet Gene Tunney at the Polo Grounds in June.

Now, it is claimed that Mullins had Dempsey-Wills joker up his sleeve, All the time, and, therefore gave Gibbons the run around.

SHIPPINGPORT, MIDLAND DIVIDE

FINAL CONTESTS IN BOYS' LOOPS

Three games will be played in the Y. M. C. A. baseball league for boys next Saturday morning. The final contest of the series will be staged in the elementary division. The Senators and Giants have each won two games and the winner Saturday will carry off the honors of the season.

In the junior division the Reds will play the Cubs and the Pirates will take on the Dodgers. The concluding games for Juniors will be played April 11.

LAUGHLIN, E. E., MEETING MONDAY

The meeting of Laughlin, East End, baseball promoters, postponed from last Friday, has been re-scheduled for Monday night at 7:30 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A.

The East Enders will discuss plans for their 1925 baseball campaign and later in the evening may attend the conference for the proposed city league at the city hall building.

NEW LEADER IN ALL-EVENTS

Buffalo Star Totals 1,977 in Singles and Doubles.

BUFFALO, April 3. — Clarence "Lefty" Long, a member of the Weisser Blue Ribbon team, of Buffalo, newly crowned leader of th efive-man division, today was receiving congratulations on his sensational pin spilling performance last evening in the A. B. C. singles and doubles events. He crashed 624 in his doubles and 645 in his singles to land him in first place in the all-events with the amazing total of 1,977. Long replaces Edward Feihl of Newark, who took the lead on Wednesday with a nine-game total of 1,906.

Frank Caraana, of Buffalo, lost a grand chance of steeping into second place when he went over the foul line in his last game of the doubles. This slip possibly cost the city champion at least ten pins which would have placed him in second place by a single point. He took third place with a score of 1,897.

Honors in the doubles were claimed by a Schenectady, N. Y., pair, Kelly and Baker, who, with a count of 1,261 shot into fourth place among the leaders of the two man event. One game, a 199 count by Kelly, marked the lone double under the two hundred mark of the pair.

FATHERS VS. SONS PROGRAM AT 'Y'

Fathers vs. sons. That's the schedule in brief for the program to be held tonight at the Y. M. C. A., under auspices of the boys' department headed by Harvey J. Price.

About 30 fathers and as many sons are expected to take part in the various competitive events arranged for the occasion. There will be contests in checkers, bowling, baseball, baseball throwing, relay basketball and perhaps other sports.

The winners, according to present arrangements, will eat pie a la mode. But the losers will dine on bread and milk.

The program starts at 7:30.

Olympics Not For U. S.

LOS ANGELES, April 3.—William M. Garland, member of the international Olympic committee, declared here today he did not believe the Olympic games of 1928 would be brought to Los Angeles because of the great expense involved and the present unstable conditions in Europe. Mr. Garland's comment was made following reports from New York that Los Angeles might take over the games that had been assigned to Holland in 1928.

Methodists Lose to U.P.'s

First United Presbyterian basketballers scored the last Sunday school league victory for the season on the First M. P. floor last night, winning from the First Methodist Episcopal passers by the score of 45 to 18.

The game was an easy victory for the United Presbyterians. They took a commanding lead at the start, scoring 15 points before their opponents could find the basket. In the first half they scored 27 points, while their opponents were making six.

In the final half the Methodists put up a better brand of basketball, outplaying their opponents at times.

Though the Methodist lads played better basketball the United Presbyterians increased their lead during the final period, having a margin of 27 points when the game ended.

Dickey for the United Presbyterians took down the scoring honors of the game, finding the baskets for 12 field goals and six fouls. Calhoun, Roberts and Shenkel also played well for the United Presbyterians.

Irwin, Perry and Karns were the best performers for the Methodists.

The Chester Presbyterians won by forfeit from the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal five.

Th lineup:

First U. P.		First M. E.
Roberts	F	Dawson
Dickey	F	Irwin
Calhoun	C	Perry
Shenkel	G	Pyles
Curry	G	Karns

Substitution—Hoffan for Shenkel.

Field goals—Dickey 12, Calhoun 4, Roberts, Shenkel, Irwin 2, Perry 2, Karns, Dawson.

Foul goals—Dickey 6, Roberts, Calhoun, Curry, Irwin 4, Perry, Pyles.

Referee—McConville.

LOCAL PLAYER GOES TO NEWARK

It's a long jump from the "Y" industrial baseball league to the International circuit, but that's the hop that young Vern Bailey, former Laughlin, Newell, third sacker, will attempt this summer.

Bailey is scheduled to leave Saturday morning for Newark, N. J., and he will be given a trial with the International league outfit.

Bailey made connections, it is said, through the efforts of a former league performer who acted last year in the capacity of industrial league umpire here.

The former Laughlin player is only 19 years old, weighs approximately 175 pounds, throws right handed and bats either way. It is a big job that Bailey faces in landing a job right off the reel with the Newark outfit, and so it is quite possible that if he develops in the way his friends believe he will, the youth will be farmed by Newark perhaps for the present season.

EIGHT SURVIVE IN PREP GAMES

CHICAGO, April 3.—Eight teams remained in the running today when the fourth day's games of the University of Chicago's National prep school basketball tournament opened at Bartlett gymnasium here with the Torrington, Conn., and Wheeler, Miss., fives on the floor. Torrington was favored to win today's opener.

The "consolation" schedule included these games:

Fort Smith, Ark. vs. Tonopath, Nev.
Detroit vs. Montezuma, Ga.
Portland, Ore., vs. Springfield, Ohio.

Suggsetion of certain clergymen of Manchester, New Zealand, that watchnight services be held in moving picture theatres was opposed because it was claimed tha tthe ministers found the cinema more attractive than the church.

THREE CONTESTS FOR PLAID NINE

PITTSBURGH, April 3.—Followers of Carnegie Tech athletics in the east will have a chance to witness the Skibo baseball team in action the first three days of next week. Georgetown is to be met on Monday, Navy on Tuesday and St. Johns on Wednesday, the games to be played in Washington and Annapolis.

Last year the diamond squad was forced to disband after winning the first three games on its schedule. Practically the same aggregation will be found in the lineup this year, so prospects are bright for a successful season. Coach Don Blythe, a former Penn State star, while making no predictions, feels that opponents of the Tartans will find it hard sledding when they stack up against his charges.

Spring football plans have been completed and everything is in readiness to take care of a large squad immediately after the Easter vacation is over. Coaches Bob Waddell and Dr. Marks will be in charge of the boys, while Head Coach Steffen, who resides in Chicago, will be on hand the first two or three days. Spring training for the gridders was instituted here three years ago and has met with great success.

MOUNTAINEERS TO PLAY DUKES

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., April 3.—Tri-state district baseball fans will get their first taste of baseball this afternoon when West Virginia University and Duquesne University nines meet on the athletic field here at 4 p. m. The season's inaugural is the first of a two-game series and Duquesne will meet the Mountaineers again Saturday.

Today's game should be close as Jim Riley, star Duke hurler, and Captain "Trusty" Tallman, best bet of the West Virginia pitching staff, will take up the fight where they left off a year ago. In the opening game last spring Riley got the best of Tallman, but when the game ended the present Mountaineer leaded was going strong and he is anxious to continue the feud. Riley yielded only six hits for two runs last year, while Tallman was touched for 13 hits and four scores.

HILDRETH MAY MAKE SANDE AID

NEW YORK, April 3.—It was stated today on reliable authority that Earl Sande, America's premier jockey, had ridden his last race because of serious injuries sustained in a fall at Saratoga last August.

Denial, however, was made that Sande had had a "split" with Sam Hildreth, trainer for Sinclair's Rancocas stable, in the colors of which Sande rode to his greatest fame. It was said that when the jockey's riding contract expires at the end of the 1925 season, he will become Hildreth's assistant.

INDOOR GAMES ARE POSTPONED

Two "Y" industrial indoor baseball contests scheduled for tonight, have been postponed until Saturday night, on account of the "fathers and sons" program at the "Y" tonight.

Laughlin 5 and Decorators will clash at 7:30 tomorrow night. The Potters and Patterson Foundry teams will battle at 8:30.

Honolulu's new recreation center will cost $350,000.

No Other Car Delivers Such Results as These

The real reason for the remarkable Chrysler Six sales record its initial year—a volume of more than 32,000 cars—is its departure from ordinary motor car practice and performance.

Its three-inch motor gives a high speed range from 2 to over 70 miles, combined with gasoline economy safely over 20 miles per gallon.

With a touring car weight, ready for the road, of 2875 pounds, the Chrysler Six can be driven in comfort at 60 miles over rutted roads or cobbled streets. A new type of spring mounting makes it possible to take a turn at 50 miles an hour. Side-sway and road-weaving are eliminated.

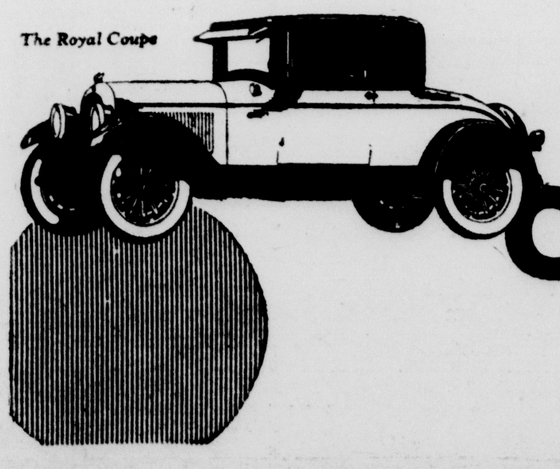

The Chrysler Six adheres strictly to the soundest principles. Only the results are radical. You must ride in the car to appreciate what they are. We are eager to give you a Chrysler ride.

Negotiations For Dempsey-Wills Battle Reported Under Way

Champion Will Get $750,000, Is Rumor; Promoters Silent

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Negotiations that would bring together Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills in a long awaited meeting some time in September are being quietly carried to an effective conclusion, according to reports along Broadway today. The site of the bout not more than twenty minutes from Times Square, has been selected, the seating capacity decided, the champion's guarantee mutually agreed upon and all the other little details are thoroughly washed up and ready for the company, the report declares.

It is also reported that Dempsey's cut will be $750,000, no less, and that Jack Kearns has indicated that the figures mentioned are very interesting, indeed. Paddy Mullins, manager for Wills, has also been a party to the conferences with the promoters, who are referred to as wealthy sportsmen previously identified with boxing only in the role of ring side spectators. Rickard, Henderson, Deforrest and others interested in fistic promotion are to be in the outer darkness, according to the report.

The site of the arena is being kept a profound secret in fact, all those concerned, if any, seem to have gone into the silence. Jack Curley, who promoted the Willard-Johnson fight at Havana, is said to have admitted that he has been retained by the syndicate as its matchmaker but the next moment his mouth formed a straight line and became the shortest distance between two given points. Kearns turned up missing at his usual haunts and Mullins also seemed to have become lost in the great open narrows somewhere between his home and his office.

It was declared, however, that from other sources, equally reliable, information had been obtained that contracts for the arena would be closed within a matter of days and that an application for a license for the new club would be made to the state athletic commission some time within the next several weeks. It was also declared that the entire proposition would be settled shortly after his arrival.

Boxing men in general were disposed to place some credence in the story, if only because it accounted for Mullins' failure to answer the bid of Tom Gibbons, for a heavyweight elimination bout at the annual milk fund show. Mullins allowed that angle of the situation to go to default and Gibbons lost no time in singing to meet Gene Tunney at the Polo Grounds in June.

Now, it is claimed that Mullins had Dempsey-Wills joker up his sleeve, All the time, and, therefore gave Gibbons the run around.

SHIPPINGPORT, MIDLAND DIVIDE

Shippingport and Midland basketball teams, boys and girls, divided a double bill last evening on the Midland court. The Shippingport boys won by the score of 43 to 2, but the Midland girls finished ahead by the score of 27 to 12. Lineups:

Midland Girls		Shippingport Girls
Rodfong	F	M. Laughlin
Parsons	F	B. Laughlin
Graham	C	Pease
Knights	G	Johnson
Longfellow	G	Christy

Substitutions—Russell for Christy, Christy for Johnson.

Midland Boys		Shippingport Boys
Rogers	F	Ewing
Posey	F	Shuttleworth
Long	C	Hosack
Marx	G	Sisco
Shinton	G	Pease

Substitutions — Cestrich for Sisco, Marx for Posey.

FINAL CONTESTS IN BOYS' LOOPS

Three games will be played in the Y. M. C. A. baseball league for boys next Saturday morning. The final contest of the series will be staged in the elementary division. The Senators and Giants have each won two games and the winner Saturday will carry off the honors of the season.

In the junior division the Reds will play the Cubs and the Pirates will take on the Dodgers. The concluding games for Juniors will be played April 11.

Legal Notice. 91

LEGAL NOTICE

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Auditor of the City of Wellsville, State of Ohio, until 12 o'clock noon of May 1, 1925 for the purchase of Bonds of the said City of Wellsville, Ohio, in the aggregate sum of $23,616.52 dated the 1st day of October, 1924. Said bonds will be 47 in number, and numbered from one to forty-seven, both inclusive.

Each of said bonds will be of the denomination of $500 each except bond number one which bond will be in the sum of $616.52 and will draw interest at the rate of 6% per annum payable semi-annually on the 1st days of October and of April of each year upon presentation and surrender of the interest coupons to be attached to said bonds.

Said bonds will be due and payable as follows bond No. 1 will be due and payable on October 1, 1925 and in like manner two of the other bonds shall be due and payable on the 1st day of October of each year thereafter until all of said bonds and the interest thereon shall be fully paid.

Said bonds are issued for the purpose of extending the time of payment of certain indebtedness created and incurred before the first day of January, 1924, which from the limit of taxation the City of Wellsville, Ohio, is unable to pay at maturity and are issued under authority of the laws of Ohio and under Section 3916 of the General Code of Ohio, and under and in accordance with a certain ordinance of the said City passed on September 2, 1924, being ordinance Number 1010, entitled an Ordinance to provide for the issuance of bonds of the City of Wellsville, Ohio, in the sum of $23,616.52, for the purpose of extending the time of payment of certain indebtedness which from its limits of taxation said City is unable to pay at maturity.

Said bonds will be sold to the highest and best bidder for not less than par and accrued interest to date of delivery and all bids to be accompanied with a certified check, payable to the Treasurer of the City in the sum of Five Hundred Dollars, upon condition that if the bid is accepted the bidder will receive and pay for such bonds as may be issued as above set forth, within ten days from the time of award, said check to be retained by the City if such condition is not fulfilled.

The City of Wellsville, Ohio, reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Only unconditional bids will be received.

Bids should be sealed and endorsed "Bids for Redemption Bonds."

Legal Notice. 91

LEGAL NOTICE

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Auditor of the City of Wellsville, State of Ohio, until 12 o'clock noon of May 1, 1925 for the purchase of Bonds of the said City of Wellsville, Ohio, in the aggregate sum of $23,616.52 dated the 1st day of October, 1924. Said bonds will be 47 in number, and numbered from one to forty seven, both inclusive.

Each of said bonds will be of the denomination of $500 each except bond number one which bond will be in the sum of $616.52 and will draw interest at the rate of 6% per annum payable semi-annually on the 1st days of October and of April of each year upon presentation and surrender of the interest coupons to be attached to said bonds.

Said bonds will be due and payable as follows bond No. 1 will be due and payable on October 1, 1925 and in like manner two of the other bonds shall be due and payable on the 1st day of October of each year thereafter until all of said bonds and the interest thereon shall be fully paid.

Said bonds are issued for the purpose of extending the time of payment of certain indebtedness created and incurred before the first day of January, 1924, which from the limit of taxation the City of Wellsville, Ohio, is unable to pay at maturity and are issued under authority of the laws of Ohio and under Section 3916 of the General Code of Ohio, and under and in accordance with a certain ordinance of the said City passed on September 2, 1924, being ordinance Number 1010, entitled an Ordinance to provide for the issuance of bonds of the City of Wellsville, Ohio, in the sum of $23,616.52, for the purpose of extending the time of payment of certain indebtedness which from its limits of taxation said City is unable to pay at maturity.

Said bonds will be sold to the highest and best bidder for not less than par and accrued interest to date of delivery and all bids to be accompanied with a certified check, payable to the Treasurer of the City in the sum of Five Hundred Dollars, upon condition that if the bid is accepted the bidder will receive and pay for such bonds as may be issued as above set forth, within ten days from the time of award, said check to be retained by the City if such condition is not fulfilled.

The City of Wellsville, Ohio, reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Only unconditional bids will be received.

Bids should be sealed and endorsed "Bids for Redemption Bonds."

Wanted! 15,000 Sufferers from DEAFNESS

Head Noises or Nasal Catarrh

I want the names of 15,000 people who are suffering from catarrhal deafness, dullness of hearing or head noises. I have an original home treatment for these distressing conditions which I want you to try without cost or expense. I suffered for many years with catarrh, deafness and head noises, tried many different treatments.

DR. W. O. COFFEE
NOTED DEAFNESS AND CATARRH SPECIALIST

Had two surgical operations all of which failed to give permanent relief. I began experimenting on myself and finally found a treatment which completely healed my catarrh, restored my hearing and stopped the terrible head noises. I want you to try this splendid treatment entirely at my own expense.

15,000 Treatments This Month

I am proud of my treatment and so anxious to help others suffering with deafness, head noises or catarrh that I will have packed and ready for shipment 15,000 demonstration treatments which I will give away in the next 30 days absolutely free. I want to prove that my original home treatment will give relief from catarrhal deafness, head noises or nasal catarrh. The results are quick and convincing.

You feel the difference the first day. This treatment costs you nothing whatever. Simply send coupon or write and say that you are suffering with deafness or head noises or catarrh. I will gladly send the free treatment. It is the best treatment I have ever found in over 40 years' practice as an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist. I want every sufferer with deafness, dullness of hearing, head noises or catarrh to try it free.

Don't Neglect Deafness or Catarrh!

Catarrhal Deafness, Head Noises, and Nasal Catarrh generally grow worse when neglected. Authorities claim that ninety per cent of all deafness is primarily caused by catarrh of the head and air passages. Others state that nasal catarrh often causes indigestion, rheumatism, catarrh of the stomach, and many other diseased conditions. If you suffer from partial deafness or nasal catarrh, do not neglect this condition.

There are thousands, who are now practically stone deaf, whose hearing could no doubt have been saved had the right measures been taken in time. I have personally restored hearing in hundreds of cases, where the patients were so deaf they could hear nothing. I want to prove the value of my treatment to you entirely at my own risk and expense. I will gladly send it without cost. Just fill out and mail the coupon.

Try This Free!

I don't ask you to send one penny for this treatment. I send it free to you prepaid without cost. I am doing this to quickly introduce my original home treatment to sufferers of catarrhal deafness, head noises, or catarrh. I believe I treat more cases of deafness, head noises and catarrh than any physician in the United States. I know this treatment is the best I have ever used. Send your name and address today. State whether you have deafness or head noises or just have catarrh. This notice may not appear again so mail the coupon at once.

Profit by the Experience of Those Who Know

Feeling Fine

"I am feeling fine. I suffered from head noises, could hardly hear before I began your treatment. Now I feel well."—Joe M. of Lawrence, Mass.

Helps Her

"It has helped me. I am not troubled with head noises, and my hearing is as good as ever."—Mrs. J. S., Chicago, Ill.

Brought Back Hearing

"Your treatment has brought back my hearing. I can hear now about as good as I ever did. I want to thank you."—Mr. E. M., Houston, Texas.

Relieved in 3 Days

"I received your treatment for my catarrhal deafness and in three days' time after I began to use the treatment, my hearing commenced to come back and I feel wonderfully improved. My age is 71 years."—D. H. C., Ashland, Ala.

Hears As Well As Any One

"I can hear just as good as any one. I have no noises in my head and no dropping in my throat. My hearing was very bad to start on. You can use this letter."—Mrs. R. M. of Boulder, Colo.

FREE

Hearing Improved

"I was afflicted with the disease catarrh for ten years, had doctored with local doctors, but found no relief until I started your treatment. I had a discharge from my nose and head. Became quite deaf, but now I can hear, and my head has quit aching. I feel like a new woman. You can use this testimonial if you choose."—Mrs. C. B., Ansly, Ala.

Most Wonderful Treatment

"I received your treatment and began using it. I am here to tell you that it is the most wonderful treatment I have ever tried. I have had roaring in my head. I had the worst shortness of breath, cramps and aching in every inch of me. I feel so much better. I can see and hear better, can talk better and feel better all around."—Mrs. Ethel G., Lythia, Fla.

Now Hears Well

J. C. P. says: "I have suffered with nasal catarrh for seven or eight years, had terrible noises in my head. My hearing was seriously afflicted. It was necessary for people to speak very loud for me to hear them. I gave your treatment a trial and assure you I do not regret it, as my hearing has been restored so I can hear ordinary talk and the head noises are among the things of the past. I am 56 years old."

Send Coupon Today!

Just fill in the coupon below and I will send you a demonstration treatment by prepaid parcel post without any cost or obligation on your part. I want you to try it at once, so send the coupon today.

Dr. W. O. Coffee,
Suite 694, St. James Hotel Bldg., Davenport, Iowa.

Please send me a free treatment by prepaid parcel post. It is understood that this does not obligate me in any way. I am to pay nothing for this treatment now or at any time.

Catarrhal Deafness, Head Noises, and Nasal Catarrh generally grow worse when neglected. Authorities claim that ninety per cent of all deafness is primarily caused by catarrh of the head and air passages. Others state that nasal catarrh often causes indigestion, rheumatism, catarrh of the stomach, and many other diseased conditions. If you suffer from partial deafness or nasal catarrh, do not neglect this condition.

There are thousands, who are now practically stone deaf, whose hearing could no doubt have been saved had the right measures been taken in time. I have personally restored hearing in hundreds of cases, where the patients were so deaf they could hear nothing. I want to prove the value of my treatment to you entirely at my own risk and expense. I will gladly send it without cost. Just fill out and mail the coupon.

Try This Free!

I don't ask you to send one penny for this treatment. I send it free to you prepaid without cost. I am doing this to quickly introduce my original home treatment to sufferers of catarrhal deafness, head noises, or catarrh. I believe I treat more cases of deafness, head noises and catarrh than any physician in the United States. I know this treatment is the best I have ever used. Send your name and address today. State whether you have deafness or head noises or just have catarrh. This notice may not appear again so mail the coupon at once.

Profit by the Experience of Those Who Know

Feeling Fine

"I am feeling fine. I suffered from head noises, could hardly hear before I began your treatment. Now I feel well."—Jos M. of Lawrence, Mass.

Helps Her

"It has helped me. I am not troubled with head noises, and my hearing is as good as ever."—Mrs. J. B., Chicago, Ill.

Brought Back Hearing

"Your treatment has brought back my hearing. I can hear now about as good as I ever did. I want to thank you."—Mr. E. M., Houston, Texas.

Relieved in 3 Days

"I received your treatment for my catarrhal deafness and in three days' time after I began to use the treatment, my hearing commenced to come back and I feel wonderfully improved. My age is 71 years."—D. H. C., Ashland, Ala.

Hears As Well As Any One

"I can hear just as good as any one. I have no noises in my head and no dropping in my throat. My hearing was very bad to start on. You can use this letter."—Mrs. R. M. of Boulder, Colo.

Hearing Improved

"I was afflicted with the disease catarrh for ten years, had doctored with local doctors, but found no relief until I started your treatment. I had a discharge from my nose and head. Became quite deaf, but now I can hear, and my head has quit aching. I feel like a new woman. You can use this testimonial if you choose."—Mrs. C. B., Ansly, Ala.

Most Wonderful Treatment

"I received your treatment and began using it. I am here to tell you that it is the most wonderful treatment I have ever tried. I have had roaring in my head. I had the worst shortness of breath, cramps and aching in every inch of me. I feel so much better. I can see and hear better, can talk better and feel better all around."—Mrs. Ethel G., Lythia, Fla.

Now Hears Well

J. C. P. says: "I have suffered with nasal catarrh for seven or eight years, had terrible noises in my head. My hearing was seriously afflicted. It was necessary for people to speak very loud for me to hear them. I gave your treatment a trial and assure you I do not regret it, as my hearing has been restored so I can hear ordinary talk and the head noises are among the things of the past. I am 56 years old."

High Finance Is Cheerful.
Politicians Are Busy.
Is Trotsky Dead?
The Last Chapter

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

Copyright, 1925, by The Star Co.

Gentlemen that fix Wall Street's "barometer of prosperity" felt better about their barometer yesterday.

More than 700 corporations had sent out dividend checks. The checks had flowed into out-of-town banks, as brooks flow to rivers and from the "country banks," as high finance condescendingly calls them, the dividends had gone to big New York banks, as rivers flow to the ocean.

"Call money," with which stock gambling is done, dropped to 4½ per cent and men that sometimes know said as though they really believed it:

"The slump is over and the boom is coming back."

The trouble is that those optimists know only sometimes and you can never be sure when they mean what they say. Anyhow, high finance chose to seem cheerful, and little people, who feed the ticker Minotaur with their savings, were encouraged and some "increased their commitments."

Then there was the reported purchase of Dodge Brothers Motor company by Dillon, Read & Co., after an alleged desperate struggle with Morgan & Co., as to which should get the prize. This purchase shows that there is some money left, for the Dodge concern must have cost more than $150,000,000. Such a deal shows that somebody has confidence in the future.

The deal is most interesting as proof that there is opportunity for ability and honesty in this country. The Dodge builders, typical American builders, had both qualities and in a few years built up a concern that would be dirt cheap at $200,000,000.

Politicians, like big financiers, are busy, and planning.

With Mr. Coolidge only just settled in his seat, at least 50 Republican candidates for 1928 are solemnly deciding that Coolidge cannot run again "because that would be a third term, and would annoy George Washington."

President Coolidge has been elected only once, and another term would be his second, but the would-be candidates try to forget that.

Democrats are working hard and prematurely, as though they had never heard of the last two pluralities of seven millions each against them.

Judge Olvany, who succeeds Mr. Murphy as head of Tammany Hall, discovers that Governor Smith is the natural presidential candidate for next time, and points out that with only a minority in the legislature he has beaten the Republican majority to a jelly.

Judge Olvany evidently does not agree with the learned Will Rogers, in a recent speech. With the governor, the judge and all the high men of Tammany listening, he said that Governor Smith's chief handicap in his candidacy would be Tammany Hall.

Tammany or no Tammany, the ablest politicians believe that Al Smith will be the next Democratic candidate, and that he has the best chance of getting real votes.

Meanwhile, friends of Lochinvar McAdoo have sent out from the west a call for a McAdoo supporters' conference on April 13, too, at Kansas City.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, chief Al Smith supporter, had just asked for complete party harmony, and McAdoo throws a tomahawk at him.

Calvin Coolidge is said to be sleeping well through all this.

London hears from Moscow that Trotzky is dead, murdered by order of his enemy, Zinovieff. Another report says Trotzky has fled from his villa in the Caucasus, where he took refuge from his enemies.

If the czar looks down or up, as the earth whirls round, and sees Lenin's body lying, embalmed, in state, and Trotzky, murdered and thrown in some ditch, he probably concludes that everything comes out all right.

The killing of Trotzky, of which there is no proof, would be in accordance with revolutionary precedent. In the big French upheaval Danton passed under the guillotine blade, first of the great leaders, then Robespierre, who had ordered Danton's execution; then came Marat, killed by a woman, and then Napoleon, who showed the world how to kill on a really big scale.

When will the Russian Napoleon appear and complete the revolutionary turnover?

Young men that perhaps envied and admired young Wood, son of General Wood, when he was gambling and winning in Wall Street, and envied and wondered more, as they read the usual lies about his tremendous gambling profits in Europe, should not miss the last chapter of the story.

It came with young Wood's return to this country, in reply to a reporter's question.

MAIL BANDIT SMILES AS HE AWAITS PEERS' VOTE ON LIFE

Gerald Chapman Case Will go to Jury Before Nightfall.

ARGUMENTS MADE

Notorious Desperado Confident of Acquittal on Murder Count.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 3.—Gerald Chapman's fate is in the hands of a jury.

The case of the notorious super bandit, charged with the murder of James Skelly, a policeman of New Britain, Conn., was given to the jury in superior court at 12:59 this afternoon.

Final Pleas Made.

Attorneys for both sides made final pleas this morning.

Judge Fred Groehl, Chapman's lawyer, urged the jury to send the bandit back to Atlanta—to let him "live and repent." State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn, summing up for the prosecution, pleaded with the jury to find Chapman guilty of murder in the interest of "your country and your state' 'and send him to the gallows.

Early this afternoon Judge Newell Jennings read his charge to the jury.

Eager Crowds Present.

Chapman entered the court room this morning, visibly elated over memories of his favorable impression made on the witness stand. He smiled confidently while talking with counsel.

Eager crowds outside the court house jostled with a cordon of police for admission to the trial.

The court room was filled hours before Judge Jennings took his place on the bench. Frederick G. Groehl, of the Chapman counsel, faced the jury in a closing 40 minute plea for the life of the mail bandit. He resumed his address shortly after 10 o'clock.

"I do not want this man convicted for a crime, (the murder of Skelly), he did not do," Groehl declared to the

Large Crowd Hears Salvation Army's Divisional Chiefs

Major W. A. Baillie, divisional commander, Cleveland; Major W. H. Heift, Cincinnati, and Major Braunn, Pittsburgh, attended the revival service in the Salvation Army citadel last evening.

Major Heift spoke at the service at which there were ten seekers. The meeting was in charge of Adjutant John G. Dean and Envoy A. B. Carey, divisional revivalist, of Cleveland.

The revival campaign, which opened last Tuesday, will continue tonight and Saturday and all of next week.

TORNADO RELIEF HITS $511 MARK

Additional contributions, which have been received at Red Cross headquarters today, brought the tornado relief fund to the $511 mark.

Mrs. Isaac W. Knowles, formerly of this city, now making her home with relatives at London, Ohio, forwarded a $100 check. The banks turned over to the Red Cross $26 in small contributions left there by depositors. The "Rosebuds of Hadassah," and organization of Jewish girls, contributed $5. Previous contrbutions totaled $385.

The Red Cross will continue to accept contributions for this fund at its Market street headquarters.

POLICE IN HUNT

Stolen Reo Brougham Carries Pennsylvania License.

Police are attempting to locate the owner of a Reo brougham, carrying a Pennsylvania license, which was abandoned near the corner of Dresden avenue and Ninth street about 9 o'clock this morning. The automobile is believed to have been stolen.

Two boys, who, police say, were about 18 years of age, and who are reported to have driven the car to East Liverpool, escaped across the river into Newell.

Robert Schmidt, proprietor of a Dresden avenue grocery, notified police headquarters that two lads in the machine had aroused his suspicions because of their actions.

Patrolman James Haley, on duty in the Diamond, was instructed to investigate. The lads disappeared when they saw the officer approach. The car was without gasoline, but was

Public Examination Catechumens Sunday In Lutheran Church

Public examination of a class of catechumens, which has been in charge of Dr. J. G. Reinartz, pastor of the St. John's Lutheran church, will take place in the church at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

The holy rites of confirmatfon will be administered at the 7:30 o'clock service Sunday evening at which time Dr. Reinartz will speak on the subject, "Fight the Height of Faith, Lay Hold on Eternal Life, Where Unto Thou Art Also Called." Special music, appropriate to the occasion, will be given by the choir.

The church will be decorated for this service by a committee of young people. The public is invited to attend.

11-FOOT FENCE ON PATTERSON FIELD PLANNED FOR NEXT FALL

Board of Education Discusses Suggestion of School Officials.

WILL COST $700

Revenue for Half Year $13,000 Short of Estimate.

Patterson Field will be fenced before the 1925 football season starts, if plans discussed by the board of education last night materialize.

The question was brought to the attention of the board in a communication from Miss Florence Updegraff, high school principal, and O. V. Boone, director of athletics, who recommended that the athletic field be enclosed with an 11-foot wire fence, attached to metal posts. It was pointed out that added revenue which would result from encolsing the grounds for athletic games would more than pay for the improvement in one or two seasons.

President J. H. Brookes reported that the fencing would cost about $700. The fence on the north end of the field would not be permanent as this section would be moved as the lot is gradually filled. However, the fence on the remaining three sides would be permanent.

Dumpmaster Place Sought.

The board referred the matter to the buildings and grounds committee, of which George Wilhelm is chairman, with instructions that bids be received and a report made at the next meeting.

Thomas F. Bebout appeared before the board with an application for the position as dumpmaster at the athletic field. He offered to supervise the work of filling the grounds for the salvage which he could obtain from the lot. He promised to be on the job throughout the day and look after the grandstand and other property on the field.

The board instructed Clerk E. J. Gaston to communicate with the city council, recommending the appoint-

ONE DEAD, TWO HURT IN FIRE

Roomer Burns to Death in New York Blaze.

NEW YORK, April 3.—One man was burned to death and two women were injured today in a fire which destroyed the top floor of a boarding house at 210 Lenox avenue.

John Bauman, a roomer, was trapped in his room, where the flames started and perished before help could reach him.

Miss Elizabeth Miller was carried down a scaling ladder to safety by a fireman just as she prepared to leap from the top floor.

Charles Marko, the landlord, and Mrs. Anna McCrea were burned.

Atlas China Co. Will Rebuild Plant Damaged by Fire

The Atlas China company, at Niles, announced today it would rebuild the sections of its plant destroyed by fire last Sunday.

A. O. C. Ahrendts, formerly of Chester, manager of the plant, said that plans for the new department are being prepared and that work will be started as soon as the bebris is cleared away. The loss was estimated at between $250,000 and $300,000 entirely covered by insurance.

Sufficient stock is on hand to fill orders until about May 1. It is not believed that the factory will be ready for operation before August.

Many former East Liverpool potters were thrown out of work by the blaze.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The criminal indictments against the three biggest figures in the great oil "scandal"—ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert D. Fall, Harry F. Sinclair and Edward L. Doheny—were quashed in the supreme court of the District of Columbia today by Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy.

Without expressing any opinion on the guilt or innocence of the accused men, Justice McCoy dismissed the indictment on technical grounds — the principal one being that the presence of a government attorney, Oliver Pagan, in the grand jury room during the taking of testimony vitiated their instruments.

The indictments had charged the trio with criminal conspiracy in the leasing of Teapot Dome oil field to

De Molay Members Will Honor Memory Of Harry Smith

Members of Harding chapter, Order of DeMolay, will meet in the Masonic temple, Broadway, at 7 o'clock tonight, to view the body of the late Harry Smith, high school junior, who died from suffocation last Tuesday afternoon while pinned beneath a farm tractor.

They will march to the Sturgis funeral home, West Fifth street.

Funeral services will be conducted in the Sturgis funeral home at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, with Rev. Peter W. MacCauley, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Lisbon, in charge. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

MERCY RECOMMENDATION BY JURY SAVES SLAYER FROM ELECTRIC CHAIR

Wellsville Man is Found Guilty of Murder of Rocco Benvento, Poolroom Proprietor, Who Was Shot to Death on Street in Neighboring City on Feb. 22 Last.

THIRTEEN BALLOTS TAKEN BY JURORS WHO DEBATE CASE FOR SEVEN HOURS

Judge Calvin H. Wood of Mt. Gilead Passes Sentence After Advised of Motion by Defense for New Trial — Prosecutor Robert M. Brookes Victor in First Murder Case.

A jury's recommendation of mercy, in returning a first degree murder verdict, today saved James Gagliardi, 45, Wellsville mill worker, from the death chair as a penalty for killing Rocco Benvento, 23, poolroom owner.

Judge Calvin H. Wood, of Mt. Gilead, sentenced Gagliardi to life imprisonment in the penitentiary.

"Guilty of first degree murder, with mercy recommended," was the verdict returned by the jurors at 9:37 o'clock last night at Lisbon, following more than seven hours' deliberation of the evidence in the case.

Gagliardi, who was represented by Attorney J. C. Hanley, of East Liverpool, and George T. Farrell, of Lisbon, claimed he shot and killed Benvento in self-defense on the street in Wellsville on Feb. 22, last.

Prosecutor Robert M. Brookes, of East Liverpool, and his assistant, J. E. Bauknecht, of East Palestine, asked the death penalty in their arguments to the jury.

Will Seek New Trial.

The jury, which took 13 ballots before returning its verdict was unanimous for conviction from the first vote, it is said, but the debate ensued over the question of recommending mercy.

When the convicted man was asked by Judge Wood today if he had anything to say before sentence was passed, Gagliardi turned to his counsel and made a statement which prompted their announcement that a motion for a new trial would be filed within the three-day limit permitted by law. This motion probably will be filed this afternoon.

Judge Wood, after passing sentence, ordered Sheriff George Wright to detain the prisoner in the county jail for five days. This means the prisoner will be held in Lisbon until Judge Wood returns from Morrow county to hear arguments on the motion for a new trial.

The verdict was a victory for the state in the first murder trial prosecuted by Prosecutor Brookes since assumption of his office early in January.

Jurors Ask Question.

The jury returned its verdict at 9:22 o'clock last night after considering the evidence from 1:55 o'clock.

At 3:08 o'clock, the jurors, suspending balloting, handed the following written question to the judge:

FIRE DAMAGES KILNSHED ROOF

Members of the East End and Central fire department were called to the No. 1 plant of the Homer Laughlin China company, East End, at 7 o'clock last evening by fire which started in the roof around a decorating kiln.

The blaze was kept under control by automatic sprinklers, pending the arrival of the firemen, who extinguished it with chemicals. The loss was small.

SKEGGS NAMED ROTARY GOVERNOR

CANTON, April 3.—Leonard Skeggs of Youngstown was today elected governor of 218th Ohio Rotary district.

Inter-city Raider Bureau Quits; Two Under Indictment

The Harris - Webster Detective agency of Steubenville, whose operatives took part in the East Liverpool - Wellsville liquor raiders' war last January, following enactment of the fine-splitting sleuth measure by the city council here, has passed out of existence.

Caleb S. Harris, senior member of the agency, left Steubenville Tuesday, asserting that he was going to Columbus to engage in prohibition work. Charles Webster, his partner, quit Steubenville about a month ago.

Both Harris and Webster are under indictment in the Jefferson county courts on charges of assault growing out of a liquor raid near Knoxville last December. They were connected with the courts of three Jefferson county village mayors, who have been called before Governor Donahey on complaints that they were abusing the privileges of their offices in liquor enforcement operations.

J. N. KIRKENDALL DIES OF FEVER

Funeral Services Will be Held Here Tomorrow.

J. Neil Kirkendall, 35, a former resident of this city, died at the Warren city hospital, at 10 o'clock, Thursday morning, following a four week's illness of typhoid fever and pneumonia.

He is a son of Mrs. Milo Kirkendall, and graduated from the East Liverpool high school with the class of 1909. He studied chemistry at Carnegie Tech following his graduation and for several years worked as a mail carrier at the local postoffice. Later he went to Warren where he has been employed as a chemist for the Trumbull Steel corporation.

Mr. Kirkendall is survived by his mother, his wife, formerly Miss Ethel Williams, and two children, Betty Jane and Robert Neil, twins. One sister, Miss May Kirkendall, of this city, also survives.

He was a member of Riddle Lodge No. 315, F. & A. M., of this city and the First Church of Christ.

The body will be brought to the First Church of Christ at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon where funeral services will be conducted. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

ALMERIA, Spain, April 3.—Six pupils were killed, six seriously injured and many slightly injured when the roof of a school building fell in here today. Dampness was blamed for the accident.

MENTAL STATUS OF ELLINGSON GIRL MAY BE DETERMINED THIS WEEK

Speeding Matricide's Insanity Trial, Counsel Plan to Finish Case by Adjournment Tonight.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—The mental status of Dorothy Ellingson probably will be determined this week.

Speeding her sanity trial today, her counsel planned to finish their case by adjournment of court tonight.

Testimony of Dr. Jau Don Ball and possibly one or two other alienists was expected to conclude the defense case. The basis of their case in the form of hypothetical questions has been built in lay evidence now before the jury of nine men and three women who will determine the issue.

Summaries of this evidence indicated:

1. Pre-natal influences of a mentally disturbed mother and an alcoholic father pre-disposed the 17-year-old girl to insanity and waywardness in extreme youth.

3—Abnormal physical development for her age, an unstable vaso-motor system, an under-functioning thyoid giand and an absnomarry high blood pressure.

4—Unnatural conduct immediately after the slaying of her mother in attending a party and the abnormal slaying itself.

The case was practically in reverse

JUSTICE RULES AGAINST JURY'S VERDICT IN COL. DENNISTOUN CASE

Pretty Divorced Wife of British Army Officer Loses $25,000 Damages Awarded Her.

LONDON, April 3.—In the face of the jury's verdict that Colonel Ian Dennistoun had entered into an agreement to support his divorced wife, Justice McCardie today handed down his decision that the agreement was void and unenforceable.

By the decision pretty Mrs. Dorothy Dennistoun loses the $25,000 damages against her former husband which the jury awarded her. Technical rulings added by Justice McCardie practically divided the costs of the case between Col and Mrs. Dennistoun.

A stay of execution was granted by the justice in order to permit either Dennistoun or his wife to enter an appeal.

McCardie held that Col. Dennistoun had not acted oppressively and therefore should not be held for the costs upon the claim for breach of contract which his divorced wife brought against him.

Defends English Social Life.

The jury had awarded Mrs. Dennistoun, who divorced Dennistoun prior to his marriage to Lady Carnarvon, $25,000 damages and $6,000 debt claims after a trial which electrified London with its testimony of intrigue in the upper strata of social London

POEMS THAT LIVE

Home.

The gods had been planning and scheming one day
For a new kind of joy and a new kind of play,
So they left the blue sky and they came down below
And they looked all around 'till a place that I know
Caught their hearts and their eyes, and they shouted 'Now, we're
Just going to build us a paradise here."
So they brought down a bit of the sun from the sky
And a particle sweet of a song floating by;
They mixed them with something, 'twas just half and half
Of sorrow and gladness—a tear and a laugh;
And, here and then there, from the realms high above
They brough them and sprinkled them—ashes of love.

They wailed them all inw ith a trust strong and true,
And windows they made where the light could shine through;
And they roofed it all over with shingles of joy
That seasons nor weather nor hate could destroy.
And then—I could never tell why it should be—
They sealed it and blessed it and gave it to me.

Spends His Fortune Chasing Phantom Fortune in U. S.

PRAGUE, April — Adolf Kluger, a tailor of Olmeuetz, has spent his entire fortune chasing a phantom fortune in the United States.

A Moravian named Sigel died in the United States and advertisements appeared in the Czech Slovakian newspapers for information as to his heirs. Kluger devoted his entire time and money to proving that he was the rightful heir, and promised his fellow townsmen that he would build them a gymnasium and equip a new fire department when he came into his fortune.

Sigel's will has arrived from the United States and shows that he left no estate whatever.

Pupil Suspected as Explosion Wrecks Schoolhouse, Killing One

Did a pupil cause the explosion that wrecked the Wilkins public school in Pittsburgh? Authorities are investigating the blast, for which no reason can be assigned, from this angle. The only person in the building at the time, an aged janitor, was buried in the ruins. The loss exceeds $100,000.

Announcing the New Clasp-Front Madame X Reducing Girdle

New model opens in front; back lacing makes it easily adjustable as you become more slender. Has all the superior features of the original reducing girdle. Based on the same principle of rubber massage, that quickly takes off many inches from waist, hips and thighs.

AND now an entirely new model of the famous Madame X Girdle that you can get on or off in a jiffy! The new clasp-front Madame X has all the superior features of the original step-in model and is like it in every way, except that it is hooked down the front and can be quickly opened and adjusted.

Is worn as a corset, over the undergarment and will take inches from waist, hips and thighs in an amazingly short time. The cut out front insures perfect comfort and freedom, and the back lacing makes it easy to adjust as you become more slender. Gives marvelous support to the muscles of back and sides. The attractive brocaded rubber, soft and flexible as a fine kid glove, makes a garment as dainty as it is comfortable and effective in reducing. So strong and durable it will not crack or split. Hand-turned hem prevents tearing.

Smartness Achieved by Simple, Individual Lines

Individuality is the keynote of the frocks and hats illustrated. In the bouffant gown on the left quaintness is stressed. It is fashioned of taffeta in ashes of roses and is elaborately embroidered. The scarf motif is incorporated by an embroidered band that ties loosely in front. The frock on the right is a black satin model with graduated flounce on the skirt and a dainty collar of white net. The larger type of hat pictured in the upper center has a brim that narrows toward the back. It is made of black hair with satin trim and a pearl ornament to give a touch of contrast. The small lower one blends orange and brown shades, the trimming being "crushed" over the brown straw crown.

Answers to Questions

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Review-Tribune Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau can not give advice on legal, medical and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. How long is a visitor's permit good for in this country?—E. F.

A. It is good for six months.

Q. Was the name "Buffalo Bill" applied first to William Mathewson or to Bill Cody?—C. S. W.

A. This has been a controversial question. A friend of both men says that there is no doubt that Mathewson was known by that name first but only to the Indians and pioneers, while Bill Cody was so known to the world at large. Mathewson was never a claimant for the title and was intimate friends of Cody's. It might well be said that "Bill Mathewson had the name first but it remained for Cody to make it famous."

Q. Is there a Federal law requiring that a dog be shot if it has bitten a person?—D. S.

A. There is no Federal law of this character. Many States require such action.

Q. Why do some electric light bulbs turn white when they go bad?—G. H.

A. The Bureau of Standards says if a lamp bulb cracks or if the bulb has been improperly exhausted and air comes into contact with the heated tungsten filament, it actually burns, producing the oxide of tungsten, which is a yellowish power. If a bulb becomes white, it indicates that the bulb leaks where the lead-in-wire enters the bulb, or a small crack in the glass somewhere allows air to enter the bulb and the filament burns up.

Q. I have a Swiss watch number 60. What year was it made?—M. W.

A. Authorities on old clocks and watches state that numbers in watches are not always a sufficient guide to the maker or the date of the time piece. Until recent years it was a practice among certain manufacturers to begin with a high number; the date or two or three figures of the date aer often selected to being the series. The series sometimes represents a cryptogram wheerby the initiated can obtain the date of manufacture.

Q. Have photographs of Kilauea ever been made from the air?—D. G.

A. The 11th Phio. Section of the United States Air Service and Captain Ariel L. Varges of the International News Reel Corporation have recently made photographs, "still" and motion-picture. These are the first aerial photographs of the volcano which have been made.

Q. How was the Sears-Roebuck firm started?—W. J. H.

A. Mr. Roebuck was originally employed by Mr. Richard W. Sears, about 35 years ago as a watch repair man, when Mr. Sears was a very young man and in his early business career when he was doing business in the name of the R. W. Sears Watch Company, which business he sold out and agreed not to go into the mail order watch business again, in his own name for three years. In the meantime he used the name of A. C. Roebuck and had advertised under that name considerably until the three years expired. He then changed the name of Sears, Roebuck and company at Minneapolis. Mr. Roebuck was really never financially interested in the business to any extent, but was in its employment. He has had no connection of any kind with the company during the past 25 years.

Q. By what name is the widow of Lafcadio Hearn known in Japan?—C. J.

A. Mrs. Heorn is known as Mrs. Koizumi.

City Men Require Eight Suits, Says This Authority

CHICAGO, March.—"Seven suits, besides evening dress, is the city man's minimum wardrobe."

This was the declaration of Secretary H. S. Leavitt, of the Illinois Retail Clothers and Furnishers' association, speaking before members at their fifteenth annual convention.

The small town man, on the other hand, has four suits and an extra one for evening wear.

"If he is a smart dresser," added Leavitt, "he will put a red 'hankie' in his breast pocket and wear a tie to match.

"Colored hosiery will continue to be popular this Spring, and so will the new broad, slightly turned up hats. Gray will be the most prevailing.

"Stiff collars to match shirts became popular in the cities, but not in the college towns. College men did not find them comfortable.

"Only practical styles became popular among the male sex. The soft collar attached to the shirt is a practical device, which accounts for its widespread wear," concluded Leavitt.

Town to Impose Tax on Weight to Balance Budget

ROME, April.—To balance the municipal budget, the authorities of Villafranca D'Asti have decided to impose a tax on the bodies of its population.

The population, who in the past have been notorious as very lax taxpayers, have agreed to the new taxation, which will be levied according to the weight of the body, with a minimum for children of two lire.

The maximum tax is seven lire for people weighing above a hundred kilogrammes.

New Arms Conference

Everything now points to another arms conference at Washington, possibly during the summer or fall. It would be a logical step in continuance of the policy established by the last conference, which set a limit to naval strength. The administration wants it, and in sounding out foreign powers finds them generally favorable. An official invitation may be issued now at almost any time, with reasonable certainty of acceptance.

It is air armament that is involved now.

Some further efforts may be made to curtail navies. With battleship strength limited, and the modern value of battleships doubted anyway, there might be a further cut in dreadnought tonnage. Submarines might be limited more strictly than was attempted before. The submarine is regarded as an essential instrument of defense; but it might be so controlled in size and cruising power that it would be confined automatically to that purpose, being incapable of attacking an enemy at a distance. Armored cruisers might be censored, too, and airplane carriers as well.

There is no hope of doing anything to limit land armies until Europe has worked out some kind of peace pact satisfactory to the powers there, especially to France.

So in every such discussion we come back inevitably to air armament. The powers, big and little, look more and more to the air for both attack and defense. But the airplane is becoming essentially a weapon of attack. It would be used in any future war, more than any other fighting arm, for attack at a distance. So non-aggressive nations want to curtail the building of powerful fighting and bombing planes, to insure peace and to avoid unnecessary expense in competitive building. The next conference, therefore, will be primarily an air conference.

German Politics

It is questioned whether the German national election that elected nobody was a victory for the conservatives or the liberals.

A conservative won the highest vote, in the person of Dr. Jarres; but he represented the combined strength of two parties, the Nationalist and Conservative Bourgeois. The largest single party vote was the Socialist vote cast for Otto Braun, and the three liberal parties together are credited with 20 per cent more than the combined vote of the four conservative parties.

There is no telling which party or candidate will win in the second election, in which a mere plurality will suffice. If the Socialists win, however, there will be no such alarm as a Socialist victory would bring in this country. Germany has had a Socialist government for several years, without doing anything very revolutionary. German Socialism is apparently only a moderate link, having nothing in common with Bolshevism.

One of the most satisfactory results of this election, to most Americans as well as most Germans, was the emphatic repudiation of Gen. Ludendorff, reputed "brains" of the late German war, a militarist parading as a Fascist. He polled only a couple of hundred thousand votes.

Crime News

Perhaps the reason why some critics complain that crime is too much emphasized in the newspapers is that they emphasize crime in their reading. In answer to such a published criticism recently, the New York World promptly analyzed the front pages of the four leading New York newspapers and found that the stories of crime actually occupied a small space in the day's news.

The Toronto Globe points out that crime is news, like anything else, and that it would be absorbing human interest even if there were no daily newspapers at all. People would gather in their homes or on the street to discuss any given crime, undoubtedly exaggerating the details and misstating the facts as a good newspaper would not do. Crime has always held a large place in literature.

It is likely that if an honest critic set about seriously to check up on the daily newspapers, as printed, he would find to his own surprise that his paper is full of wholesome, cheerful matters, and that when spectacular news is lacking, interest is found in well-written stories about quiet and seemingly uneventful lives.

Any reader might check up for a week on his own favorite newspaper by way of relief from the cross-word puzzle. He would undoubtedly be surprised and pleased, and he would learn something about a more intelligent use and enjoyment of his paper.

A Dog Monument

A fine statue of Balto, the lead dog of the team that carried the diphtheria serum to Nome, is to erected in Central Park, New York. There will be a heroic bronze figure of Balto, and on the stone base below, carved in relief, will be a representation of the entire dog team tugging at the sledge, with the driver urging them on. The monument will cost $7,000.

Balto is expected to be present "in person" at the dedication. He is one of the few beings, canine or human, distinguished by having monuments raised to them during their lifetime.

Balto himself may not care much. But as it usual with monuments, it will be a good thing for the donors and the beholders. The memorial is intended as "a striking figure pointing to humanity's gratitude to brutes that have helped mankind in great emergencies."

We could stand more of such monuments. And while celebrating dogs, why overlook the equally faithful and heroic horse? Many a horse in American history has earned such distinction in war and peace, from colonial times down to the present day. It would be easy to find worthy examples in any section or state.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

PARIS, April 3.—I spent my last night in Paris at the top of Montmartre hill among the dreamers, poets and philosophers watching the lights twinkle up from below. The great white cathedral of the Sacre Coeur was silhouetted in the distance.

I dined at Nini's in a little, narrow alley-like street. It is a step from the Place du Tertre and many a famous artist has drawn out a frugal meal there. Along the curbs were models and painters in corduroys singing to guitars.

Nini's place is typically Parisian. The past is still the past there. You enter through the kitchen to be greeted by Nini herself. She has a a snowy, crackling apron. She has a robust and matronly figure and wears ruddy face and sharp tongue.

She hurls orders at the shivering man of all work—a patient creature perpetually cowed. Nini does all the cooking and her eccentricities of speech blend with her culinary skill. Only twice has she been down to Paris. Her world is Montmartre.

Off the kitchen is the tiny dining room, seating about 12. It is shining. A small piano has bracketed coal oil lamps. Through the windows the moon was whitening the stones in the court. A long haired poet stopped there to sing for sous flung in his velvet cap.

Nini greeted us with "You know Alex Woolcott. He is my good friend." Then she told a story that cannot be repeated here and lifted her glass of cognac, a rite that always precedes her cooking of the meal. As the pans rattled she berated the slinking servant.

Nini knows what wine is needed. There is poetry to her poulet roti avec pommes frites. Montmartre says Nini has grown rich. On gala occasions she will wear her diamonds—clusters of them.

In the afternoon I strolled through a little street known as rue Visconti. Voltaire lived there, as did Delacroix, the great painter. Also Balsac in the days when he dreamed of being a great publisher. But it interested me most because it was the street in which Oscar Wilde came to his tragic end. It is a garret room of a shabby lodging house at the upper end of the street. On the top floor Wilde, whose works have made the whole world laugh and cry, died, deserted, friendless and alone. In this grimy little section the brilliant, sparkling mind refused to function. During his final illness he was cared for only by the patron of the little hotel and a kindly chambermaid. Two days before he died he sat all day looking out the window—dreaming no doubt of the days when he was the toast of the highest society in London and Paris. His funeral was held from the church of the Saint-Germain des Pres and only a handful of fellow lodgers were present. Of such stuff is fame.

The favorite rendezvous of Oscar Wilde, by the way, continues to be the most interesting spot in Paris to me. That is a sidewalk table in front of the Cafe de la Paix. Many exiled Americans continue this "yokel stuff." They have the same attitude of the New Yorker toward those who ride in the sightseeing buses. It is easy to get a boy out of the country, but difficult to get the "country" out of the boy. I shall continue to enjoy sitting in front of the Cafe de la Paix and riding in yap wagons to the end.

The sommelier—or wine waiter—in cafes is a type. He serves only the wine and is distinguished from his fellow waiters by a black apron. He is always red faced and pudgy and usually tipsy from consuming the left-overs in the bottles he serves. He moves about turtle fashion to keep from staggering on his feet. There is a legend in France that the sommelier invariably lives to a ripe old age.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By LUTHER A. HUSTON.

TOKIO, April 3.—"Bootleg dancing" is the vogue just now in Tokio.

That does not mean that those who dance are bootleggers, for that species of the genus homo is unknown in the Japanese capital. Neither does it mean that those who attend the dances come loaded with liquor, internally or externally, nor anything like that.

It simply means that those who wish to dance in Tokio nowadays have to do so surreptitiously, much after the alleged furtive and illicit manner by which booch is acquired, if any, within the jurisdiction of the eighteenth amendment.

For some unexplained reason the mass psychology of Japan apparently regards dancing as a manifestation of decadent self-indulgence. To dance, the idea seems to be, is to be unfaithful to the high ideals of conduct which all patriotic Japanese should observe.

It would be improper, of course, to say that all Japanese object to dancing. Lots of them like it. Even many who do not like it themselves have no objection to others dancing. But there is an active element, apparently quite well organized, that frowns upon dancing, and this element has virtually succeeded in preventing all public dancing in Japan for many months.

The first manifestation against dancing, it will be recalled, was made last June, when members of an organization called Taikosha, which means literally "Great Forward Society," created an uproar that reverberated across the Pacific by breaking up a dance at the Imperial hotel. Many Americans, including members of the staff of the United States embassy, and other foreigners were thrown into a panic when the valiant Taikosha band entered the ballroom and broke up the party.

Since that time there has been no regular public dancing at the Imperial hotel or anywhere else in Tokio.

Officially there is a police ban against dancing in Japanese restaurants. The ban has never been interpreted as applying to foreigners, but the fact remains that when foreigners dance at the hotel or elsewhere in public, some Japanese dance also. Therefore the police will give no protection to these dances and such organizations as the Taikosha meet with little opposition if they decide to take action.

Recently the Imperial hotel attempted to hold regular Saturday night dinner dances. After two weeks there were discontinued. No reason was given, but it was rumored that the management of the hotel had received warnings that continuation of the dancing would mean repetition of incidents similar to that of last June.

So now, if Americans or Europeans in Tokio want to dance they have to assemble, more or less secretly, in some private and secluded room, muffle the saxophone, the slide trombone and the trap drums, and tread exceedingly soft the measure of the festive fox trot. The result is that dances are few and far between and only those who are most ardent in pursuit of the pastime indulge in it.

Of course, it is only the dances of the Occident that meet with the disapproval of the patriotic anti-dancing Japanese. Nightly the gaities of the geisha houses, where the dances of the Orient flouish, proceed unmolested. It is the joyful jazz and not the seductive strains of the samisen that arouses Japanese resentmane.

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

They're Chewing Gum in Europe.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 3.—It has not been so long ago that the memory of man runs not to the contrary when Americans were freely criticised in England and on the continent for two things—their vulgar display of wealth and their habit of chewing gum.

Now Europeans nestle right up to us and encourage us in every possible way not only to display our wealth and spend it, but to lend it and forget all about the I. O. U.'s. Also they are chewing our chewing gum and liking it!

American gum has been so generally accepted by the English, according to a report of the Department of Commerce, that sales are very little affected in competition with the island-made variety which sells at approximately one-half the price. France, Denmark and Scotland are also large consumers of American gum, with Germany fast acquiring a taste that should result in larger sales by the United States.

In England gum chewing is a seasonal occupation, or pastime. Beginning with January, sales of the commodity reach the peak during the summer months, and they fall off perceptibly with the approach of the Christmas season.

Discussing confectionery generally, the report says that with the possible exception of continental Europe, where easy access to raw materials has developed the market to the point where American exporters find it difficult to meet the price competition of foreign manufacturers, most of the countries offer fields for the further development of the export trade of this country.

The idiosyncrasies of the trade must be understood and catered to in order to sell in competition with the foreign products now on the market, it is stated. The French and the Belgians do not like their candy boxed, but prefer to select the size, type and contents, their inclinations tending toward the ornamental box. The Latvian trade prefers plain cardboard containers. Two distinct types of confections are imported by Morocco, a better grade for the wealthy and for foreigners, and a cheaper grade for the natives. Chocolate and caramels are most popular in Sweden, while in Portuguese East Africa hard candies are favored.

In some of the markets which seem to offer large possibilities to American exporters, especially at points of transit, American confections are not displayed for sale. The department stresses the value of advertising in order to popularize confectionery lines, and gives the preferred methods of procedure for entring those markets.

Foodstuffs Exports Increase.

American farmers may not be greatly interested in the foreign market for chewing gum and candy, but they will be in the growing demand abroad for foodstuffs produced in the United States, which is shown in another report of the Department of Commerce. Foodstuffs exports increased last year $127,028,000 over 1924, and the rapid growth in these

IT is such an easy thing to do—just put MULKEY'S IODINE SALT in all your salt shakers and don't ever use any other kind of salt for cooking, baking or on the table. Although MULKEY'S SALT has a slight iodine content—enough to prevent goiter if used regularly—it has the same taste and color as ordinary free-running salt. Recommended by health authorities in practically every locality where simple goiter is endemic.

CLEMENTEL OUT; PARIS CABINET AVERTS CRISIS

Anatole De Monzie Becomes Minister of Finance.

Appointment Will Mean Change in Policy Toward Vatican.

PARIS, April 3.—The chamber of deputies today gave Premier Herriot and his government a vote of confidence, with a vote of 530 to 0, following close on the appointment of Anatole De Monsie as minister of Finance to succeed Etienne Clementel, who resigned last night. Clementel's resignation, was the culmination of his premature announcement to the chamber that the government faced a financial stringency which made it necessary to issue additional paper francs.

Although the opposition voted confidence in Herriot, the opposition members kept up a continual uproar, crying "resign," "resign."

Chairman Painleve adjourned the chamber until Thursday.

De Monsie is reported to have accepted the post of financial minister with the understanding that the government's policy against maintaining an embassy at the vatican would be changed.

"I obtained satisfaction on the vatican question before accepting the ministry." De Monsie told International News Service.

The government is convinced of the necessity of thorough financial reform and finds the present moment opportune for such reform, was the cabinet's attitude.

An all-night meeting of the cabinet followed Clementel's resignation after his unauthorized declaration before the senate that the government intended to increase bank note circulation a limited amount for commercial needs. Paris was rife with reports that Premier Herriot's position had been made untenable by Clementel's stand for inflation.

Premier Forces Resignation.

Herriot hurried to the chamber when he heard what Clementel had said, and after demanding an immediate correction from the finance minister, followed him to the tribune with a speech which left Clementel no course but to resign.

De Monzie was named in his place. His name will be presented to the chamber of deputies this afternoon.

Before the cabinet meeting at Elysee palace today, at which President Doumergue himself presided, the new finance minister's views were presented by Minister of the Interior Camille Chautemps in the exclusive interview with International News Service.

"De Monzie is in complete agreement with Premier Herriot and the remaining ministers upon the question of financial policy," Minister Chautemps said. "The keynote of this policy is not inflation for government needs, but the emission of increased currency for commercial requirements.

"The government will supply the necessary funds by a new appeal to the country and by increasing taxation, but there will be no inflation."

Herriot's Reforms Ready.

Morning newspapers revealed sharp differences of opinion between Premier Herriot and Clementel. Louchers' Petit Journal and Echo D'Paris explained that Clementel demanded increases in income taxes of from 50 to 100 per cent and increasing the amount of bank notes, whereas the premier plans a tax on capital. Capital levy was the solution favored by Quotidien, which said:

"Premier Herriot's reforms are ready and they provide the equitable participation of all classes in the national charges. If the alternative is necessary some day between insidious bankruptcy by inflation on the one hand and capital levy on the other, all Democrats will choose the honorable and just solution of a capital levy."

jury, referring to Chapman. Groehl admitted Chapman was a crook.

Bitterly Denounces "Piker."

Groehl bitterly denounced Walter Shean, self-confessed accomplice of Chapman. "When Chapman held up the mail truck in New York he picked no weakling," Groehl asserted. "Do you think it reasonable that Chapman would pick a 'piker' like Shean to work with. The accused used Shean as a 'lobbygal,' if at all, merely a hanger-on."

Groehl then took up the identification of Shean "as the man who shot me" by the dying Skelly brought out in the testimony.

"A dying man wouldn't be mistaken as to the man who shot him," declared Groehl.

Groehl made a stirring address, driving home his points by smashing his fist down on the counsel table. He finished with this dramatic exhortation:

"Chapman is going back to the dungeon in Atlanta prison, where he'll never escape. Let him live to repent. That is the best punishment you can give him. I am satisfied he will die in Atlanta jail.

"If you are satisfied as to a reasonable doubt. I say, gentlemen, let him live to repent."

The defense closed its summation at 10:32 o'clock.

Prosecutor's Summation.

Prosecutor Hugh M. Alcorn began the closing summation for the state. Alcorn referred to the defense's closing statements as "honeyed words" designated to "save a savage criminal," from the penalty of "an atrocious, cold-blooded murder."

He argued that if Chapman was returned to Atlanta he would escape again and continue his "depredations against society." He insisted the testimony of pistol experts concerning the linking of the "murder bullet" with the gun found on Chapman when captured in Indiana was correct.

Alcorn fisnished his summation at 11:44.

LEGION PLANS DISTRICT MEET

Three Hundred Will Attend Conference at Alliance.

A special meeting of East Liverpool post No. 4, American Legion, will be held in the post rooms, 633 Dresden avenue, at 8 o'clock tonight, to arrange for the district conference which will be held Sunday at Alliance.

Between 200 and 300 legionnaires from 27 counties in the northeastern part of the state will attend the conclave. Sessions, morning and afternoon, will be held in the Eagles' temple.

State Commander Milo J. Warner, Toledo; State Adjutant J. J. Savleskie, Columbus, and other department and district officers will attend.

Local Legion members will endeavor to bring the next district meeting to East Liverpool. Canton, Youngstown, Warren, Alliance, Cleveland, Akron, Ashtabula and other towns have entertained the Legion members at district sessions.

The local party will leave the Legion rooms in automobiles at 9 o'clock Sunday morning.

"Yes," said Wood, "I made it in speculation, but what a jackass I was to go and lose it all." That's the kind of jackass that gambling usually produces. Take warning against stocks, horse races, cards or get-rich-quick schemes.

The birth control conference declares, after a week's discussion that "persons whose progeny gives promise of being of decided value should be encouraged to have large families."

That's sound enough, but how are you going to select the "persons" whose children will be worth while? How would you have picked out the unmarried peasant girl that was Leonardo da Vinci's mother, or the tanner's daughter that became mother of William the Conqueror, before she was married?

The only reliable sign of desirable "progeny" is the desire of a woman to have children, and her willingness to take care of them.

"If women don't want children, the wisest thing is not to have them, and the same with men, only more so."

There is a new little war cloud in Europe. Poland and Russia agreed to exchange political prisoners. Russians for Poles. On their way to the Polish frontier, two of the Russian prisoners, prominent Bolshevists, were murdered by Polish police and Russia objects.

There is talk of Russia killing her Polish hostages, but that probably won't happen. War could happen, however, and France would be in it immediately, by agreement with Poland.

What, in that case, would this country do?

It's a question important to our profiteering patriotis of the late war.

It's several years since they had a real chance to show their patriotism, on a "cost plus" basis.

ment of Bebout. He will work under the supervision of the city council and board of health, but will follow the school board's orders regarding the filling operations.

Councilman Thomas Farrall attended the meeting of the board and pledged council's co-operation with the school board and the board of health in having the dump supervised.

Rent Field for Carnival.

The board granted the local lodge, Modern Woodmen of America, permission to use Patterson field for a carnival during the week of June 15-21. The rental fee was fixed at $100 for the week, to be paid at the first meeting following the close of the carnival.

That the school's revenue for the first half of the year will be about $13,000 short of estimates, was reported by Clerk Gaston. Gaston said that County Auditor Hamilton's final settlement of taxes, collected in January, showed $144,670.54 as the school board's share, as compared with approximately $157,000, the estimate.

The shrinkage, it is said, was due to the fact that many property owners were delinquent in tax settlements following the announcement of the reappraisal figures. It is thought, however, that tax payments in June will surpass the January collections.

I. A. Hoffman submitted his application to teach summer school at the Central school building. Miss Helen Perry also applied for a position as primary instructor in the summer school. Both applications were filed.

Bishop Schrembs To Leave Cleveland For Rome April 16

CLEVELAND, April 3.—Bishop Joseph Schrembs, head of the Catholic diocese of Cleveland, will leave Cleveland April 16, for his Holy Year Pilgrimage to Rome.

Formal announcement of the departure of the prelate will be read in all churches of the diocese Sunday.

According to reports in circulation here, Bishop Schrembs may be appointed as the successor of Archbishop Henry Moeller of the Cincinnati archdiocese and should such be the case it was expected that announcement of the appointment will be made during his visit to Rome either late this month or early in May.

Contributions for "Peter's Pence," from the Cleveland diocese, will be taken Easter Sunday, and will be presented to Pope Pius in person by Bishop Schrembs, according to the official letter.

SIX SAVED AS MANSION BURNS

Firemen Rescue Trapped Inmates of Newton, Mass., Show Place.

NEWTON, Mass., April 3.—Trapped by fire in the Felton mansion, Herbert L. Felton, his wife, daughter and three maids were rescued by firemen today. Herbert Felton Jr., a son, risked death by running down a blazing stairway and summoning help.

Before the days of prohibition Felton was proprietor of a rum distillery and the fame of his product was country-wide.

The mansion, one of the show places of West Newton, was destroyed by the flames.

Felton, his wife and 13-year-old daughter, Anna, were crouching on a balcony extending over the front entrance to the mansion when firemen arrived. Ladders were put up and the family was carried to safety.

The three maids were rescued from a second story window at the rear of the house.

TWO MEN HELD ON RUM CHARGE

Charged with the unlawful transportation of intoxicating liquors, Gilbert Wright, 1012 Pennsylvania avenue, and Stonewall Gowen, also of this city, are being held today by the Beaver County authorities in default of $2,000 bail each.

They were arrested by County Detectives Dan M. Baker and William Davidson and State Trooper Brownwell, Wednesday, while they were alleged to be transporting 25 gallons of moonshine liquor between West Bridgewater and East Liverpool. They were traveling in a coupe, belonging to Wright.

Wright and Gowen were arraigned before Justice Addison Courtney of Bridgewater. The car is being held by Beaver county authorities.

mercy carry any hope for pardon? If not, can we recommend without pardon."

Judge Wood then said that in his charge the jury had received all instructions necessary. The jurors then returned to their room and at 5:30 o'clock, in custody of Sheriff George Wright, and Bailiff Bernard Sultner, were taken to dinner at the Hasbrouck hotel. At 6:30, the jury was again locked up. At 9:17, with Miss Belle McHenry of East Liverpool, leading, they returned to the court room.

Mercy Recommendation Debated.

After the verdict had been read by Clerk of Court John T. Burns, Attorney J. C. Hanley, of counsel for the defense, asked for a poll of the jury.

"Is this your verdict?" Thomas Cannon, one of the jurors, was asked by Clerk Burns.

"It is," he replied.

The same answer was returned by each of the other eleven jurors.

On the first ballot the jury voted unanimously for murder in the first degree, but one of the jurors brought up the question of recommending mercy. Upon this point, the jurors fought for 12 more ballots.

After submitting their verdict, the jurors were discharged.

Fall, Doheny Win

Sinclair and the leasing of Elk Hills reserves in California, to Doheny.

Quashed on Technicalities.

Justice McCoy decided that when congress authorized the special counsel to prosecute the oil case, Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, thereby took the case out of the hands of the ordinary legal department of the government. Consequently, the court decided, when Pagan, who is the indictment expert of the department of justice, remained in the jury room during the taking of testimony, it made the whole proceedings unlawful and inviated the indictments.

Whether the government will appeal from the court's decision and seek the re-indictment of the trio, was not immediately made known, but it was said to be likely in view of the fact that the indictments were quashed purely on legal technicalities and without the court's passing upon the government's basic contentions of fraud and conspiracy.

If no appeal is taken, then the government's criminal case against Fall, Sinclair and Doheny, collapses.

The indictment which linked Doehny's son, Edward L. Doehny, Jr., and alleged bearer of the "little black satchel," was also quashed on the same grounds as the others.

Two Courses Open.

In the absence of Roberts and Pomerene, the special oil counsel, other government attorneys would make no statement concerning the government's future course. It was said, however, that two courses are open—the government can appeal from Justice McCoy's ruling on the present indictments, or it can accept the ruling and obtain new indictments on the same evidence, taking care to eliminate the irregularties which led to the overturning of the present instruments.

Pomerene is in Cleveland and Roberts is in Philadelphia, it was said at their offices.

Justice McCoy's decision was handed down in the two cases of Doheny and Fall, but in his opinion he alluded to the separate indictment of Sinclair on similar charges and the quashing of Sinclair's indictment along with the rest was included in the court's order. The court upheld two contentions of the government and two of counsel for Fall, Sinclair and Doheny.

later re-fueled and driven to the city hall by Charles Bryan, son of Fire Chief Bryan, upon Officer Haley's orders.

Escape Into West Virginia

Police were rushed to the state line to head the pair off should they attempt to return to Pennsylvania. Constable T. C. Smith, who joined in the search for the boys received a tip, they were headed down Fifth street in the direction of the Newell bridge. Near the parochial school he halted two boys whom he suspected.

While he was talking to the lads, two others, who were farther down the street, broke into a run, heading for the Newell bridge. Constable Smith followed them but when he reached the bridge they had escaped into West Virginia.

The machine is believed to have been stolen from Midland, Beaver Falls, or Pittsburgh. Its value, according to the local dealer, is about $2,300.

It carried Pennsylvania license No. 109-819, engine number 57,049, and serial number 67,169.

Before handing down his decision today, the justice offered a defense of England's social life.

"I agree with Justice Shearman that cases like this do not represent the general life of the well-to-do of England," he said, referring to the judge's comment when Mrs. Muriel Waterhouse secured a $50,000 judgment against Captain Sir David Wilson-Barker and Lady Wilson-Barker.

"These cases give a wholly false impression of English family and social life," he added.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, April 3. The motor and oil stocks were the features in a dull and inactive market in early trading today. The market was devoided of feature, except possibly the heavy demand for American Sugar Refining common, which advanced to 67 on prospects of dividend action by the directors next month.

Weekly statement of the New York federal reserve bank was a favorable commentary on money market developments, the reserve ratio having risen from 77.7 to 79.4 per cent.

Standard Oil of New Jersey continued in the leadership of petroleum stocks, its advance to above 42 being a gain of about four points above Monday's low.

There was also a good demand for Pierce Arrow preferred, Studebaker and other of the well known motor stocks. Nash motor sold at 310, Pierce Arrow preferred at 50 was up about four points, from yesterday's low. General Motors and Studebaker were laggards.

St. Paul stocks declined to new levels for the year, but the Northwestern railroad stocks which were under pressure last week made further recovery.

Grain and cotton were fairly steady in the early trading. French exchange was weak and sterling steady. Call money remained at 3¾ per cent.

John McMechen, 77, Prominent Ohioan, Dies After Fall

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, April 3.—John B. McMechen, 77, one of the most prominent and widely known citizens of eastern Ohio is dead at his home here today. His death was the direct result of injuries sustained Saturday, when, in walking up stairs at his home, he slipped and fell, his head striking a post.

McMechen was active in the affairs of the United Presbyterian church, having served as treasurer of the Ohio synod for years. He was also at one time a trustee of the Pittsburgh Theological seminary.

At the time of his death he was general agent of the National Life Insurance company, and was at one time president of the Valley Savings bank here.

He is survived by his widow and one son, William F. McMechen, of Tulsa, O.

$25,000 Fire Hits Ohio Village; No Water to Fight it

BRIDGEPORT, April 3, — Fire of undetermined origin early today destroyed the store, pool room and dance hall of Abramogn Ginjiacomo and his residence adjoining at Uniontown, 15 miles from here, with a loss estimated at $25,000. There was about $12,000 insurance.

The fire broke out about 2 o'clock. Firemen summoned from St. Clairsville were unable to cope with the blaze as the town is without a water supply.

A dance in the hall had broken up an hour previously.

NEW LEGAL MOVE IN "GERM MURDER"

CHICAGO, April 3.—More legal bickering loomed on the horizon of the McClintock murder case here today as attorneys for William D. Sheperd, defendant, went into Judge William V. Brothers' court to make a new plea for bail for their client, twice refused by Chief Justice Jacob H. Hopkins.

$75,000 BLAZE AT WHEELING

WHEELING, W. Va., April 3.—Fire, originating in a basement of a drug store in the McClure House block this morning, inflicted loss estimated at $75,000. It is believed the result of crossed wires. Guests were hurriedly ordered from the hotel and three women were carried out.

RUSSIAN VESSEL SINKS; 12 DEAD

MOSCOW, April 3.—Twelve of the crew were drowned when the Russian steamer Pioneer capsized at Batum today, according to advices received here. Batum is one of the principal Georgian Black sea ports.

YOUR HEALTH

First Five Years Most Vital to Any Child's Health

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR COPELAND

NOT long ago Professor Gesell, of Yale University, made some interesting observations regarding child health. What he had to say relates largely to children under the age of six.

In America a vast army of youngsters march into the public schools. Do you realize there are three millions in this yearly group?

If we could take charge of these children and give them a foundation of good health, we would change the medical map of America. One-third of all the deaths in the United States occur under the age of six. Professor Gesell points out that there are ten times as many deaths during the five years before school age as during the full ten years of school life.

There can be no doubt that the first five years of life are the most important from the health standpoint. As Gesell says:

"The susceptibility to infection is generally greater, the younger the child. Over 80 per cent of all cases of diphtheria and all deaths from diphtheria occur before the age of five. Malnutrition, likewise, is more prevalent among pre-school than among school children. Rickets a disorder of utrition, is common and is essentially a pre-school disease. Approximately 15 per cent of the 3,000 pre-school children clinically examined in Gary, Ind. showed bony defects of rachitic origin. With few exceptions the typical physical defects of school children, such as malnutrition and nose and throat troubles, are more prevalent among pre-school children."

I am not surprised that this authority expresses his indignation over our neglect of the young children. "Fundamentally this situation grows out of the fact that we have been slow in appreciating the medical and developmental significance of the early years of childhood. We have intrusted these years too completely to the unaided home and to Providence."

Every mother must watch with the greatest vigilance the early years. From babyhood to school age is the period when many ailments watch their chance to attack the precious life.

I shall be glad when every school board makes it a point to determine the state of health of all children applying for admission to the public schools. This is the time when parents should be advised of the necessity of correcting existing physical defects. It is to be hoped that everybody will learn the importance of this period and of restoring to normal condition the little ones who will enter school next Fall. Begin now!

Answers to Health Questions

MRS. J. A. V. Q.—What can I do to restore my sight, which is very poor?

A.—I would advise you to consult an oculist and have him ascertain the underlying cause of your condition.

A DAILY READER. Q.—Will you kindly advise me what to do for a bad case of heartburn?

A.—This condition is probably due to hyperacidity. For further particulars, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and restate your question.

A CONSTANT READER. Q.—I was advised by my doctor to have my tonsils shriveled by X-ray. Will you kindly advise me if this new method is as satisfactory?

A.—An operation is usually best, but it would be wise for you to be guided by your doctor's advice.

A WORRIED MOTHER. Q.—My husband died from a tumor in his head. He had the tumor for nine years. Do you think my son, who is eight years of age, will inherit this trouble?

A.—It is not likely that such a condition would be hereditary.

foreign shipments is seen when the 1924 total is compared with pre-war exports of 1913. In the latter year they amounted to but a little over half a billion dollars, while in 1924 they were almost a billion, the exact increase being $462,212,000.

During the past two years a generally smaller percentage of our foodstuffs exports have been going to European markets and a larger percentage to North American markets and China. Italy is the only European country bringing a larger market basket to us in 1923 and 1924 than in 1913. The decreased proportions in the cases of England and the Netherlands are particularly noteworthy. In 1913 the foodstuffs exported to the United Kingdom comprised 30.8 per cent of the total United States exports of those products, as compared with 28.7 per cent in 1923 and 26.7 per cent in 1924. The Netherlands show an even greater proportionate falling off from 11.7 per cent in 1913 to 7.7 and 8.9 per cent in 1923 and 1924, respectively.

Canada is taking a much larger part of the United States foodstuffs exports than before the war. In 1913 our northern neighbor took 7.7 per cent of our exports in that line and ranked fourth as a market for those products. In 1923 Canada took 11 per cent and in 1924, 15.6 per cent. In the latter year Canada was second only to the United Kingdom as a market for our foodstuffs.

Of the principal items of export to the United Kingdom, hams and shoulders, bacon, sugar, corn and canned milk showed a decrease, whereas the exports of wheat grain and flour, lard, barley, apples and canned and dried fruits registered important gains.

Where the Rye Goes.

Canada increased her purchases of our foodstuffs 73 per cent last year and this striking gain was due almost entirely to her increased demand for rye and wheat. Prohibition enforcement officials may take note of this. Time was when our rye was largely used at home, a certain line of manufacture transforming it into a popular beverage. It is possible, of course, that scofflaws of the United States are still the principal consumers of that rye, getting it back in bottled form after it has been transformed by Canadian distillers.

Practically all of the other leading items of our exports to Canada, such as meats, lard, eggs, citrus fruits, canned fruit and cottonseed oil, showed a decided decrease in 1924.

Germany is coming back as one of our valued customers, exports of foodstuffs to that country showing an increase of 15 per cent in 1924 as compared with the preceding year. Exports of wheat flour and grain and canned milk and dried fruits made large gains, while the shipments of lard, bacon, rye and corn to Germany showed decreases. Lard made up almost 49 per cent of the total value of foodstuffs exported to Germany from the United States in 1923, but fell off to 37 per cent in 1924.

Exports of foodstuffs to the Netherlands increased over 34 per cent in 1924, as compared with the previous year. Increases were shown in wheat grain and flour, lard, linseed cake, oleo oil, dried fruit and barley, whereas there were smaller shipments of bacon, corn and rye.

The value of the foodstuffs exported to Cuba was over 7.5 per cent larger in 1924 than in the year before that. Practically all of the principal items such as lard, wheat, flour, eggs, hams and shoulders, bacon, dried beans, cheese, butter, cottonseed oil and green coffee declined. Most of the coffee shown in the United States exports to Cuba is shipped from Porto Rico.

Wheat, lard and bacon constitute 90 per cent of the foodstuffs we send to Italy and her 18 per cent increase in purchase in our markets was almost entirely in those items. Belgium bought 26 per cent more of us in 1924 than in 1923, taking more of our wheat and linseed cake and less of our lard, bacon, hams and shoulders.

Of the remaining leading markets, Mexico, the Philippine Islands, and Sweden took larger quantities of foodstuffs from the United States in 1924 than in 1923, while exports to France, Japan, Denmark and Norway were smaller. Mexico took more corn, canned fish, canned milk and butter, but less lard, wheat grain and flour, and cottonseed oil. The Philippines took larger amounts of all of the leading items, namely, wheat flour, canned milk, sardines and salmon.

France bought more of our wheat, but less of practically all of the other commodities which she has hitherto taken from this country.

Victoria Invested Wisely.

Through the good advice of Disraeli, her chief adviser, Queen Victoria of England, invested in Suez canal stock and was thus enabled eventually to leave additional millions to her children. She also was one of the orginal owners of a share in the New River Water company, which provided the water supply for London. The water shares, originally worth a pound, enhanced in value to where they were worth millions, and even the richest of others like the Rothschilds were forced to be content later with a sixteenth or a thirty-second of a share.

Songs Express Sentiment.

DEFIANCE, April — That scores are an expression of national sentiment was the theme of the speech of Supt. E. W. Howey, of the Defiance public schools, before the college student body.

Spirit Rappings Of Blackbird Cause Household Turmoil

MALDEN, Mass., April.—Strange scratching noises coming from under the floors of a dwelling house here threatened to upset the peace of the household.

At first Mr. and Mrs. Ralph B. Wilton and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kling, occupants of the apartment house, were mildly curious when they heard the strange noises. When the scratching continued for several days, however, nerves began to fray.

King decided to brave the unknown "spook" and ripped up several floor boards.

PEOPLES BANK IS DEPOSITORY

Lisbon Institution to Handle Active Funds of County.

The People's State Bank of Lisbon has been named depository for the active funds of Columbiana county by the county commissioners, bids for this business having been opened by the commissioners. The People's State Bank bid 2.8 per cent for the first $50,000 of daily balances and 1.8 per cent for the balance.

Other banks submitting bids for this business were the Firestone bank of Lisbon, People's National bank of Wellsville and the First National bank of East Liverpool.

Last fall the commissioners advertised for bids for the care of county funds, but since then a situation arose that compelled the board to re-advertise for bids. The award has just been announced.

Gold Rush in Russia.

In southeastern Siberia gold deposits have been found that look promising, with the result there has been a great rush. Excitement became general throughout Russia as a result of the discovery and the Soviet authorities closed the camp and forbade any other prospectors to enter for the present. None are allowed to stay longer than four months and then may take out only about nine thousand rubles.

Fight Gives Town Its Name.

In 1803 the community now known as Barre, Vt., was undecided as to the new name for the town, the original name of which was Wildesburgh. A change was decided on in 1793. Eventually the prospective names narrowed down to two, Holden, sponsored by Captain Joseph Thompson, and Barre, offered by Jonathan Sherman, both names being after Massachusetts towns. The controversy developed into a fist fight, Sherman winning. The city fathers and the legislature honored the victor by naming the town Barre.

It is expected that 2,000 farmers of Scotland will move to South Africa soon.

Toronto

Stunt night, held by the County Endeavors at the Methodist Protestant Assembly hall Friday night, drew a large attendance. Several out-of-town Endeavors, including three from Steubenville and another from Empire, were present and performed interesting stunts. A selected orchestra from the local societies furnished music throughout the program. At the end of the program refreshments were served in the basement of the hall.

The annual business meeting of the Thimble Bee club was held recently at the home of Mrs. John Francy, West Market street. During the meeting the election of officers took place as follows: President, Mrs. Howard Wilkie; vice president, Mrs. Fred Morrow; secretary, Mrs. John Porter; treasurer, Mrs. Frank Culp; press reporter, Mrs. P. R. Welsh.

The King's Heralds held a very interesting meeting at the home of Mrs. James Anderson Friday evening from 5 to 6 o'clock. Quite a number of children were present. The program consisted of an illustrated story on "Conscience," a Bible reading, a select story read by Virginia Brooks, and the meeting closed with the circle of prayer. Following the program as 6 o'clock dinner was served by the hostess.

Cleveland Man Says "I Have Never Used Anything So Good As World's Tonic

Was Badly Run Down and Extremely Nervous—Now Feels Fine.

"I was all run down and badly in need of something to relieve my condition, so I came to East Liverpool to spend the winter with the hopes that my general health would improve. I had Catarrh of the head and stomach, accompanied by nervous indigestion, and I have found World's Tonic to be just the thing I need. I tried so many medicines that I was a 'doubting Thomas', but this World's Tonic is decidedly the best thing I have ever used, and the only one that seemed to go to the spot and remove the cause.

"The Catarrh in my head gave me a great deal of annoyance and at my advanced age I did not expect to find permanent relief. I would get up in the mornings with a heavy, dull feeling in the front part of my head. My nose would stop up at night. The sense of smell was not as good as a few years ago and my hearing was badly affected.

"I would hawk and spit up a great deal of mucus and yellowish matter and sometimes it was tinged with blood. During damp, cloudy or changeable weather I would contract cold easily. Shortly after I noticed the Catarrh in my head began to annoy me so much, my stomach gave me trouble also. As a matter of fact, I did not enjoy anything I ate. When I would finish my meals I began to fill up with gas that caused the most disagreeable sensation, and especially about my heart that gas would press upward and would cause my heart to beat fast, and I would at times become uneasy about myself.

"I was extremely nervous most of the time and slept very little, and was continually constipated. While in Columbus I read about World's Tonic and decided to try it. Well, it is the best money I ever spent. Three bottles have done wonders for me, and I am here today to get more," said Mr. Charles Miles, of Cleveland, in a talk with the World's Tonic man.

CAPTAIN BLOOD

A Romance of the Spanish Main

By RAFAEL SABATINI

Copyrighted, 1922, by Rafael Sabatini.

"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vitagraph picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

"He said that!" she cried. "He did that! Oh!" she turned away, and through the slender, clustering trunks of the bordering orange-trees she looked out across the glittering waters of the great harbor to the distant hills. Thus for a little while, my lord standing stiffly, fearfully, waiting for fuller revelation of her mind. At last it came, slowly, deliberately, in a voice that at moments was half suffocated.

"What weighs—oh, so heavily and bitterly—is the thought that but for the words in which yesterday I repelled him, he might have been saved. And now he is lost—back at his outlawry and piracy, in which ultimately he will be taken and destroyed. And the fault is mine—mine!"

"You have no cause for shame," said he. "As for your sorrow—why, if it will afford you solace—you may still count on me to do what man can to rescue him from this position."

"You will do that!" she cried with sudden eager hopefulness. "You promise?"

"I promise," he answered her. And then, retaining still the hand she had surrendered to him—"Arabella," he said very gently, "there is still this other matter upon which you have not answered me. This matter that concerns myself, and all my future, oh, so very closely. This thing that Blood believed, that prompted him . . . that . . . that you are not indifferent to me." He saw the fair face change color and grow troubled once more.

"Indifferent to you?" said she. "Why, no. We have been good friends; we shall continue so, I hope, my lord."

"Friends! Good friends?" He was between dismay and bitterness. "It is not your friendship only that I ask, Arabella. You heard what I said, what I reported. You will not say that Peter Blood was wrong?"

Gently she sought to disengage her hand, the trouble in her face increasing. A moment he resisted; then, realizing what he did, he set her free.

"Arabella!" he cried on a note of sudden pain.

"I have friendship for you, my lord. But only friendship."

"Is it Peter Blood?"

"Peter Blood?" she echoed. "I do not know," she said, faltering a little.

When the Jamaica fleet put to sea some few days later, Lord Julian sailed with Colonel Bishop in Vice-Admiral Craufurd's flagship. They cruised awhile off Hispaniola, watching the Windward Passage, but they cruised in vain, and, after a month of it, returned empty-handed to Port Royal, there to find awaiting them the most disquieting news from the Old World.

The megalomania of Louis XIV had set Europe in a blaze of war. The French legionaries were ravaging the Rhine provinces, and Spain had joined the nations leagued to defend themselves from the wild ambitions of the King of France. And there was worse than this: there were rumors of civil war in England, where the people had grown weary of the bigoted tyranny of King James. It was reported that William of Orange had been invited to come over.

Weeks passed, and every ship from home brought additional news. William had crossed to England, and in March of that year 1689 they learnt in Jamaica that he had accepted the crown and James had thrown himself into the arms of France for rehabilitation.

To a kinsman of Sunderland's this was disquieting news, indeed. It was followed by letters from King William's Secretary of State informing Colonel Bishop that there was war with France, and that in view of its effect upon the Colonies a Governor-General was coming out to the West Indies in the person of Lord Willoughby, and that with him came a squadron under the command of Admiral van der Kuylen to re-enforce the Jamaica fleet against eventualities.

Bishop realized that this meant the end of his supreme authority, even though he should continue in Port Royal as Deputy-Governor. Lord Julian, in the lack of direct news to himself, did not know what it might mean to him. But he had been very close and confidential with Colonel Bishop regarding his hopes of Arabella, and Colonel Bishop more than ever, now that political events put him in danger of being retired, was anxious to enjoy the advantages of having a man of Lord Julian's eminence for his relative.

"There is one obstacle in our path," said his lordship. "Captain Blood. The girl is in love with him."

"The brazen baggage! By God! I'll bring her to her senses."

"Don't be a fool, Bishop. Listen, man. She has a constant mind. As long as Blood lives she will wait for him."

"Then with Blood dead, perhaps she will come to her silly senses."

"Now you begin to show intelligence," Lord Julian commended him. "That is the first essential step."

"And here is our chance to take it." Bishop warmed to a sort of enthusiasm. "This war with France removes all restrictions in the matter of Tortuga. We are free to invest it in the service of the Crown. A victory there and we establish ourselves in the favour of this new government."

"Ah!" said Lord Julian, and he pulled thoughtfully at his lip. Bishop laughed coarsely.

"We'll hunt this rascal in his lair, right under the beard of the King of France, and we'll take him this time, if we reduce Tortuga to a heap of ashes."

On that expedition they sailed two days later—which would be some three months after Blood's departure—taking every ship of the fleet, and several lesser vessels as auxiliaries. To Arabella and the world in general it was given out that they were going to raid French Hispaniola.

CHAPTER XXII

THE SERVICE OF KING LOUIS

Meanwhile, some three months before Colonel Bishop set out to reduce Tortuga, Captain Blood, bearing hell in his soul, had blown into its rockbound harbour ahead of the winter gales, and two days ahead of the frigate in which Wolverstone had sailed from Port Royal a day before him.

In that snug anchorage he found his fleet awaiting him— the four ships which had been separated in that gale off the Lesser Antilles, and some seven hundred men composing their crews.

His captains, Hagthorpe, Christian, and Yberville, were on the jetty to receive him, and with them were some hundreds of his buccaneers. When they plagued him with questions, he bade them await the coming of Wolvestone, who would satisfy their curiosity, and took his way alone to the fine house of M. d'Ogeron, there to pay his respects to his friends, the Governor and the Governor's family.

When the Old Wolf cast anchor in the bay two days later, it was to him all turned for the explanation they were about to demand of Blood. Now Wolverstone had only one eye; but he saw a deal more with that one eye than do most men with two; and he had the sound heart of a boy, and in that heart much love for Peter Blood.

Anon when ashore he was beset by questioning buccaneers, it was from their very questions that he gathered exactly how matters stood, and perceived that either from lack of courage or other motive Blood, himself, had refused to render any account of his doings since the Arabella had separated from her sister ships.

"The Captain was ever a modest man," he explained to Hagthorpe and those others who came crowding round him. "It's not his way to be sounding his own praises. Why, it was like this. We fell in with old Don Miguel, and when we'd scuttled him we took aboard a London pimp sent out by the Secretary of State to offer the Captain the King's commission if so be him'd quit piracy and be o' good behaviour. The Captain damned his soul to hell for answer. And then we fell in wi' the Jamaica fleet and that grey old devil Bishop in command, and there was a sure end to Captain Blood and to every mother's son of us all. So I goes to him, and 'accept this poxy commission,' says I; 'turn King's man and save your neck and ours.' He took me at my word, and the London pimp gave him the King's commission on the spot, and Bishop all but choked hisself with rage when he was told of it. But happened it had, and he was forced to swallow it. We were King's men all, so into Port Royal we sailed along o' Bishop. But Bishop didn't trust us. He knew too much. But for his lordship, the fellow from London, he'd ha' hanged the Captain, King's commission and all.

Heir Forced to Travel.

By reason of a peculiar clause in the will which left him an estate valued at $648,000, Alfred T. Baker, a fox farmer of Wilkie, Sask., Canada, must be married before January 1, 1930, and visit the spot in South Africa where his father was killed in the Boer War. Also he must visit his mother's birthplace in Scotland. The uncle, who left him the estate, consisting of lands in England and Scotland, stipulated also that he must "encourage the Sussex fox hunt to the best of his ability and be a member of same."

Pearls from Herring Scales.

Artificial pearls that sell as high as $300 each are bing made from herring scales at several places on Cape Cop on the Massachusetts coast. The artificial gems are said to defy detection from real pearls except by experts, and that some possess rare beauty. Another large manufacturer of artificial pearls has worked up an enormous business in gems made from "fish scale essence."

Style is important, and so is tailoring. There's no doubt about that. But in a Hart Schaffner & Marx suit you get something more: Virgin Wool Fabrics, which make the ideal foundation for talented designing and expert needlework. The facts are boldly demonstrated in the new Hart Schaffner & Marx suits we are showing. You'll also be attracted by the beauty of the fine worsted weaves — by the distinctive patterns and colors—by the pleasing styles — by the skillful workmanship.

I O O F BANQUET HERE SATURDAY

Odd Fellows to Launch Drive for 100 Members.

Plans have been perfected for the banquet to be held by Iris lodge No. 125, Odd Fellows, Saturday evening in the I. O. O. F. temple, Fifth and Main streets.

The banquet will be served at 6:30 o'clock, and will be followed by a program of speaking and a social hour.

The lodge will launch its 1925 campaign for 100 new members at the banquet. A recent ruling of the sovereign grand lodge now permits the initiation into the order of candidates who are 18 years old. The former age limit was 21 years.

The committee in charge of the banquet and meeting includes J. M. Caldwell, chairman; H. M. Kessell, A. L. Henstick, W. L. Henstock, Fred Carlson, C. W. Adams, Edgar Thomas and N. C. Zoellers.

MRS. W .A. MORGAN HOSTESS TO CLUB

Mrs. W. A. Morgan was hostess to members of the O. N. O. club last evening at her home in Crawford avenue.

A social hour followed the regular business session. Games and music were diversions. At the close of the affair a two-course luncheon was served by the hostess. Small cotton chickens and candy Eastern eggs were given as favors.

Guests of the club included Mrs. Albert Deemer and Mrs. Harry Roberts, of Wellsville; Mrs. Thomas Coburn, Mrs. Edwin Riddle, Mrs. Raymond Sayres and Miss Ethel Greenwood, of East Liverpool.

The meeting of the club will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Clyde McIlvaine, in Clark avenue.

REHEARSE EASTER SONGS TONIGHT

Members of the First Evangelical church will rehearse songs for their Easter Sunday program tonight in the church.

Following rehearsal, the Young People's Bible Study class and the teachers' training class will convene. Saturday night prayer meeting will be held at 7:30 o'clock.

C. E. MEMBERS HOLD RALLY HERE

Christian Endeavor members from East Liverpool, Newell and Chester joined with local Endeavorers in the rally held last night in the Frst Evangelical church here. Talks, special exercises and vocal numbers made up the program.

MRS. PLUNKETT, 76, DIES IN WHEELING

Mrs. Jane Plunkett, 76 years old, of Hammondsville, died yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of a daughter, Mrs. H. L. Shreck, in Wheeling, W. Va., following a stroke. Mrs. Plunkett had been visiting during the week with her daughter, and her death was unexpected.

She was born on August 30, 1849, in Hampshire, England, but has spent the greater portion of her life in this country. Her husband died 11 years ago.

She is survived by the following sons and daughters: David, George, Robert, Joseph, Earl and James; Mrs. Frank Baldridge and Mrs. Jane Curl, of Cleveland; Mrs. H. L. Shreck, of Wheeling; Mrs. Bert Agnew, of McKeesport, Pa.; Mrs. Alice Tolson and Mrs. Grace Lawrence, of Hammondsville.

The body will be removed today to the late residence in Hammondsville. Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Methodist Episcopal church there. Burial will be made in the Hammondsville cemetery.

KIRBY TO FACE OTHER CHARGES

"Super-Salesman" Freed Yesterday on One Count.

Josiah Kirby, founder and former president of the Cleveland Discount company, whose acquittal in Cleveland late yesterday on charges of issuing a false financial statement, brought to an end a trial lasting nearly three weeks, after the jury had been out for thirty hours, will have to face two charges of embezzlement and one of issuing a false prospectus within the next two weeks, special prosecutors for the state indicated today. A conference was scheduled during the day by opposing counsel with Judge Dan B. Cull, presiding in criminal court, at which time an effort will be made to agree upon the date for the other hearings.

In addition, Kirby is under indictment in the federal courts on a charge of using the mails to defraud. This case has been tentatively set for hearing May 9, and United States District Attorney A. E. Bernstein declared today that although he will rely upon the same facts as in the case closed yesterday, he will go ahead with his plans to present the financier before a jury in federal court.

The verdict was returned at 5:30 o'clock yesterday. Kirby smiled as the clerk read the verdict, then quickly walked over and grasped each juror by the hand, thanking the men and women composing the jury individually.

Judge Cull, in discharging the jurors, thanked them for their close consideration of the involved issues in the case.

"I'm glad, that covers the situation," was Kirby's terse comment to newspaper men. He then rushed to a telephone to send a telegram to Mrs. Kirby in Chicago, telling of his victory. His wife had sat by his side throughout the long days of the trial, but worn out by the long wait for the verdict had started for their California home to see the Kirby babies.

The Cleveland Discount company, the collapse of which in February, 1923, was the cause of Kirby's indictment, was organized in 1917, and grew rapidly, until it was rated as the second largest concern of its kind in the United States, maintaining offices in many cities.

The indictment upon which Kirby was tried alleged that he falsely claimed profits totalling $2,200,000 on bonds not issued at the time the statement was made, and bolstered up the cash balance by addition of $220,000 in checks, signed by himself, which he had directed the treasurer to hold.

GORE OPPOSED TO AMENDMENT

Governor Urges Defeat of Child Labor Proposal by Solons.

The federal child labor amendment drew the attention of Gov. Gore, who just before the senate was to convene, called the Republican senators to his office and gave them his views on the measure.

Mr. Gore is understood to have told the senators that he favored the legislature going on record against the amendment in its present form, as he thinks the age limit of 18 years as provided in the proposed amendment too high. He is said to have referred the senators to the West Virginia labor law, which has an age limit of 16 years. This law, the Governor is quoted as saying, should be the guide to the legislature in expressing its attitude toward the amendment, so that other states might know what to expect from this state on a future child labor amendment.

The senate passed by a vote of 18 to 9 a bill providing for the licensing of chiropractors by a special board under special requirements differing from those applied to practicing physicians.

An amendment to Senator Hugus' resolution to submit a constitutional amendment providing a limitation of 50 cents tax on the $100 valuation on money, notes, stocks and bonds, to also include horses, cattle and other domestic animals was adopted by the senate this afternoon, when the resolution came up on second reading. The senate adopted the senate joint resolution, establishing agricultural experiment stations.

WOMAN IS FINED ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Brooke county officers yesterday raided the house occupied by Mrs. Ada Williams, colored, at No. 4 mine, a quarter mile below Wellsburg, and arrested the woman and a colored man who gave his name as Tom Clark, of charges of possessing liquor. A quality of the alleged liquor was taken for evidence.

The woman drew a fine and sentence of $100 and costs and 30 days in jail last night when arraigned before Squire C. K. Jacobs, of Wellsburg, on a charge of possessing intoxicants. Clark was assessed $5 and costs after pleading guilty to a plain drunk charge.

JASPER JOHNSTON AGED 66, IS DEAD

Jasper Johnston, 66 years old, Mineral Ridge, O., formerly a resident of Chester, died yesterday in the Warren hospital of Bright's disease. He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Mrs. Lee Hood.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the home in Mineral Ridge, Rev. Hinton, pastor of the Christian church, officiating.

Burial will be made in Mineral Ridge cemetery.

Preparatory Service.

Rev. E. J. Travers, of Lonaconing, Md., will have charge of the preparatory services this evening in the First Presbyterian church.

"CHEER UP" SHOW IS BIG SUCCESS

A crowd that taxed the capacity of the Chester theatre last night witnessed the initial performance of "Cheer Up," a musical revue staged by the Bock Producing company under the auspices of Chescent chapter No. 49, Order of Eastern Star. More than 100 local people, including 50 children, took part in the performance which was one of the best home talent shows ever seen in the city.

The piece abounds in good comedy, catchy music, while the singing is one of the principal features. The costumes and stage setting added much to the success of the smooth production which will be repeated this evening.

HIGH BALL TEAM TO OPEN SEASON

Chester High baseball team will open the season tomorrow afternoon with Newell High at Rock Springs park. The game will be called at 3 o'clock. Candidates for the team have been holding practice sessions for the past week and the coaches are confident of rounding out a strong aggregation. Games will be booked with other scholastic teams of the county.

MANY ATTEND REVIVAL MEETS

Rev. A. E. Sims, who is conducting evangelistic services in the First Christian church, will have as his subject this evening "Sanctification." His topics for Sunday will be "Personality" and "How May I Know That I Am Safe." Rev. Sims announced today that 875 Bible chapters had been read since the meetings opened, of which 225 were read yesterday. Six additions have been recorded.

M. E. AID SOCIETY MEMBERS MEET

Members of the Ladies' Aid society of the First Methodist Episcopal church met last evening in the tabernacle. Following the business session a program was rendered at which lunch was served. Mrs. J. E. Allen had charge of the devotionals.

Hostesses were: Mrs. George Geren, Mrs. W. Helper, Mrs. A. Haney, Mrs. Eleanor Huff, Mrs. R. G. Grandstaff, Mrs. Floyd Hissam and Miss Twyla Hissam.

Final Shop Meeting.

Rev. F. C. Roberts, rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal church, was the speaker at the final shop meeting of the season held at noon today in the Edwin M. Knowles pottery. Rev. A. E. Sims, pastor of the First Christian church, was the leader.

Lodge Members Meet.

Crescent chapter No. 49, Order of Eastern Star, met last evening in the Masonic temple, First street. Routine business was transacted.

328 Kansas City Cops Own Cars on $140 Monthly Pay

KANSAS CITY—Three hundred and twenty-eight Kansas City policemen out of 652 members of the force own automobiles on a salary of $140 a month.

This was the result of a survey ad questionnaire, as told recently by International News Service, made by the board of police commissioners following graft and hijacking disclosures among law guardians here.

Of the 328 car owners, 155 drive Fords. Ninety-six are owners of cars in the $3,800 to $2,000 class. The rest own cars in the $1,200 or lower classification.

Four detectives have been detailed to check the returns to learn if any members are driving high-class cars owned in their wives' names.

A police shake-up of extensive proportions is forecast following the booze graft revelations.

Radio Doll Now On Market.

One of the unique radio novelties just offered by manufacturers is a radio doll, beautifully gowned. It will not only sing, but give forth the latest jazz strains when "hooked up." It needs no aerial or ground wire. In its body is concealed a three-tube radio receiving set with battery and loud speaker. It is about 30 inches high and it sells at $1,800 a dozen wholesale.

A rainy week-end causes a loss of $65,000 to Brighton, the resort near London.

Champion Movie Fan Found.

William Hall, a bachelor about 58 years old, who lives at Bathe, Me., is cited as the champion movie patron in the country. For 18 years, or ever since moving picture theaters invaded his community, Hall has attended a picture show every week-night with but five or six exceptions. He is a sign painter by trade and prefers western thrillers to the problemplays. He does not accept free tickets despite his fame as the champion movie goer.

Good Friday Services.

Rev. W. C. Stokes, pastor of the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, will be in charge of the services to be held in the church Good Friday, beginning at 1:30 o'clock

Do "Daily Dozen" And Stop Shaving, Doctor's Advice

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April.—If you can not find time for exercise any other way, grow whiskers and use your shaving time for the daily dozen.

This was the advice of Dr. James M. McCurdy, professor of physical education at the International Y. M. C. A. College, given as a warning to men against lack of exercise.

"Divide your day into six parts," advocated Dr. McCurdy. "That will give you eight hours for sleep, seven or eight hours for work, two hours for eating, one hour for your hobby, 10 minutes for exercise, and five hours for recreation,55 he continued.

Easter Sunday Programs.

Easter Sunday services in the churches of this section will be featured by special musical programs by the various choirs. Rehearsals are now in progress. Appropriate sermons will be delivered by the pastors.

Shop Meetings Close.

Shop meetings under the auspices of the industrial department of the Y. M. C. A. came to a close yesterday when Rev. L. J. Davison, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church, spoke in the Smith-Phillips pottery. They were largely attended during the winter months.

To Restore River Banks.

DEFIANCE, April.—The Maumee and Auglaize river banks at Fort Defiance, Northwestern Ohio's most notable historic spot, will be restored to nearly their original lines and protected from the water that has been steadily cutting them down, as the result of an apropriation of $28,000 included in the revenue bill that passed both branches of the Ohio legislature.

Taxes and Toes

MR Micawber, that unsuccessful optimist in Charles Dicken's novel, always was sure that something would turn up.

While all the world's experience has proved that the only things sure to turn up are taxes and toes, we still have Micawbers with us—loveable, generous characters, usually, but not fair to themselves or to their families.

RED MACK WINS PLAUDITS HERE

"Freckles and His Pal" Score Hit at Strand.

Repeating the success of the first half of the week at the Strand theater, "Red" Mack and his company scored another triumph yesterday in the comedy drama, "Freckles and His Pal." Mack has a role in this vehicle that allows him to display his ability to good advantage, and he kept the large audiences in constant uproar of laughter by his witty sayings during the four acts. He was given splendid support.

The sprightly chorus, which is a big feature of the show, put over some new singing and dancing numbers, while the quartet was forced to respond to several well deserved encores.

The bill for the first three days of next week will be "Broadway Flip."

Drilling to Begin.

ATHENS, April.—Now that legislative approval has been secured, drilling for oil and gas, probably, will start on the grounds of the state hospital for the insane here. There are several big gassers and a large producing oil well within a few feet of the state property here.

"Raquel" Name of New Dance.

The "Raquel" is the name of the new dance that has appeared in Paris sponsored by Professor Robert, who introduced the tango 12 years ago with Mistinguett. The dance is named after Raquel Meller to go with his song, "Ay Ay Ay." The dance is composed of seven figures and is derived from the Boston, the fox trot, the two step and the schottische. Professor Robert says it is easy and pretty.

Modern Women Turn to Wigs.

Once again wigs of various colored hair are being worn by women of fashion in Paris to cover their bobbed heads when they put on evening attire. The color of the hair matches the gown, and after five years of stagnated business the hairpin manufacturers are starting up with a flourish.

OPEN HEARTH STEEL RECORD

New Figures in Production Reported at Weirton.

A new record for open hearth steel production was established during March by the Weirton Steel company, according to an announcement made today by the executive department.

It is also announced that, for the first quarter of this year, profits have been greatly in excess of the 1924 basis, notwithstanding low prices on steel products. Outlook, during the second quarter, is bright, it is said, especially in tin plate, but no statement on the third quarter of the year was advanced.

Grows Hair or Money Back

ONLY one man in 9 need ever be bald. An amazing statement. Yet it is a fact. Now it is known that each hair grows from a bulb—not from a root. Hairs may get weak, sick and fall out. But the hair bulb itself rarely dies in the early stages. It merely lies dormant—like a plant bulb in winter.

Baldness results from inactive hair bulbs. So does falling hair and most other hair troubles. Now inactive hair bulbs can be revived. Falling hair stopped. New hair grown. A remarkable treatment guarantees it—or money refunded.

This treatment is not a mere "tonic." The principle is new. Scientifically correct. Leading dermatologists agree on this point. This new method treats simultaneously each one of the four causes to which 90% of all hair bulb inactivity is due. Hence its remarkable success.

Results Guaranteed

No matter what your condition—or how many "tonics" you have used unsuccessfully—we urge you to test this new method. It stops falling hair. It destroys dandruff. It grows hair. We guarantee results or we refund your money. Our written guarantee in every package protects you fully. No after odor—no oil—no grease. Sanitas Co., Sta.-.., B'klyn, N.Y.

1,458 Persons Used Y. M. C. A. Gym During March, Report Shows

During March, 1,458 persons, including men, women, boys and girls, used the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, Physical Director T. F. Shaffer announced today.

Of this number, 952 attended sessions of classes while 560 others took part in special activities, including basketball and baseball. The swimming pool attracted 1,582 bathers. These figures do not include visitors who attended the indoor picnics of the Edwin M. Knowles China and the Laughlin East End pottery, which were held during the month.

Members of the boys' classes have formed baseball leagues. Gymnasium classes will be held on schedule during April, with emphasis on recreational games.

Mistake Made Tower Famous.

The leaning tower of Pisa is an instance of a mistake made famous. Competent judges admit that the builders of the tower never intended it to lean. They merely made a mistake in their calculations and did the unpardonable thing of giving the structrure a weight that its foundation could not support properly. There is constant fear that it will collapse some time although its deviation from the perpendicular is increasing very slowly. Between 1829 and 1910 this deviation increased from 15½ feet to 16½ feet, but even at this slow rate its center of gravity will pass beyond its base in time.

Iowa Beauty Is Secret Bride of Former Legion Commander

The secret marriage, some months ago, of Hanford MacNider (inset), former national commander of the American Legion, and Miss Margaret McAuley, has finally become known. The couple, now at home in Mason City, Iowa, withheld the announcement until Mr. MacNider's parents, now traveling in Europe, could be given the news first.

Tennis Cabinet Scattered.

The famous "tennis cabinet" of President Roosevelt's administration has now completely deserted Washington officially, with the return of Jules Jusserand to France after serving as ambassador for years. In addition to Roosevelt, Archie Butt, his military aide, and Robert Bacon, assistant secretary of state, are dead and of those living the following also have officially left Washington: Truman H. Newberry, assistant secretary of the Navy under Roosevelt; Gifford Pinchot, then Chief Forester; Lawrence O. Murray, comptroller of currency; James R. Garfield, commissioner of corporations, and Herbert Knox Smith, assistant commissioner of corporations. Ex-Comptroller Murray has become a world traveler.

Pinch of Charity Felt.

Because the feet of American women are apparently much smaller than those of the women in the Near Eastern countries, American women contributing to the Near East relief were asked not to send their old shoes, or in fact any new ones. H. C. Jacquith, director of the American refuge work in Greece, paid the delicate compliment to American women in explaining why women's shoes were not acceptable, because they were generally too small.

THE MOORE FURNITURE CO.

Frozen Eggs Now Much Used.

More than 50,000,000 pounds of frozen, canned eggs are used annually by hotels, restaurants and housewives in the United States. They cost from three to five cents a pound less than unshelled eggs. In canning frozen eggs, the egg is first candled to detect bad ones, then chilled so that the whites and youlks can be easily separated, and when they are broken the parts are put into waxed cans and sent to a freezing room where the temperature is about zero or a little below. They are left 72 hours in that condition and then shipped in refrigerator cars. Canning is done between March and September.

How to Solve It

Every number indicates the beginning of a word—if horizontal, crosswise, until the first shaded stop to the rignt; if vertical, downwards until the first shaded stop below. Compare the synonyms in the appended lists to the spaces in the diagrams and fill in the words you know. These will give you clues to the more difficult words. When completed the words should interlock perfectly.

HE'S BLIND, BUT DRIVES CAR ON 2,000-MILE TRIP

Wife Steers Auto While Man Makes Gear Shifts.

JOURNEY CHEAP

Drive From Yorkville, Mich., to Missouri and Back.

YORKVILLE, Mich., April.—He could drive, but could not see.

She could see, but could not drive.

So they packed their three youngsters in the car and drove to Missouri and back.

And the trip cost them only $12.50.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Curtis and children, Frederick, Dorothy and Maude, have returned to their home in Yorkville.

Up hill and down dale they started last Fall for Rollo, Mo., to sell the farm home of Curtis' mother and pack the household goods.

His sight failing, Curtis dared not attempt driveing entirely alone. But Mrs. Curtis could see, and that settled it. Into their flivver touring car—a 1918 model—they climbed.

She did the steering. He did the "gearing." And together they made it O. K.

"Yes, $12.50 was all it cost us for actual expenses of the trip," Curtis said. "Of course, that did not include food and lodging. But we took food with us and camped out on the way. We started last Fall, so we could do that. The biggest item of our expense all the way was for a broken radiator. A new one cost us $3.75.

"Going direct to Rollo, the trip was about 700 miles, and we made it in five days. But we came back by an around about route—through Arkansas, Tennessee and Kentucky—so our trip amounted to something like 1,000 miles.

"We have made the roughest of roads—those in the Ozark Mountains—without a break.

"We met some pretty tough places, but managed to get through all right.

Says Love Making Is a Lost Art Since World War

LONDON, March.—Love making has become a lost art with the modern girl since the World War, says Gaston Rageot, famous French novelist and critic.

"Girls since the World War have eliminated passion from love making. They prefer simple friendship of the sports field and the office," M. Rageot told a London lecture audience.

"The new generation of girls claims to share sport and business, and is consequently prone to scoff at the sentiment which was formerly the dominating idea of their lives," he added.

He maintained that love could not be wiped off the same as a bad debt, and that it must be always life's greatest driving force.

AT THREE-SCORE-TEN THIS DAYTON WOMAN WANTS A FOOT RACE

Aunt Mary Heck Issues Challenge to Younger Generation—Read Her Remarkable Story of Ka-di-ok..

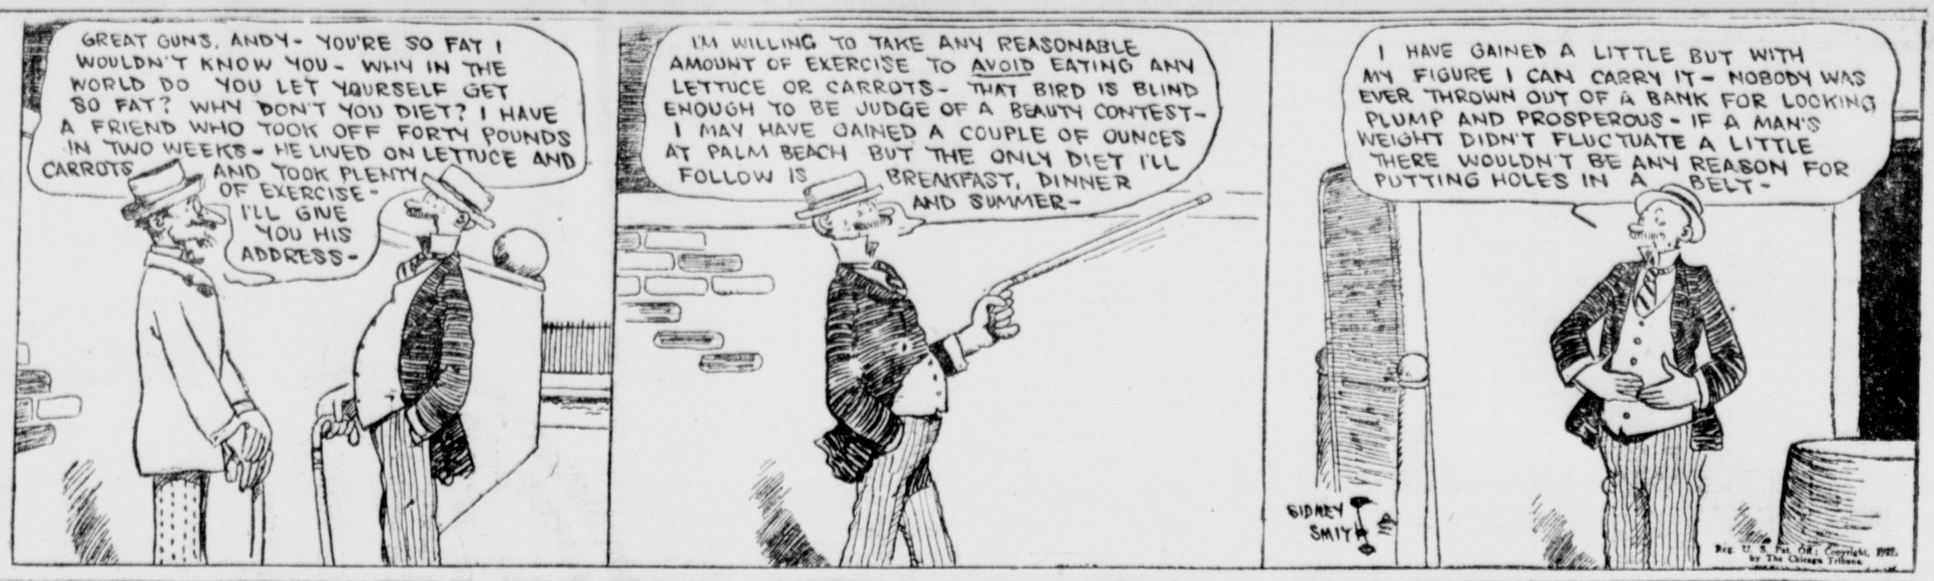

MRS. MARY ELLEN HECK, Dayton, Ohio.

At the age of 75 years, Mrs. Mary Ellen Heck, 426 Sixth street, Dayton, O., better known to her friends and the children of the vicinity as "Aunt Mary", has issued a challenge to the folks to "run her a foot race". The cause of this challenge exists in the fact that for ten or more years past "Aunt Mary's" condition of health was such that she did not think she would ever be able to get along beyond a slow gait. She had a very stubborn case of articular rheumatism, with both hands badly crippled. The pain she suffered was beyond description. A friend brought her attention to Ka-di-ok, the wonderful herbal system builder and stomach tonic, and after taking five bottles of that remedy, "Aunt Mary" declares herself today to be in better condition than for a decade past. "My hands will always be crippled from rheumatism," she said to the Ka-di-ok representative, "but the pain is gone. I am free from that terrible pain, which at times, caused my joints to lock so that I could not move them. I feel so thankful that I will furnish any one with Ka-di-ok just for joy, and let them enjoy life free from pain as I am doing. I am over 75 years young; send suffering humanity to me, I'll tell them and show them how good I feel, and tell them of this remarkable remedy. I feel so good I'll even run them a foot race if they like, despite my age. I feel so good and so happy."

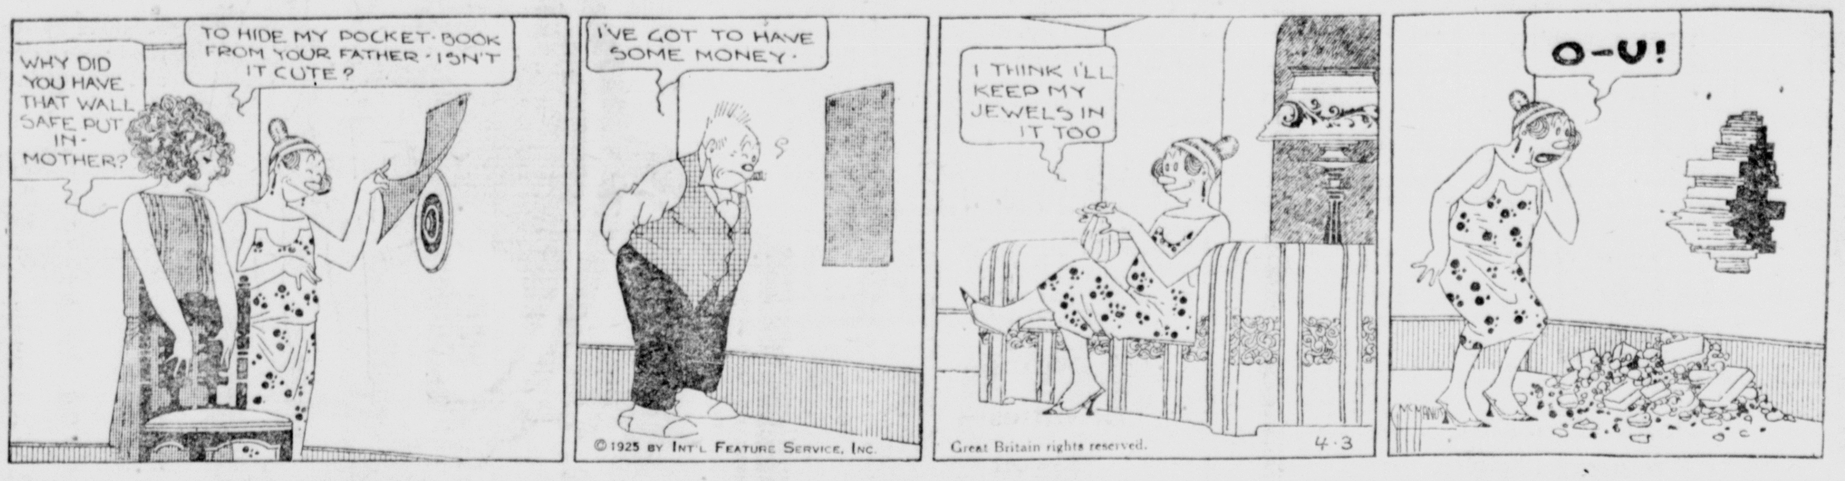

This is but one of thousands of cases where Ka-di-ok has brought happiness into the lives of suffering people. Ka-di-ok does what is claimed for it, and does it in a lasting manner; no harmful habit forming drugs, but a herbal laxative tonic that has made myriads of friends throughout the country where it has been introduced.

Ka-di-ok is sold and recommended in East Liverpool by Mathews Cut Rate Medicine Store, 129 W. 6th street.

Film fans who prefer drama of the red-blooded, roast-beef variety, seasoned with plenty of action and flavored with the sauce of romance will find "The Top of the World," the new Paramount picture which opened yesterday at the Ceramic theater, a very appetizing screen dish.

It was prepared by that able photoplay chef, George Melford, and is exquisitely served up by a superb cast featuring Anna Q. Nilsson, James Kirkwood, Raymond Hatton and Sheldon Lewis. The basis of this cinematic concoction is the Ethel M. Dell story of the same name, but the director, with the assistance of his scenario writer, has managed to include several original melodramatic ingredients which add considerably to the peppery value and taste of the picture play.

In absorbing detail, the plot unfolds the manner in which a high-spirited English finds love and happiness after a series of hectic adventures. Unable to get along with her domineering step-mother and fearful of being forced into a loveless marriage, Sylvia Ingleton runs away to South Africa, determined to marry her childhood sweetheart, Guy Ranger. Unfortunately for Sylvia's plans, Guy has become a worthless man, and she is forced to turn for protection to Guy's cousin, Burke Ranger.

Serious complications ensue when Sylvia marries Burke and Guy tries to claim her. Matters reach a crashing climax during a blinding rainstorm. While Burke is away trying to stem the flood that comes sweeping down from the mountain, Guy secretly returns and tries to induce Sylvia to go away with him. From that point, the story takes a remarkable turn. Out of the fury of the night comes an unusual sequence of events that lead to a startling solution of the love tangle.

Next to the amazingly realistic storm effects, the acting of the leading players deserves honorable mention. Miss Nilsson makes her part stand out by reason of her sincerity and naturalness, while Kirkwood makes the most of a very difficult dual role — he impersonates both cousins—and gives such a fine performance as to overshadow anything he has ever done before. Raymond Hatton and Sheldon Lewis, as usual, are very effective.

There's a solid hour of worthwhile entertainment wrapped up in "The Top of the World." By all means see it!

Must Report Wages.

COLUMBUS, April.—Operators of golf clubs and courses have been notified by Auditor Coffinberry of the state department of industrial relations that they must report wages paid caddies performing services on their grounds, in accordance with a resolution adopted by the state industrial commission. The commission ruled caddies are entitled to the benefits of the workmen's compensation law the same as other employes, and, in its resolution, the commission ordered that individuals, firms, corporations, clubs and municipalities maintaining and operating grounds for the playing of golf are required to report their payroll expenditures, fees and other compensation paid persons performing services as caddies.

"HICK TOWN" GIRL WARNS AGAINST PERILS OF STAGES; SHE GOES HOME

Miss Billie Millscott Returns to Jersey Village After Her Career of Disillusionment.

CLEVELAND, April.—Once more pretty Miss Billie Millscott will dip her hands into a pan of warm, soapy dishwater and again she will experience the pleasure of exercising her excess energy through the wielding of a rug-beater upon a dusty carpet.

She is going home. Enough of this footlight business is too much, she tells the world.

It is not a tale of winning fame and a millionaire from behind the footlights' glare; nor is it a tale of failure and misery. It's just an ordinary story of being fired—and being glad of it.

Tells Experience.

"Pretty legs may win millionaires into wedlock for a few girls," she says talking from five years' experience of the stage; "but most of us knew that the best use for our legs is walking back from a 'hick town' after the show has flopped and the cashier has left with what little money was taken in.

"You, girls, whether you're from the 'hick towns' or the big cities and hate the thoughts of washing dishes, don't think you can get away with an idle time before the footlights unless you are one in a million—at least a million.

"Most every girl from the small town is like I was. I thought I would win fame, perhaps fortune, and a fine husband and a life of ease. Well, I'm far off.

What She Thought.

"The folk and my friends thought I was a great actress. I did, too—then.

"After five years of working twenty hours a day, packing trunks, washing hose in dishpans and blankets, walking back from shows that flopped, and starving to get a contract—I'm through.

"I'm going back to my little old home town, if I have to walk. And I'm not coming back. No, sir!"

Such statements must have a reason, and Billie has hers. She rejected the attentions of one of the dancers in the troupe and, she says, was choked and beaten by him. She filed charges and was fired.

Now, somewhere in New Jersey, the proverbial fatted calf will be slain, and Billie will be welcomed back.

Regains Sight, Loses Dexterity.

After being blind for 22 years, Amos Cady of Bolivar, Mo., has regained his sight, but in so doing he has lost his musical dexterity so that he can only play one musical instrument at a time, although when he was blind he could play six instruments simultaneously. He explains it by saying he does not have the same keen concentration that he had when he was blind.

Power in the Blood!

You will be compelled to admit that the results of S. S. S. are really amazing!

MAN'S GLORY is his strength—yet how few there are who are really as strong as they should be. The blood thins, gets weaker, blood cells wear out—general weakness and a gradual break-down of the system results.

We know there is one thing that puts power in the blood, and that is more red-blood-cells! S.S.S. builds them by the million! We know that as blood cells increase in number, blood impurities vanish! But have you ever actually taken advantage of this wonderful fact? Thousands just like you have never thought of it. So-called skin eruptions—pimples, boils, blackheads, eczema all pack up and go when the tide of blood cells begins to roll in. Blood cells are the fighting giants of Nature. S.S.S. is one of the greatest blood cell builders, blood cleansers and body builders known to us mortals. Here is your opportunity! S.S.S. contains only vegetable medicinal ingredients. Because S.S.S. does build red-blood-cells, it routs rheumatism, builds firm flesh, fills out hollow cheeks, beautifies the complexion, builds you up when you are run-down.

Start taking S.S.S. today and get back that power in your blood!

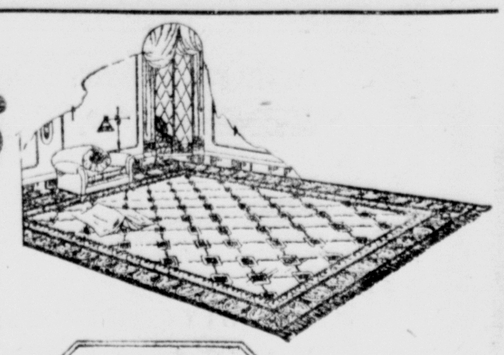

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Friend Saved Mrs. Wilhelmy

"Overwork, worry, no appetite, no sleep, I looked like a corpse," says Mrs. Mary Wilhelmy, of St. Paul, Minn., "and to add to my troubles my physician advised an operation. A friend, however, asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so, and you should see the improvement. I eat well, sleep well, have gained in weight and strength and feel fine." That is what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Wilhelmy, and it will do as much for any suffering woman.

Cold Snap Routs Pest.

Western Texas, which has been in the grip of a grasshopper pest for five years, was suddenly rid of it by the cold snap which swept over that section early this year. The eggs of the grasshoppers have been killed by the cold snap and freezing weather that lasted 30 days, so that the farmers and others there look forward to a relief from their worries and fears this coming spring and summer.

Bookkeeper Falls Heir to Fortune

"Upon the death of an uncle I inherited $50,000. I gave up my position and intended enjoying myself when I was stricken with a severe case of stomach trouble and colic attacks. Two of these attacks made me lose consciousness. After treating with our best doctors with little benefit, I decided to try Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, and it helped me at once. I have been entirely well for past year." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

Fear Curdles the Blood.

Dr. H. G. Barbour of the University of Louisville, Ky., says fear actually curdles the blood and furthermore thickens the blood of both animals and humans. A mechanism for measuring the thickness of the blood has enabled him to determine that excitement or ten per cent more concentrated. Dr. fear has caused the blood to become Chauncey D. Leake, of the University of Wisconsin, has devised a substance from bone marrow and spleen that increases the number of red corpuscles. He has applied his theory to cases of secondary anemia with some success.

English Women's Dancing and Golf Cause Big Ankles

LONDON, March.—English women seem to suffer the curse of thick ankles.

Golf and dancing are now being blamed, and smart women are either giving up golf and dancing or resigning themselves to thick ankles.

After 12 years' suffering with constipation, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brought lasting relief

Florida woman feels ten years younger. No more headaches or medicine.

Think what it means to be everlastingly free from the dull, throbbing headaches, sallow skin and perpetual tiredness which are constipation's toll. But let Mrs. Bevis tell you her inspiring story:

Words can't express my gratitude for Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. For 12 years I suffered with constipation, always taking medicine, had dull headaches and never felt well. For the past 12 months I've eaten ALL-BRAN and haven't taken one drop of medicine. I've gained in weight, my health is so improved I feel 10 years younger.

(Signed) Mrs. F. S. Bevis, Jacksonville, Florida.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will bring sure relief to you just as it has to Mrs. Bevis and thousands of others. It is a bulk food that doctors recommend. It is guaranteed to be permanently effective, if eaten regularly, or the purchase price will be returned by your grocer. Only ALL-BRAN brings sure relief.

Eat at least two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Try the recipes given on the package. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is nature's own way of cleaning the intestine. Made in Battle Creek, Mich. Served at leading hotels and restaurants. Sold by all grocers.

Your Silk Dress Is Here!

Spring Styles at an Economy Price

The very Silk Dress you want for early Spring is in this Store! Among the many smart styles, there is one Dress that looks as if it belonged to you! And this Dress is priced to please you, too.

New Spring Colors

All of the gorgeous Spring colors are shown in these Dresses. They are the red shades which are so popular, the tans, browns, russets, rusts, etc. Gay colors are decidedly in vogue.

Variety of Styles

There are styles to become every type of figure. The long, graceful lines of the waistless dress are popular. Attractive dresses are shown with waistlines also.

These Dresses are priced at, only

The Last Word In Style

Is Spoken In These Coats

The welcome Spring brings these charming coats with her! They do full justice too, to this happiest and most beautiful of seasons—for these Coats are the essence of Style!

They are expertly tailored with silk linings—and all the features which distinguish smart Spring Coats.

New Materials

Ask to see "Poiret Twill," "Poiret Sheen," or "Tarsheen"—the latest whims of Fashion. They are finely woven, rich looking fabrics which will also give splendid service.

Contrast Trimming

Contrasts in colors are modish. Several coats are trimmed with fine silk braid. Some have fur trimmings. The tuxedo effect is carried out in some by shawl collars.

Chic Colors

Unusual shades predominate. Silver grey, titian sand, tiger's eye, goblin blue, or golf green are some of the newer names of newer colors.

The price range is one of worthy values!

Negotiations For Dempsey-Wills Battle Reported Under Way

Champion Will Get $750,000, Is Rumor; Promoters Silent

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Negotiations that would bring together Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills in a long awaited meeting some time in September are being quietly carried to an effective conclusion, according to reports along Broadway today. The site of the bout not more than twenty minutes from Times Square, has been selected, the seating capacity decided, the champion's guarantee mutually agreed upon and all the other little details are thoroughly washed up and ready for the company, the report declares.

It is also reported that Dempsey's cut will be $750,000, no less, and that Jack Kearns has indicated that the figures mentioned are very interesting, indeed. Paddy Mullins, manager for Wills, has also been a party to the conferences with the promoters, who are referred to as wealthy sportsmen previously identified with boxing only in the role of ring side spectators. Rickard, Henderson, Deforrest and others interested in fistic promotion are to be in the outer darkness, according to the report.

The site of the arena is being kept a profound secret in fact, all those concerned, if any, seem to have gone into the silence. Jack Curley, who promoted the Willard-Johnson fight at Havana, is said to have admitted that he has been retained by the syndicate as its matchmaker but the next moment his mouth formed a straight line and became the shortest distance between two given points. Kearns turned up missing at his usual haunts and Mullins also seemed to have become lost in the great open narrows somewhere between his home and his office.

It was declared, however, that from other sources, equally reliable, information had been obtained that contracts for the arena would be closed within a matter of days and that an application for a license for the new club would be made to the state athletic commission some time within the next several weeks. It was also declared that the entire proposition would be settled shortly after his arrival.

Boxing men in general were disposed to place some credence in the story, if only because it accounted for Mullins' failure to answer the bid of Tom Gibbons, for a heavyweight elimination bout at the annual milk fund show. Mullins allowed that angle of the situation to go to default and Gibbons lost no time in singing to meet Gene Tunney at the Polo Grounds in June.

Now, it is claimed that Mullins had Dempsey-Wills joker up his sleeve, All the time, and, therefore gave Gibbons the run around.

SHIPPINGPORT, MIDLAND DIVIDE

Shippingport and Midland basketball teams, boys and girls, divided a double bill last evening on the Midland court. The Shippingport boys won by the score of 43 to 2, but the Midland girls finished ahead by the score of 27 to 12. Lineups:

Midland Girls		Shippingport Girls
Rodfong	F	M. Laughlin
Parsons	F	B. Laughlin
Graham	C	Pease
Knights	G	Johnson
Longfellow	G	Christy

Substitutions—Russell for Christy, Christy for Johnson.

Midland Boys		Shippingport Boys
Rogers	F	Ewing
Posey	F	Shuttleworth
Long	C	Hosack
Marx	G	Sisco
Shinton	G	Pease

Substitutions — Cestrich for Sisco, Marx for Posey.

FINAL CONTESTS IN BOYS' LOOPS

Three games will be played in the Y. M. C. A. baseball league for boys next Saturday morning. The final contest of the series will be staged in the elementary division. The Senators and Giants have each won two games and the winner Saturday will carry off the honors of the season.

In the junior division the Reds will play the Cubs and the Pirates will take on the Dodgers. The concluding games for Juniors will be played April 11.

LAUGHLIN, E. E., MEETING MONDAY

The meeting of Laughlin, East End, baseball promoters, postponed from last Friday, has been re-scheduled for Monday night at 7:30 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A.

The East Enders will discuss plans for their 1925 baseball campaign and later in the evening may attend the conference for the proposed city league at the city hall building.

NEW LEADER IN ALL-EVENTS

Buffalo Star Totals 1,977 in Singles and Doubles.

BUFFALO, April 3. — Clarence "Lefty" Long, a member of the Weisser Blue Ribbon team, of Buffalo, newly crowned leader of th efive-man division, today was receiving congratulations on his sensational pin spilling performance last evening in the A. B. C. singles and doubles events. He crashed 624 in his doubles and 645 in his singles to land him in first place in the all-events with the amazing total of 1,977. Long replaces Edward Feihl of Newark, who took the lead on Wednesday with a nine-game total of 1,906.

Frank Caraana, of Buffalo, lost a grand chance of steeping into second place when he went over the foul line in his last game of the doubles. This slip possibly cost the city champion at least ten pins which would have placed him in second place by a single point. He took third place with a score of 1,897.

Honors in the doubles were claimed by a Schenectady, N. Y., pair, Kelly and Baker, who, with a count of 1,261 shot into fourth place among the leaders of the two man event. One game, a 199 count by Kelly, marked the lone double under the two hundred mark of the pair.

FATHERS VS. SONS PROGRAM AT 'Y'

Fathers vs. sons. That's the schedule in brief for the program to be held tonight at the Y. M. C. A., under auspices of the boys' department headed by Harvey J. Price.

About 30 fathers and as many sons are expected to take part in the various competitive events arranged for the occasion. There will be contests in checkers, bowling, baseball, baseball throwing, relay basketball and perhaps other sports.

The winners, according to present arrangements, will eat pie a la mode. But the losers will dine on bread and milk.

The program starts at 7:30.

Olympics Not For U. S.

LOS ANGELES, April 3.—William M. Garland, member of the international Olympic committee, declared here today he did not believe the Olympic games of 1928 would be brought to Los Angeles because of the great expense involved and the present unstable conditions in Europe. Mr. Garland's comment was made following reports from New York that Los Angeles might take over the games that had been assigned to Holland in 1928.

Methodists Lose to U. P.'s

First United Presbyterian basketballers scored the last Sunday school league victory for the season on the First M. P. floor last night, winning from the First Methodist Episcopal passers by the score of 45 to 18.

The game was an easy victory for the United Presbyterians. They took a commanding lead at the start, scoring 15 points before their opponents could find the basket. In the first half they scored 27 points, while their opponents were making six.

In the final half the Methodists put up a better brand of basketball, outplaying their opponents at times.

Though the Methodist lads played better basketball the United Presbyterians increased their lead during the final period, having a margin of 27 points when the game ended.

Dickey for the United Presbyterians took down the scoring honors of the game, finding the baskets for 12 field goals and six fouls. Calhoun, Roberts and Shenkel also played well for the United Presbyterians.

Irwin, Perry and Karns were the best performers for the Methodists.

The Chester Presbyterians won by forfeit from the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal five.

Th lieneup:

First U. P.		First M. E.
Roberts	F	Dawson
Dickey	F	Irwin
Calhoun	C	Perry
Shenkel	G	Pyles
Curry	G	Karns

Substitution—Hoffan for Shenkel.

Field goals—Dickey 12, Calhoun 4, Roberts, Shenkel, Irwin 2, Perry 2, Karns, Dawson.

Foul goals—Dickey 6, Roberts, Calhoun, Curry, Irwin 4, Perry, Pyles.

Referee—McConville.

LOCAL PLAYER GOES TO NEWARK

It's a long jump from the "Y" industrial baseball league to the International circuit, but that's the hop that young Vern Bailey, former Laughlin, Newell, third sacker, will attempt this summer.

Bailey is scheduled to leave Saturday morning for Newark, N. J., and he will be given a trial with the International league outfit.

Bailey made connections, it is said, through the efforts of a former league performer who acted last year in the capacity of industrial league umpire here.

The former Laughlin player is only 19 years old, weighs approximately 175 pounds, throws right handed and bats either way. It is a big job that Bailey faces in landing a job right off the reel with the Newark outfit, and so it is quite possible that if he develops in the way his friends believe he will, the youth will be farmed by Newark perhaps for the present season.

EIGHT SURVIVE IN PREP GAMES

CHICAGO, April 3.—Eight teams remained in the running today when the fourth day's games of the University of Chicago's National prep school basketball tournament opened at Bartlett gymnasium here with the Torrington, Conn., and Wheeler, Miss., fives on the floor. Torrington was favored to win today's opener.

The "consolation" schedule included these games:

Fort Smith, Ark. vs. Tonopath, Nev.
Detroit vs. Montezuma, Ga.
Portland, Ore., vs. Springfield, Ohio.

Suggsetion of certain clergymen of Manchester, New Zealand, that watch-night services be held in moving picture theatres was opposed because it was claimed tha tthe ministers found the cinema more attractive than the church.

THREE CONTESTS FOR PLAID NINE

PITTSBURGH, April 3. — Followers of Carnegie Tech athletics in the east will have a chance to witness the Skibo baseball team in action the first three days of next week. Georgetown is to be met on Monday, Navy on Tuesday and St. Johns on Wednesday, the games to be played in Washington and Annapolis.

Last year the diamond squad was forced to disband after winning the first three games on its schedule. Practically the same aggregation will be found in the lineup this year, so prospects are bright for a successful season. Coach Don Blythe, a former Penn State star, while making no predictions, feels that opponents of the Tartans will find it hard sledding when they stack up against his charges.

Spring football plans have been completed and everything is in readiness to take care of a large squad immediately after the Easter vacation is over. Coaches Bob Waddell and Dr. Marks will be in charge of the boys, while Head Coach Steffen, who resides in Chicago, will be on hand the first two or three days. Spring training for the gridders was instituted here three years ago and has met with great success.

MOUNTAINEERS TO PLAY DUKES

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., April 3.—Tri-state district baseball fans will get their first taste of baseball this afternoon when West Virginia University and Duquesne University nines meet on the athletic field here at 4 p. m. The season's inaugural is the first of a two-game series and Duquesne will meet the Mountaineers again Saturday.

Today's game should be close as Jim Riley, star Duke hurler, and Captain "Trusty" Tallman, best bet of the West Virginia pitching staff, will take up the fight where they left off a year ago. In the opening game last spring Riley got the best of Tallman, but when the game ended the present Mountaineer leaded was going strong and he is anxious to continue the feud. Riley yielded only six hits for two runs last year, while Tallman was touched for 13 hits and four scores.

HILDRETH MAY MAKE SANDE AID

NEW YORK, April 3.—It was stated today on reliable authority that Earl Sande, America's premier jockey, had ridden his last race because of serious injuries sustained in a fall at Saratoga last August.

Denial, however, was made that Sande had had a "split" with Sam Hildreth, trainer for Sinclair's Rancocas stable, in the colors of which Sande rode to his greatest fame. It was said that when the jockey's riding contract expires at the end of the 1925 season, he will become Hildreth's assistant.

INDOOR GAMES ARE POSTPONED

Two "Y" industrial indoor baseball contests scheduled for tonight, have been postponed until Saturday night, on account of the "fathers and sons" program at the "Y" tonight.

Laughlin 5 and Decorators will clash at 7:30 tomorrow night. The Potters and Patterson Foundry teams will battle at 8:30.

Honolulu's new recreation center will cost $350,000.

No Other Car Delivers Such Results as These

The real reason for the remarkable Chrysler Six sales record its initial year—a volume of more than 32,000 cars—is its departure from ordinary motor car practice and performance.

Its three-inch motor gives a high speed range from 2 to over 70 miles, combined with gasoline economy safely over 20 miles per gallon.

With a touring car weight, ready for the road, of 2875 pounds, the Chrysler Six can be driven in comfort at 60 miles over rutted roads or cobbled streets. A new type of spring mounting makes it possible to take a turn at 50 miles an hour. Side-sway and road-weaving are eliminated.

The Chrysler Six adheres strictly to the soundest principles. Only the results are radical. You must ride in the car to appreciate what they are. We are eager to give you a Chrysler ride.

Want to plant a patch of potatoes? We have Early Seed Potatoes. A limited amount of Early Ohio, our own growing from certified seed last year. Also northern grown Early Rose—the two best varieties for early planting.

Plenty of home grown Potatoes for cooking and baking.

SAUSAGE—Home made Sausage—the kind you never get enough of.

CHICKENS—Plenty of farm dressed chickens for your Sunday dinner.

LUNCH MEATS—Have you tried our baked ham yet? If you try it you will quit eating boiled ham. We also have Minced Ham and Meat Loaf.

COUNTRY BUTTER—Our trade is increasing every week on Country Butter. If you like good butter you will try it. It is furnished by people having tuberculin tested cattle.

EGGS—We handle no shipped eggs, everything comes from nearby farms, and they move out so fast they do not have a chance to get stale.

APPLES—More apples of more varieties on display than anywhere else in the city.

All kinds of Fruits and Vegetables in season, at the right prices.

Come in, look around; we don't get mad if you don't buy.

Legal Notice. 91

LEGAL NOTICE

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Auditor of the City of Wellsville, State of Ohio, until 12 o'clock noon of May 1, 1925 for the purchase of Bonds of the said City of Wellsville, Ohio, in the aggregate sum of $23,616.52 dated the 1st day of October, 1924. Said bonds will be 47 in number, and numbered from one to forty seven, both inclusive.

Each of said bonds will be of the denomination of $500 each except bond number one which bond will be in the sum of $616.52 and will draw interest at the rate of 6% per annum payable semi-annually on the 1st days of October and of April of each year upon presentation and surrender of the interest coupons to be attached to said bonds.

Said bonds will be due and payable as follows bond No. 1 will be due and payable on October 1, 1925 and in like manner two of the other bonds shall be due and payable on the 1st day of October of each year thereafter until all of said bonds and the interest thereon shall be fully paid.

Said bonds are issued for the purpose of extending the time of payment of certain indebtedness created and incurred before the first day of January, 1924, which from the limit of taxation the City of Wellsville, Ohio, is unable to pay at maturity and are issued under authority of the laws of Ohio and under Section 3916 of the General Code of Ohio, and under and in accordance with a certain ordinance of the said City passed on September 2, 1924, being ordinance Number 1010, entitled an Ordinance to provide for the issuance of bonds of the City of Wellsville, Ohio, in the sum of $23,616.52, for the purpose of extending the time of payment of certain indebtedness which from its limits of taxation said City is unable to pay at maturity.

Said bonds will be sold to the highest and best bidder for not less than par and accrued interest to date of delivery and all bids to be accompanied with a certified check, payable to the Treasurer of the City in the sum of Five Hundred Dollars, upon condition that if the bid is accepted the bidder will receive and pay for such bonds as may be issued as above set forth, within ten days from the time of award, said check to be retained by the City if such condition is not fulfilled. The City of Wellsville, Ohio, reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Only unconditional bids will be received.

Bids should be sealed and endorsed "Bids for Redemption Bonds."

Head Noises or Nasal Catarrh

I want the names of 15,000 people who are suffering from catarrhal deafness, dullness of hearing or head noises. I have an original home treatment for these distressing conditions which I want you to try without cost or expense. I suffered for many years with catarrh, deafness and head noises, tried many different treatments.

DR. W. O. COFFEE
NOTED DEAFNESS AND CATARRH SPECIALIST

Had two surgical operations all of which failed to give permanent relief. I began experimenting on myself and finally found a treatment which completely healed my catarrh, restored my hearing and stopped the terrible head noises. I want you to try this splendid treatment entirely at my own expense.

15,000 Treatments This Month

I am proud of my treatment and so anxious to help others suffering with deafness, head noises or catarrh that I will have packed and ready for shipment 15,000 demonstration treatments which I will give away in the next 30 days absolutely free. I want to prove that my original home treatment will give relief from catarrhal deafness, head noises or nasal catarrh. The results are quick and convincing.

You feel the difference the first day. This treatment costs you nothing whatever. Simply send coupon or write and say that you are suffering with deafness or head noises or catarrh. I will gladly send the free treatment. It is the best treatment I have ever found in over 40 years' practice as an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist. I want every sufferer with deafness, dullness of hearing, head noises or catarrh to try it free.

Don't Neglect Deafness or Catarrh!

Catarrhal Deafness, Head Noises, and Nasal Catarrh generally grow worse when neglected. Authorities claim that ninety per cent of all deafness is primarily caused by catarrh of the head and air passages. Others state that nasal catarrh often causes indigestion, rheumatism, catarrh of the stomach, and many other diseased conditions. If you suffer from partial deafness or nasal catarrh, do not neglect this condition.

There are thousands, who are now practically stone deaf, whose hearing could no doubt have been saved had the right measures been taken in time. I have personally restored hearing in hundreds of cases, where the patients were so deaf they could hear nothing. I want to prove the value of my treatment to you entirely at my own risk and expense. I will gladly send it without cost. Just fill out and mail the coupon.

Try This Free!

I don't ask you to send one penny for this treatment. I send it free to you prepaid without cost. I am doing this to quickly introduce my original home treatment to sufferers of catarrhal deafness, head noises, or catarrh. I believe I treat more cases of deafness, head noises and catarrh than any physician in the United States. I know this treatment is the best I have ever used. Send your name and address today. State whether you have deafness or head noises or just have catarrh. This notice may not appear again so mail the coupon at once.

Profit by the Experience of Those Who Know

Feeling Fine

"I am feeling fine. I suffered from head noises, could hardly hear before I began your treatment. Now I feel well."—Joe M. of Lawrence, Mass.

Helps Her

"It has helped me. I am not troubled with head noises, and my hearing is as good as ever."—Mrs. J. B., Chicago, Ill.

Brought Back Hearing

"Your treatment has brought back my hearing. I can hear now about as good as I ever did. I want to thank you."—Mr. E. M., Houston, Texas.

Relieved in 3 Days

"I received your treatment for my catarrhal deafness and in three days' time after I began to use the treatment, my hearing commenced to come back and I feel wonderfully improved. My age is 71 years."—D. H. C., Ashland, Ala.

Hears As Well As Any One

"I can hear just as good as any one. I have no noises in my head and no dropping in my throat. My hearing was very bad to start on. You can use this letter."—Mrs. R. M. of Boulder, Colo.

FREE

Hearing Improved

"I was afflicted with the disease catarrh for ten years, had doctored with local doctors, but found no relief until I started your treatment. I had a discharge from my nose and head. Became quite deaf, but now I can hear, and my head has quit aching. I feel like a new woman. You can use this testimonial if you choose."—Mrs. C. B., Ansly, Ala.

Most Wonderful Treatment

"I received your treatment and began using it. I am here to tell you that it is the most wonderful treatment I have ever tried. I have had roaring in my head. I had the worst shortness of breath, cramps and aching in every inch of me. I feel so much better. I can see and hear better, can talk better and feel better all around."—Mrs. Ethel G., Lythia, Fla.

Now Hears Well

J. C. P. says: "I have suffered with nasal catarrh for seven or eight years, had terrible noises in my head. My hearing was seriously afflicted. It was necessary for people to speak very loud for me to hear them. I gave your treatment a trial and assure you I do not regret it, as my hearing has been restored so I can hear ordinary talk and the head noises are among the things of the past. I am 56 years old."

Send Coupon Today!

Just fill in the coupon below and I will send you a demonstration treatment by prepaid parcel post without any cost or obligation on your part. I want you to try it at once, so send the coupon today.

Dr. W. O. Coffee,
Suite 694, St. James Hotel Bldg., Davenport, Iowa.

Please send me a free treatment by prepaid parcel post. It is understood that this does not obligate me in any way. I am to pay nothing for this treatment now or at any time.
